Remaining Dec. 31, 1867 218 CAPTURED BY A Dog .- Policeman Sam. Smith, of the Third District, has a dog which is well known to almost the entire police force of the city, and frequently takes part in police operations. This morning about two o'clock a drunken man was knocked down. Policeman Smith saw the affair and immediately started after the assailant. He was accompanied by his dog. The fugitive ran through several alleys and finally got upon Delaware avenue. Smith, by falling over barrels and other obstructions, got somewhat behind and was in danger of losing his man. Calling the dog, he said: "At him, Sam!" The dog obeyed the order, and when the runawy assailant had got into another alley, out of sight of the officer, his pantaloons were seized by the dog, and he was held until Smith came up, notwithstanding the captured individual made various efforts to free himself. The fellow was then taken into custody by Smith. He gave his name as David Lee. He was taken before Alderman Morrow, add was held for assault and battery. known to almost the entire police force of the SUNDAY-SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY. - The sixteenth anniversary of the Sunday-schools of the Second Reformed Church, Seventh street, above Brown, Reformed Church, Seventh street, above Brown, was celebrated last evening. The church was crowded in all parts, the scholars occupying the middle pews and seats provided especially for them in front of the pulpit. The annual report was read by J. L. Yantine, Esq., showing that the schools were among the largest in the city. During the year about $700 were contributed for the education of a young man to the Gospel ministry. Other contributions were made to different beneated to the property of the property of the scholar scholar. volent objects. One teacher and one scholar were removed by the hand of death... The adult department is under the superintendence of Col. of Eliwood Matlack, Esq. Numerous presenta-tions were made by the different classes, many of the devices being of a magnificent character. An address was made by the Pastor, Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, and the performance on the organ and singing were very commendable.

Homicipe.-William F. Maguire, residing at No. 2211 Callowhill street, died yesterday from the effects of a beating received about two weeks sgo. It seems that the deceased was passing along Thirteenth street, above Wood, about nine o'clock in the evening, when he was attacked by two men and was knocked down and beaten. His head was badly cut and his jaw was broken. While down he was also kicked in the back. He was conveyed to his home, where he died yesterday. At the time of the occurrence James Dov creaux and John O'Nell were arrested and held to bail upon the charge of having been the assailants. O'Neill cannot be found, but Devereaux was re-arrested on a bail piece, and is now in prison. Coroner Daniels will hold an inquest in the case to morrow. the case to-morrow.

LARCENY.-A young woman, named Ann Gill, was arrested at Front and Walnut streets, yesterday afternoon, by Reserve Policeman Clark, while acting in a suspicious manner. A piece of called containing fitty-four and a half yards; was found under her cloak. This morning it was accertained that the goods had been stolen from the front of the store of Joseph Lea & Co., on Chestnut etreet, where a case was being unpacked The prisoner will have a hearing at the Central Station this afternoon.

IMPROVEMENT COMMENCED .- The eastern portion of the building on Chestnut street, west of Sixth, formerly known as Jones's Hotel, having been purchased by Messrs. Hoffman & Morwitz proprictors of the Philadelphia Demokrat, the work of alteration to make the structure suitable for a newspaper establishment was commenced yesterday. The basement and the first story are to have arched windows and door-heads, and the cornice is to be raised to add to the height of the front. The interior is to andergo material

ACCIDENT .- This morning, about half-past nine o'cleck, while John H. Riley, of the firm of Fox & Riley, Sixth street below Market, was engage i in putting up an awning on Chestnut street, below Kith, the rope by which he was tightening it gave way, precipitating him backwards into the street. His ankle was dislocated, and the back of his head was badly injured. He was removed

RELIGIOUS SERVICE.—A meeting will be held this evening at the Central Presbyterian Church, Eighth and Cherry streets, at which addresses will be delivered by Messrs. D. L. Moody, of Chicago, Judge Smith, of Boston, and others. These gentlemen have been actively identified with the Christian Convention which has just LARCENY OF MONEY: Benjamin S. Alleman was before Alderman Morrow yesterday, upon the charge of the larceny of $200. Mrs. Sheldon, residing in Glbbs' court, alleges that she placed $437 in the hands of Alleman for safekeeping. He returned all but $200, and refuses to give up that part of the deposit. He was held in $1,500 bail for trial.

Malicious Mischier.—A woman named Ann Sweeny got drunk yesterday, and amused herself by breaking the windows of houses in the neighborhood of Tenth and Locust streets. She was arrested, and after a hearing before Alderman Patchell, was sent to prison.

THE ELEVATOR. The merchants connected with the Commercial Exchange, in company with their wiver, will visit the Elevator to-morrow afternoon and witness the workings of that great establishment.

The editor of the Des Moines (Iowa) Register has been presented with a grasshopper which he says weighs three to a pound. One cabbage head makes just a nice supper for four of this sort. He is two and a half urees long, and still an infant, his wings just beginning to come out of his back. He is one of that kind that has become a burden.

Life Imsurance No feature of social economy more thoroughly illustrates the enlightened policy of the age in which we live, then the truly wonderful advances of Life Insurance -a beneficent and philanthropic system which is rapidly permeating our whole body politic, sheltering and alding alike the weak and the strong as it establishes financial credit for the business-man, aids in the education of his children, and finally supports and cherishes all he loves most dear when death has deprived them of his exertions. Life Insurance has now become a subject so momentous, that its influences are agitated in all the walks of life-from the domestic circle to the highest positions in Church and State, even to the halls of our National Legislature. And although its benefits are now so largely availed of, every instinct of suffering humanity, as well as the intuitive love for our kind, calls for its still further extension; indeed, there seems to us no sufficient reason why its advantages should not be universal. Every man, no matter how limited his means, can, if he desires, procure a policy of Life Insurance. The young man who will lay up but half a dime every day, can, at the end of the year, pay for a policy of One Thousand dollars. If he dies, even the day after the first payment is made, his mother, sister, wife, or whoever he may have made it in favor of, receives the whole amount insured for. If he survives, after he has made four or five annual payments, with his policy alone for security he can borrow of the Company an amount at least equal to the total he has paid in, and thus aid in establishing himself in business, or in the selection of a house to live in.
An annuity policy gives the same advantages, and further, on the person arriving at the age agreed upon, he receives the whole amount of his policy in cash. But this is only a few of the many valuable benefits of Life Insurance; showing, through all, that it can fairly be claimed that there is no other plan where so small an amount of money can be so securely and profitably invested. All these facts have, by experience, now become so potent, that incorporations for effecting Life Insurance have largely multiplied during the half dozen years, and as all are required to make authentic statements at the close of the fiscal year, their solidity and general characteristics are always readily attainable. These statements for the year 1867 have been completed with a short time, and in looking over the lists we are much pleased to find that our old established favorite-The Knickerbocker Life Insurance Company of New York—still maintains its exalted position among the leading associations of this class, not only of this country but of the world. Indeed during the last year, its income was ever two million dollars; and at the present time its cash assets are nearly double that sum. Official reports place the Knickerbocker at the head of all other companies in the United States, in the increase of business in 1867, and only two or three companies (and those many years older) out of over sixty in the United States did a larger business last year-10,300 new policies having been issued, insuring $32,000,000. This remarkable success has only been achieved through able, skilful and prudential management of its untiring President, Erastus Lyman, and his associates, coupled with a liberal and equitable plan of procedure, which mutually protects all interests concerned, those of the assured as well as the assurers. Since the year 1867, the Knickerbocker Life has originated and introduced several new and important features, some of which show a spirit of liberality heretofore imparalleled in cases of this description. Among other measures, it makes no restrictions in regard to business occupations, gives almost unlimited privileges to travel, allows a residence in all the civilized portions of the United States, and gives the benefit of the non-forfeiture principle in the most desirable form. It issues all kinds of first-class policies, in amounts from one thousand to twenty-five thousand dollars on a single life, and at rates quite as reasonable as those of any other leading company, while here the assured participate in the profits, which are paid in cash, or in additions to the policy-as agreed upon. The dividends of this Company have amounted to as high as forty-five per cent. per annum, yet it has already paid losses amounting to a total of over one million dollars, which has been divided among the widows and orphans of those who had forcthought enough to appreciate the vast benefits of Life Insurance. Those who have any connection with the Knickerbocker Life, invariably pro claim it among the soundest and most reliable

Life Incorporations extant. In Philadelphia the name, "Knickerbocker," is a household word. The never-tiring Agents and Managers of the Philadelphia Branch, the Messrs Paul & Hagmeyer, at 237 and 239 Dock street, have always done their full share towards the wonderful prosperity of the Knickerbocker Life Insurance Company of New York, which now stands so high in this community.
