SACRED SILENCE. Never with blast of trumpets And the charlot wheels of flame Do the servants and sons of the Highest His oracles proclaim; But when grandest truths are uttered And when holicst depths are stirred, When our God himself draws nearest. When our God himself draws nearest, The still, small voice is heard. He has scaled His own with silence : His years that come and go, His years that come and go, Bringing still their mighty measures Of glory and of woe, — Have you heard one note of triumph Proclaim their course begun? One voice or bell give tidings

When their ministry was don Unheralded and unheeded His revelations come, His prophets before their scorners Stand resolute, yet dumb; ' But a thousand years of silence— And the world falls to adore. And kies the feet of the martyrs

Shall I have a part in the labor. In the silence and the might Of the plans Divine, etcrnal, That he opens to my elght? In the strength and the inspiration that His crowned and chosen know?

It cracified before!

O well might my darkest sorrow nto songs of triumph flow For I hear in this sacred stillness

The fail of angelic feet,— I feel white hands on my forehead, With a benediction sweet:— They say to me, "Labor in slience— For dearer to God are the songs Of one carnest and loving spirit Than the pæans of joyfurthrongs."

The rivulet sweetest murmurs Afar in the forest glade, And the nightingale wildest warbles From depths of leafy shade; So the poet sings most divinely From the noisy crowd apart, And the lays most worthy of laurels Are those he hides in his heart.

O. I hear in this sacred stillness

O, I hear in this secret stimess
The tail of angelle feet,
I feel white hands on my forchead,
With a benediction sweet;
No echo of worldly tumult
My beautiful vision mars;
This silence itself is music,
Like the silence of the stars !

Some Account of a Slight Mistake. BY JOHN QUILL.

heavy father; thrashed as a false lover, and run away from by people who regarded me as the ghost of some dead man or other. And now here is a woman who swears I am her truant husband, and who has pro-claimed the fact so loudly that there is a fair prospect of my serving out a sentence in jail for the crime of bigamy. I was sitting in the parlor of the hotel at Oldcastle, Delawarc, the other end of the room. Directly she turned around, looked at me for a minute, and with a wild cry of delight sprang forward, flung her arms around my neck and kissed me about sixty-four times.
