New Hampshire Republican Convention. (Special Despatch to the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.) CONCORD, N. H., May 5.—A delegate Republican Convention met here at Phoenix Hall to-day. There was a large attendance. Hon. Mason W. Tappan, of Bradford, was chosen President. He made a stirring address, emphasizing General Grant highly, and stated that whoever was elected Vice President, he would not attempt to Johnsonize the Republican party. Several despatches were read from Republican Congressmen, Washburn, Eli, Benton, Stevens and others, pending the close of the trial, the removal of Johnson, and the inauguration of Wade. The following was from General Butler:

WASHINGTON, May 4th, 1868.—Hon. Orlando Stearns, Concord, N. H.: The removal of the Great Obstruction to peace and quiet is certain. Wealth and Prosperity are sure to come with the apple blossom. "BENJ. F. BUTLER." The following resolutions were presented: Resolved, That the Republicans of New Hampshire hereby reaffirm their perfect confidence in Gen. U. S. Grant, whose military and political record has proved an insurmountable barrier to Executive usurpation and treachery, and confirmed our faith in his patriotism, his sagacity, and his pre-eminence among the highest officers in the gift of the American people. Resolved, That the Republicans of New Hampshire heartily endorse the action of the Representatives in Congress, who have impeached Andrew Johnson, and the bringing to the bar of the Senate, for trial, that great apostate, Andrew Johnson, and send greetings to their countrymen, Aaron Lincoln and W. Patterson, feeling confident that they will aid in finishing up the work so gloriously begun, to stay, and that they shall rejoice with joy inexpressible when the usurper is dethroned from the Presidential chair, and that tried and devoted patriot, B. F. Wade, shall become the occupant of the White House, to remain till succeeded by our great Captain, U. S. Grant. The four delegates elected to attend the Chicago Convention were Elijah M. Tappan, of Bradford, Charles B. Faulkner, of Keene, Wm. Chandler, of Concord, and J. H. Bailey, of Portsmouth; with D. H. Buff, Henry L. McFarland, B. F. Whedde and Geo. Harriman as alternates.

The Impeachment Trial. (Special Despatch to the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.) WASHINGTON, May 5.—Mr. Bingham in continuation said: Every bill which shall pass Congress, with or without the President's consent, is a law. It is in vain to say that only constitutional laws are binding. That can only be decided by the Supreme Court. The laws must be presumed to be binding until otherwise adjudged by competent authority. Why do the President's counsel claim that he may adjudge every law? Consider, from the operations of the President's mind, what will be its operations if this claim to decide upon the validity of all laws is now conceded by you. He is capable of much originality in this way. May he not think that every statute of yours infringes upon some prerogative of his? This is the discretion which clothes the Executive with more than kingly prerogative. It places the servant above the master, the created above the creator. The people will never submit to such an usurpation. They know that an Executive is created to execute the law and nothing else. The counsel need not talk about the danger to flow from the omnipotence of Congress. The managers have not claimed omnipotence for Congress. What remains, there is in this term? What does the omnipotence of Congress mean, when Congress creates and the people and Congress from the people fresh every two years? It is not like a Parliament of a long duration in a hereditary monarchy. If Congress grasps too much power, in the name of the answer for it let them answer, as they must, to the people, and not to the President. It was well to intimate that these articles of impeachment were committed to a spirit of haste. It was inadvisable upon the Senate in Court in not concurring with his action in regard to the Department of War, to insinuate that such action unfitted them to sit in judgment upon this case. Mr. Bingham then recited different charges of violation of the Constitution and the Civil Tenure-of-office bill, consisting to prevent the execution of the acts of Congress, &c. These several crimes are impeachable. The Constitution makes them impeachable for maladministration. Are these violations of the law, this maladministration, these high crimes and misdemeanors? It is proposed that if the facts were found as charged the President cannot be punished, because he has a right to construe the laws. There is no restraint upon the President over the Tenure-of-office bill beyond the power of Congress. His only power is jointly with the Senate and depends exclusively upon the provisions of the existing law. No distinction between the office and the person who holds it will avail. This is settled by the act of 1867. Mr. Bingham read the Civil Tenure-of-office bill and explained its provisions. There is no escape from the provisions of this law. It cannot be urged that heads of departments appointed by the President are exempt by an act. When the Senators may have said that Mr. Stanton refused to resign they would be content with his removal, the facts had not developed themselves which made it necessary that the War Office should remain in his control. But the President is conclusive as to Mr. Stanton's being included by this case, for he himself issued an order suspending him under this very act. He quotes the words of the statute when he suspended him. He thought he was within the statute when he reported to the Senate that he had not revoked the suspension. His letter to Secretary McCulloch was a full recognition of the fact that Mr. Stanton was within the provisions of this act. The President cannot plead error of judgment when he said to himself: "I will disobey the law if the Senate non-concur and then sit in judgment on it." The crime charged against him in the 11th article is that he had not prevented Mr. Stanton's resuming the functions of his office, in violation of the Tenure-of-office act. There is no justification that Mr. Stanton had become disqualified according to the terms of the law. Mr. Bingham spoke with distinctness and effect, and was followed with marked attention both by the Senators and the opposing counsel. Messrs. Groesbeck and Evans followed every word with evident interest. Mr. Bingham announced that he expected to finish to-day at quarter past two the Senate took a recess. Mr. Bingham, after the recess, began by enlarging the character and public service of Hon. E. M. Stanton. He said he agreed with the counsel on one point, that unconstitutional law was no law, but it is not void for Congress, for the Executive, for the courts or for the people, until decided to be unconstitutional in the mode and manner provided by law. Mr. Bingham, finding that his increasing hoarseness would make it fatiguing to close during the day, came to take an hour and a half to-morrow in summing up. In continuing his argument he said the President knew that if he prevented Mr. Stanton from resuming his office, the President would be responsible for the ousted Secretary to test the law. Any boy should know that. This pretence of the President that the object was to test the law is a fraud. He has already avowed that his object was to keep Mr. Stanton out. If he had kept out, the question could not have been got into the courts. [CORRESPONDENCE OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

CITY BULLETIN. Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company The Annual Meeting A VERY LARGE ATTENDANCE INTERESTING ANNUAL REPORT The annual meeting of the stockholders of this company was held this morning at the Board of Trade rooms. The attendance was very large. Caleb Cook, Esq., was called to the chair, and Mr. F. Mitchell was appointed secretary. The annual report of the company is a document of great length, and shows in every detail the affairs and operations of the company. The shipments of coal during the year 1867 amounted to 1,006,604 tons and 17 cwt., which is 59,638 tons less than was carried in 1866. The total amount of freight carried both ways on the Lehigh Canal during the year was 1,307,936 tons, against 1,291,607 tons in 1866. The production of coal from the company's mines reached 389,408 tons and 2 cwt., which is 133,111 tons and 6 cwt. less than was produced in 1867. The profits for the year, from all sources, amounted to $754,367 29. Deducting for tax interest, &c., leaves a balance of $61,570 15 only, which is the net profit for the year.
