that Mr. Ross did see an unusual light. Indeed, how else could he account for the confessions that he makes in this very apology? He confesses that he had made up his mind to convict Johnson on these "mere differences of opinion," after the trial was ended, after all the evidence was in and all the law presented. It was after this, that he the law presented. It was after this, that he the law presented. What was it? Prowith common moonshine. The Great Express Robbery—One of the Thieves Caught—$8,000 Found Upon A special despatch from Mansfield, Ohio, to the Cincinnati Commercial says: "A man was arrested here late Saturday night, whose conduct previous and subsequent to his arrest, the amount of his clothing, would strongly point to him as as guilty of some other great crime. He came here on Saturday, giving his name as Nehemiah Ball, of Concord, Massachusetts, and put up at the Simpson House. He was noticed to be in a greatly perturbed state of mind, and after going to his room, barricaded the door with the chairs and stove, drew a knife and flourished it in front of his windows, swearing he would not be arrested alive, &c. He told the domestics who were attracted to his room that Robinson was coming to arrest him during the night, and when they heard him crying murder they must come and help him. He grew worse as come and help him. He grew worse as the night advanced, flourishing his knife and crying murder until the City Marshal was sent for, who took him into custody. When arrested he said: "What do you arrest me for? I didn't murder the man." On bonds have been taken from him and depos-te the bank for safe-keeping. He still reited in the bank for safe-keeping. May 27—The chief features in Wall street continue to be the unprecedented activity in the investment demand for Government bonds, State and other bonds. Large purchases were made, by banks to-day, chiefly of the 1-57% and rome 1864% and give 1865%. The 1867% are becoming scarce, and heavy princhases were made of seven thirties for the purpose of convexting, in order to obtain the new gold interest bonds. The conversions of seven-thirties to-day at the Assistant Treasury were 35 840 300.

The prospect of all the seven-thirties being converted into sold interest bonds in the course of a few wheeks is stimulating the foreign demand. The whole Govo-mment bond market will, without doubt, advance to a much bisher standard of prices as soon as the seven thirties are all converted and the national debt is consolidated into a fixed form, free from the intermeddlings of secret buying and selling on the part of the Treasury Lepartment. It is notorious that the whole market for Government seen rittee has been kept down to a lower point than it would have been int for the fear of something or another that the 9 corect my of the Treasury might do in the way of buying or selling the different securities. When the seven-thirties are all converted this Government interference will be impossible, and all the six per cent, odd interest bonds will advance naturally as the 1861% have done since that loan was closed. There was an active demand from forsisn firms for the 1852, which advanced 1 per cent, from yesterday, and the old 1853c. Considerable sales were made on account of Philadelphians, and there is a short interest in some of the body-axid. a borrowing demand for 1864c. In ten-fortles there was an effort made to depress the price for the purpose of buying, by offering them at 105x seller 60.

Ten-forties are in active request owing to the principal of the bonds being payable in c.in under the authorizing act, as well as to the fact that they have practically forty years to run from their date, the government not being likely to pay off a five per cent. Ioan before maturity, unless all the six per cent, bonds have been previously withdrawn. The indications are that United States stocks will rise considerably higher before the present upward movement culminates, all the political and financial conditions affecting them being favorable to this.

allowing Arkansas admission at all at the present time, and said there was no safeguard that this-State would send men here who would stand up true to the country, and therefore he should oppose this bill. Senator Morton advocated admission under the bill.

There is a decided feeling to-day against admitting Arkansas at present. A delegation of Radicals from that State, who arrived here last evening, declare that it will be dangerous to admit Arkansas at preent. They assert that the State is sure to be carried by the rebel Democracy at the next election, and it is virtually in the hands of the Whisky Ring. who have at their head Mr. McDonald, who has been elected as one of the U.S. Senators from No. 16 South THIRD Street.

WASHINGTON, May 28th .- The bill providing that State. These representations had considerable influence among the Radical Senators to-day, and the vote is postponed for a few days. The bill vill pass only by a clese vote. At the conclusion of Mr. Morton's speech. Ir. McCreery, of Kentucky, took the floor, and is now reading a history of the early days of the ountry, and what the framers of the Constitution intended when framing that instrument. The speech sounds very much like one of Garrett Davis's old speeches and causes considerable ampsement, and had the effect of clearing the
