Mr. Johnson liberty, to recommence their rascally work; Public Sales by Order of the Orphans' master are irretrievably ruined. Mr. Johnson has the Circean faculty of utterly perverting the nature of those who yield to his persuasions. It is only safe to be his enemy. General Schofield bids fair to be the latest victim. Simultaneously with his nomination to the War Office, he gives expression to his known residue to the nature of those of Vivoletic factors and the readiness with which frauds upon the revenue are compounded, and the wrong-doers permitted to slip through the meshes of the law, has made the collection of the internal revenue a farce and encouraged villainty by the wholesale. But the pardonanimosity to the new Constitution of Virginia by issuing an order postponing the election until June next, upon a plea that will not agencies that does no thinking, sometimes commits queer freaks, and one of the queerest of them came to light during the present week. It seems that some months since one Arthur has joined himself to the Democratic Pehraim and his idols, and the Senate will 'let him alone," at least as far as the War Department is concerned.

It is to be sincerely regretted that this last piece of insolence on the part of the President was possible. It would have been far better for the country and for the interests of justice. was possible. It would have been far better for the country and for the interests of justice if he could have been suspended from the exercise of the high prerogatives of his office.

The attitude of General Schofield does not in any degree lessen the aggravation of the President's action. This officer has been in Washington during the greater part of the last fortnight, and has held frequent interviews with Mr. Johnson; whether he came to the capital prepared to offer himself as the ally of the great criminal, does not appear. But his record in the past as a loyal and efficient soldier, induces the belief that he is only a recent convert to the creed of the latter-day Democracy. APELL 24—The gold market has been drooping to-day, and the fluctuations were from 140 to 139, with the closing transactions at the lowest point touched. This depression was owings mainly to sales of coin by the Government, and the weakening of the market for foreign exchange. I came were made without interest, and at 1 (34 fer cent for carrying. The gross clearings amounted to $50,00; 60; the gold balance to $1,00; 60; and the currency balances to $2,566,60; With respect to the Treasury gold sales there is no good reason why these should not be made publicly by the department itself, thus saving the large amount which, under the prevent system, is paid in commission. Money was in ample supply up to the close at seven per cent., with not a few transactions, where the borrowers were first class, at six. In discounts there was a very limited business transacted, and the best grade of commercial paper was rated at 762 per cent, on the street. The return flow of currency from the interior is gradually increasing, and the indications are that after next week money will be both cheap and abundant.

The roteck market was somewhat drooping and unsettled until after the second board, when it took a sharp upward turn, in consequence of Mr. Drew having been even walking through Broad street. This was a simple circumstance of itself, but the bulls accepted it as a straw in their favor, and acted accordingly. Mr. Drew wifter leaving the street returned to Jersey City, where Mr. Eldridge, the president, and Mr. Fisk, still remain and the triends of Mr. Drew deny that he has changed his attitude toward his co-directors. titude toward his co-directors General Schofield-Charges Preferred in Washington, a few days since, preferred charges against Gen.
