The President has been impeached and tried for the violation of a certain law, for his indecent attacks upon Congress in his speeches of 1866, and for his interference with the laws of reconstruction. The facts charged in the indictment have all been clearly made out. The only attempt at an essential defence has been the plea that he had a right to violate the law, to abuse Congress and to obstruct discovery and influence, deprive all loyal men to disgrace the Presidential office until the close of his official term, he will succeed in completing the crippling of the business of the country and in ruining honest men; while he will make a general jail-delivery of all convicted felons within his reach, restore blood - stained traitors to power and influence, deprive all loyal men. late the law, to abuse Congress and to obstruct power and influence, deprive all loyal men late the law, to abuse Congress and to obstruct reconstruction. Under the rules of the Senate the President profession of the can call a Senator to the Chair for one day, but it seems to be quite generally conceded that he could be authorized to fill the chair in the same manner for a longer specified period. The theory is advanced in the discussion of this subject that the presidency officer of the Senate is only an officer in the meaning of the Constitution, where it speaks of his succession to the Presidency, by virtue of his relation to the Senate as a Senator, though the President pro tempore has been held to be an officer since the first Congress, and upon that construction was by law made a possible successor to the Presidency in case of a vacancy.
