The engraving has been made from Mr. Mar- shall's own painting, and gives, with striking fidelity, all the fine points of that great work. In the execution of this portrait the artist had unu- sual facilities for becoming acquainted with his illustrious subject, and obtained numerous sit- tings. His object was not to produce simply a likeness of General Grant; but to represent the features of his conntenance accurately, with their best and most characteristic expression. As a portrait of General Grant, it differs widely from all others; but the publishers believe that it is at once the best and the truest portrait of him; and, as corroborating this opinion, they invite atten- tion to the following testimonials from persons well qualified by acquaintance, tasto and culture, to prononce upon the merits of this engraving as a portrait, and as a work of art: (Fron Mrs. Grant.)	Teins-One third may remain for four years.
