PALATIAL BUSINESS ESTABLISHMENT.-The westward flow of the tide of business is carrying with it some of the establishments which have been landmarks down town for half a century.

Among the oldest of these is the well-knewn

Kerr's China Hall, with which all our readers are well acquainted in its old locality on Chest-nut street, opposite the State House. Forty years ago when the senior Mr. Kerr began busnut street, opposite the state House.

years ago when the senior Mr. Kerr bogan business in that locality, there was but one store further up the street, and it was 'thought he had taken a bold step; now, however, so, rapid has been the onward sweep of the tide, his sons in order to meet the increased demand upon their resources, and to procare an eligible location have been compelled to remove to No. 1218 Chestnut street. Here they have located in what may justly be termed a marble palace—is orce, the superior to which cannot be found, outside of Philadelphia, in the world. It reaches from Chestnut to Sansom street, having a depth of 240 feet, with a width of 30 feet, and is completely fitted up throughout in the most elegant manner. One entire side of the salessoom upon the first floor is devoted to flue chinaware, vases, ornaments and exquisite works of art, arranged ornaments and exquisite works of art, arranged in cases of black walnut and plate glass. The other side is given to glassware of every imagiother side is given to glassware of every imaginable shape, quality and style. Messrs. Kerrhave an entirely new stock of all kinds of goods in their line, and, as they purchase in all cases directly from first hands, they are enabled to offer their goods to their customers at wholesale prices, and this advantage is given to the smallest buyer, who will receive as much attention as he who gives the largest order. A portion of this New Chra Hall is devoted to the decoration of thina and to engraving upon glass, portion of this New Chira Hall is devoted to the decoration of china and to engraving upon glass, in both of which branches of art the Messrs. Kerr have acquired an enviable reputation. The delicacy and beauty of some of their work is not surpassed by the most celebrated European houses. This enlargement of their establishment by the Messrs. Kerr is the direct and legitimate result of that energy and enterprise in their business which have made them as famous and popular in years gone by. The public waited upon them, knowing that at China Hall the smallest want could be satisfactorily supplied. The Messrs. Kerr carry with them to their palace, for such it is, the same anxiety to please their customers, and with their enormously increased facilities they feel confident that their business will grow in exact proportion.

their business will grow in exact proportion. Their success has been identified with the prosperity of the city, and their enterprise in adding another magnificent establishment to those which already adorn Philadelphia entitles them to the cordial support and encouragement of our liberal REPUBLICAN INVINCIBLES. - The Executive Committee of the Republican Invincibles held a meeting last evening at the rooms of the National Union Club. An election was held for Marshals. Benjamin L. Taylor was chosen Chief

Whereas: The defeat of the Republican party, in the City of Philadelphia, in its last municipal election, is attributable solely to the fact that the nominations in the city ware not with the wishes of the masses; and whereas the less of the city involved also the loss of the State of Pennsylvania, in the game campaiga; and whereas the party has been controlled by a "ring." injurious and fatal to its success; and whereas the Republican Invincibles of Philadelphia enjoy a deserved and wide-spread fame and reputation for their valuable and indefatigable services gendered in all previous campaigns, in which they took part, both at home and in neighbering States and cities; therefore.

JUVENILE HOUSE BREAKERS .- Mrs. Withers, who resides on Barker street, went out to work yesterday and locked up her house. During her absence four boys broke into the house and completely ransacked it. Beds were torn up, closets broken open, and bureaus examined. A number of articles were carried off. Subsequently two of the Juvenile thieves were arrested. They gave their names as Jas. O'Neill and Francis Stock, and their ages at 12 and 13 years. A shawl atolen from the house was found at the home of one of the boys. The accused were held for a further hearing by Alderman Jones.

MR. A. D'HUYVETTER'S SALE OF HIGH CLASS Pictures will be commenced this evening, at quarter before eight o'clock, at Scott's Art Gallery, 1020 Chestnut street, when about one-half of the catalogue will be disposed of, embracing works of art by the most celebrated artists of the English, Flomish, French and Dusseldorf schools, all of which have been selected with great care by Mr. A. D'Huyvetter during his recent visit among the studies of these artists himself. The sale will be continued to morrow evening.

DISHONEST DOMESTIC .- Sarah Durkin, alias Kate Smith, was arrested this morning by Detectives Brown and Fuller. For three weeks past she has been living as a domestic in the house of Mr. Story, No. 2102 Spring Garden street, and during that time has been engaged in carrying off silk dresses and various other articles. Some of the stolen goods were recovered. The accused is known to the police as an old offender, and it is thought that other charges will be brought against her. She will have a hearing at the Central Station this afternoon.

UNPROVERED ASSAULT.-Thomas Duffy was before Alderman Senix this morning, upon the charges of assault and battery and carrying concealed deadly weapons. It seems that yesterday two men were standing on Richmond street, engaged in conversation. Duffy passed along, and, without any provocation, struck one of the men a violent blow behind the ear. He was arrested and on his person was found a seven-shooter. Duffy was held in $1,500 bail for trial.

GOING TO NEW YORK .- The Americus Club, located at Fifth and Walnut streets, intends visiting New York on the Fourth of July next, during the session of the National Democratic Convention, and has already secured suitable quarters.
This club is purely a social organization. The Keystone and Young Men's Keystone Clubs also intend visiting New York on the occasion referred to, and are about completing arrangements for their visit.

ROBBERY. The glass in the window of the store of Mr. Moore, No. 129 South Eighth street, was broken open about half-past ten o'clock last night and fifteen opera-glasses abstracted. Mr. Moore had closed the store but a short time, and while opposite observed two men standing in front of the window. He crossed the street, and then the men ran. He then discovered that the window

DEATH OF A POLICEMAN .- Daniel McVaugh, policeman of the Eighteenth District, died yesterday, at his residence in Nicetewn. About ave months ago, while in the line of his duty, he contracted a cold which finally resulted in con-sumption of the bowels and caused death. Mr. McVaugh was appointed in June last, and was a faithful officer. He leaves a wife and several

THE PASSOVER. - The Jewish Passover, or "feast of unleavened bread," as it is called by some, was inaugurated on Monday evening by appropriate ceremonies in the various synagogues of the city. In Orthodox families, this restival, commemorative of the exodus from Egypt, is continued for eight days.

IMPROVEMENT COMMENCED.—The extensive building No. 30 South Seventh street has been leased by the Morning Post and Evening Star. This morning workmen commenced to make the alterations necessary to make the structure suitable for newspaper publication offices.

DEATH OF MR. L. T. ESLING .- Mr. L. Theodore Esling, a well-known citizen of the Thirteenth Ward, died yesterday. Mr. Esling was an active member of the Republican party, and has filled several offices under the federal and city govern-ments. He was in the 43d year of his age.

The Rights of Skill Defended. [Editorial from Church Union, April 4, 1868.]

The religious papers have raised the question Arc medical advertisements proper for a religious newspaper, and if so, where shall the line be drawn which shall exclude some and take in others? This question we propose to discuss as we do all other questions in a perfectly frank and fearless manner. We have recently printed a whole page, running through three issues of one paper, of the advertise-ment of Dr. H. T. Helmbold's Buchu, and we did so with our eyes open; and our readers have a right to know all about how we do such business as this especially as it concerns them very materially. We are advocates of the good, the true and the beautiful, and most of all we profess to be guided in all things by the life and teachings of our Master. So we must be called to a strict account for all that we do. In taking such an advertisement as the celebrated diaretic which has been in use more than two hundred years, and has been presented in some form or another by almost every educated physician of the reguar practice from time when the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, we were led to ask: I. Not what the ever-differing doctors say, for who shall decide when doctors disagree. II. Nor, what does public opinion think, when public opinion is often an ass and knows nothing but obstinate prejudice and what its corrupters have taught it.

III. Nor have we asked what the New York Observer thought of it, probably the keenestscented organ in our land of what will please the respectable class.

IV. Nor have we been most solemnly impressed by the dicta of religious exquisites, ecclesiastic Pickwicks, affected prudes, or, in short, men who are possessed of every kind of sense but common sense, and of every kind of opinions but their own opinions. None of these have we appealed to to settle this difficult question. Nor have we sought to get hold of Dr. Helmbold's money by opening up our broad pages

most magnanimously so long as the pay was good, and then when the cash was paid in forgot to say a word in his favor. We do not separate between our business and our editorial columns. They are all for Christ or nene. We have let no side-door arrangements run this advertisement into our business columns while we have been singing psalms and praying God in our sanctum. There is not an inch of the Church Union to let for anything which we cannot with all our soul commend. Keeping, then, ever before us this: What is the Buchu, and to what use does Dr. Helmbold propose to put it? we have decided the case unanimously n favor of its admission. Nay, more, we would do anything in our power to scatter its blessed influence for alleviating pain all over the world, not out of our regard for Mr. Helmbold, much as we respect him as an honorable and an upright man, but because it is every way a beneficent institution—and we say an institution, for, we take it, two hundred years of successful use of this wonderful diuretic has done something to establish it as an institution. I. We have advertised the Buchu because it is not a patent medicine. Mind, we do not say that all patent medicines should be excluded, but the objection which generally lies against a patent medicine is found in almost every regular physician's mind. Against all discoveries or inventions in medicine kept secret, the doctors inveigh most bitterly. They think he who makes a discovery which is likely to prolong life ought to out with it. They very justly think no man has a right to make money at the peril of death to any one. If somebody should discover an infallible cure for the cholera or the consumption, what a monster would he be to sell his knowledge and let thousands go down to death without the information. Here lies the incorrigible prejuc putented methods of treating disease. Now, we believe nine out of every ten persons that you shall next meet who have heard of the Buchu. will call it a patent medicine. It is nothing of the sort. There is no secret about it: every ingredient or element is known. Dr. Helmbold will take pleasure in telling you all about his celebrated specific, and will show you how and of what it is compounded. Nay, more, thousands before Dr. Helmbold have distilled these same Buchu leaves and other ingredients. The only thing that Dr. Helmbold gets pay for is his skill. And now, O ye whited sepulchres of the press that have thundered apostolic vengeance on all papers that have given currency to this theory, behold the pith of the whole matter. Dr. Helmbold has perfected the art of distilling the Buchu in vacuo so consummately that no man can excel-this, and nothing more, he can distil as well as anybody else can. He does it in vacuo -just as everybody burns coffee-and preserves all the healing qualities intact, so that no one can excel him. For this skill he receives patronage, has the entire and cordial support of everybody connected with this paper, and is doing a vast amount of business even in these dull times. There are a thousand other reasons why we like to recommend the Buchu, but they all come down to this one point, skill. Now stand up, supercilious exquisite, and let us hear what you have to say. You tell us the Buchu cures some diseases that are the effects of immoral lives. That is true. Some will rinse you, worn-out roue, and make you every whit whole of this same disease by cold water, they think. But will you cry out against water because it does this? Shall the innocent Buchu wilt its leaves in shame because man hath sinned? Did not the Master heal all manner of diseases? Shall we turn up our fastidious nasals at the fact that the effects of crime, when they can be stayed in their horrors, are made public? We have yet to learn from what verse and chapter of Scripture to quote that men may not heal others of their fellow-men of any disease if they can. Perhaps our Pharisaic friends will quote John 5: 4, and point to Bethesda's waters. Hear the words, "Whosoever then first after the troubling of the waters stepped in was made whole of whatsoever disease he had." Were Bethesda's waters guilty of immoral crime? Was the great and damning sin of self-indulgence to lie against the good name of her pure waters, because she was troubled to heal of unmentionable diseases? Do you suppose, daft reader, that they had no such diseases in those days? Is there one single solltary chapter or verse in the whole bible against devising any and every means for quenching and stanching the dreadful ravages of all disease? Where is the Christian man that dare stand up boldly and gave his name to the public as assailing the character or reputation of any man for applying the distilled virtues of the Buchu to the most dreadful diseases? Come, hypocrisy, shut thy slanderous lips, and let justice be done. Mind, we do not here admit that the Buchu is limited to this one disease. But we do say, if it be true, it is all the more beneficent in its mission. There is not one motive that should actuate a man to act the part of a Christian that does not call upon him to commisserate the condition of any man, that he may be healed of whatever disease he has. It will again be said: "But the Buchu is a quack medicine, and he who vends it is a quack." Now, Webster has fortunately settled this question quite satisfactory. A quack is "a boastful pretender to medical skill—an empirie; one who boastfully pretends to knowledge of any kind not possessed." Now, in the first place, Dr. H. T. Helmbold is a druggist-nothing more nor less. He sells everything in tha line needed. A quack is one who treats diseases. We doubt whether Dr. Helmbold ever prescribes for any one. He sells a very excellent medicine, called Extract of Buchu. Thousands on thousands use it by the advice of regular physicians. He knows how to distill it, and all the world knows it is a good diurctic, and hence we cannot see where the objection lies. Some say he who sells it is a quack. As well say a man who sold areenic for rats was a murderer because the man blundered and fed it to his family. Quackery has nothing to do with it. Again you say: Well, all your reasoning may be very nice, but if you are wise you will let it alone." Let it alone? Let alone a thing you confess to be no patent medicine? Nothing but a beneficent and healing good thing prepared in the most skillful manner, and for some of the worst diseases man is heir to? Let it alone, prude, because i suggests thoughts of things that young people only think of? Have you educated your children, father, mother, or guardian, so that they are to be left to find out for themselves these things? Will you carefully lead them along moderately dangerous ways, and leave the dear ones to wander alone on slippery crags? Ah! will you tell your children none of the effects of sin? Shall a false prudery shut your lips so that more shall go down to hell-living and earthy-a hell of passion and lust, and all its terrible consequences, by ignorance of the laws of God and nature, and the proper preventives? . There are no things secret or shamefaced when we come to the pure and renovated nature. We know naught of the French system of education, we noble Saxons. Out with it, parent, if you have any plain truth to tell that son. Perhaps you can save him. So let us in the good old Bible way, and in good old Bible words know no prudery when truth must speak. Let it alone? No. If it be a truth, readers of The Church Union should have it, and if they care not for the whole truth, they had better stop this paper at once. We are slowly and somewhat surely developing a mighty constituency in this land that do not fear to hear anything that is true. They demand of us to let nothing wrong alone, and to let no right thing be crushed down. Such a true and good thing we think the Buchu to be. It is a skillfully prepared medicine, used all over this world for certain diseases, involving the use of a diuretic. As such we welcome and commend it. The prejudices-of-bigots, the envy of quacks, the hungry and lean practice of small doctors, the jealousy of papers that have applied in vain for the advertisement in question, and were refused because their narrow views had been suitably rewarded by a contracted constituency, the fury of the passioned prudery that dies of evil thoughts and utiers only sweet words, and the ignorance of men, we expect will continue against us. But we have adopted this motto: "Do right, if the heavens fall." We believe the Bushu to be a good thing, and we commend it. CITY NOTICES.

The President thanked him for his offer, and kindly suggested to him to change his style of dress when delivering his speeches, and as a hint in the right direction, mentioned Charles Stokes & Co.'s First-class Clothing House, under the Continental Hotel, Philadelphia, as the place where he could be well suited. well suited.
