substantial, neat and commodious brick dwellings, of which there were erected, last year, between three and four thousand. A table compiled from official reports, lately published in these columns, shows that there are, in the corporate limits of Philadelphia, 101,008 dwellings, independent of other kinds of buildings of which 80.304 are of the apple of Ulingia for his babtingt indust. ing in the city.

1830 .. 167.325..... 408,762 1850 ..... houses were never in such great demand and rents were never so high as they are at pres-ent. If the whole number of dwellings erected in 1868 shall reach five thousand, as now seems probable, they will accommodate only about twenty-five thousand people, and the new supply of dwellings will still fall short of the new demand. That this rapid increase should be going on in a year of merce, and at the same time stimulated man-ufactures. More recently the discovery of oil in Western Pennsylvania, which finds its best and most convenient Eastern market here, has extended our commerce and added largely to the work is not new likely even to be decided.

One story has it that General Rousseau is going to re-licye General Buchanan of the command of the Fifth Military District, as General McDowell is intended for another field of duty. This solution, however, is not accepted by the Radicals as suffi-cient to account for the grave and protracted in-trylews that are now going on between the President and Gen. Rousseau. Another whisper that has been passing around to-day, that the headquarters of the Fifth United States cavalry and the company of that regiment of druty here are soon to be changed to another pest of duty, seems to meet with a larger share of credence among them.
