LETTER FROM A PHILADELPHIA "POLYFECHNIC."

CAMP AT "BIG MEADOWS," ON SOUTH BITTER CREEK, NEAR LA CLEDE STAGE STATION, DA-KOTA TERRITORY, May 4, 1868.—We are camped in the month of a very wild and beautiful canon, having finished one section of the road, and are waiting for further orders. Rest comes very acceptable to us after having located sixty-eight miles of line, besides ten more of side line, for the contractors to select from, in several tough

We commenced work on the 25th of March, and did not miss a single day, except at noon on one day, when a snow storm came up and we had to wait for the squall to blow over, until the 23d of April, when we intersected with the line of the next party ahead of us. No other party has done so much work as ours and in consequence we feel quite proud and worthy of running the preliminary line through Oregon.

The ground we have been over, as a general The ground we have been over, as a general thing, was quite even, but in some places we had to pass through wild broken canons, cross abrupt ridges, and wade through soft and deep alkali bottoms, causing considerable trouble to find a bottoms, causing considerable trouble to find a bottoms, causing considerable trouble to find a line of the proper grade. On this road, in this matter, we are confined to certain limits, as a grade over 75 feet to the mile, or a cutting or fill of 25 to 30 feet for forty stations, would cause dismay among the contractors. But our line has none of those formidable features, owing to the skill of Colonel Hudnutt, our Chief Engineer, as the highest grade is nowhere 50 feet to the mile, and the cuttings and fillings are comparatively light. About 42 miles from where we the mile, and the cuttings and fillings are com-paratively light. About 42 miles from where we began, we crossed the range of mountains that divide the waters that flow to the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. Our level notes showed the highest points to be 7,101.9 feet above tide level. The summit grade of the road is where the line runs over the Black Hills, an eastern spur of the Rocky Mountains, equal to 8,235 feet above the Rocky Mountains, equal to 3,255 feet above tide.

The nature of this country is such that very little skill will be required in constructing the road, for tunneling, extensive bridges, &c., are avoided, even at the expense of lengthening the road. Whatever bridges are to be made will be after the "Howe-truss" plan, or simple trestling. This region for many miles exhibits splendid views of cretaceous rock. I have noted large numbers of iron and coal beds near the line, which, I think, belong to the miocene tertiary period; also, interesting clay formations. There are very fine examples of stratification exposed to view on the brow of the range of bluffs that forms the canon that we are camped in, and in forms the canon that we are camped in, and in several places brown coal can be seen cropping out.

The journey we made to Rock Creek in the snow storm has been surpassed many times since by those of greater difficulty on account of bad weather and of greater length. We think nothing of tramping from eighteen to twenty miles at a time, carrying arms as a safeguard against the noble Red Men, who, strange to say, have a great weakness for our back-hair, but as we white men are very sensitive on this point, we shall not gratify this desire to add to their torsorial collection. There are three parties camped here together, with their escort of soldiers, called by us "dough boys," waiting for further orders.

Col. Hudnutt has received instructions that his party is to go west of Green River. It is our Col. Hudnutt has received instructions that his party is to go west of Green River. It is our earnest hope that we are to go through Oregon. I see Harris every day, and it does me good to have the society of a fellow-polytechnic. I cannot say that I am happily situated in the matter of agreeable associates, but I try to overlook all that is unpleasant, with the hope that better times and more polished society await me.

I am glad to hear that so many of the class have found employment. There is plenty to do

I am glad to hear that so many of the class have found employment. There is plenty to do for us all. I hope the class of '68 may be as successful as my class has been. I think collegebred men are steadily gaining ground, but it makes me feel sorry to see ignorant men taking the places of those who have worked for them. With many wishes for the success of '68 and the College in general, believe me to be Respectfully yours,

P. S.—Later, May 5.—To-day we have received orders to proceed to Fort Bridger, Utah Territory, from there to telegraph instructions to Mr. Blickensdufer, Division Engineer of the Salt Lake Section. We feel glad to go westward. A long journey of 155 miles is before us. The only thing we fear is a bad road, owing to the effect of this day's snow storm.

NEW JERSEY MATTERS.

POLITICAL -The political campaign in South Jersey appears to be commenced in a spirit of warm carnestness and determination. The Re-publican party have become thoroughly aroused publican party have become thoroughly aroused to action, and conscious of the vital interests at stake, have set out early and vigorously to battle for their principles. With such names as Gen. U. S. Grant, for President, Hon. Schuyler Colfax, for Vice President, Cornelius Ward, for Governor, and Hon. William Moore, of Atlantic county, for Congress, it is believed that New Jersey will be snatched from copperhead rule, as the six lower counties have the elements to carry the State. All it needs is a full ments to carry the State. All it needs is a full and earnest canvass, and the day will be ours. The good and powerful names presented to the people by the ChicagolConvention form a tower of strength, but an equally powerful name should be presented for gubernatorial honors. Such a man is Hon. Cornelius Ward, of Newark. Incensed at the failure of the Senate to convict Andrew Johnson on the eleventh article of im-peachment, the Republicans of New Jersey are determined to maintain their own integrity in-violate, and contribute at the ballot-box in November their influence in saving the nation from the disgrace of another traitor occupying the Presidential chair. Meetings in every town, village, city and school house in South Jersey are to be held, and eminent speakers employed to address the people, so that no one can fail to become thoroughly conversant with the important issues perity of the city. THE COUNTRY .- The country at the present time appears beautiful, and every variety of crops thus far promises an abundant yield. Although the earth has been completely saturated with rains, grain, grass, peas and other vegetables look healthful and thrifty, and indicate a
