OFFICE PENNBYLVANIA MILK COMPANY, No. 2228 MARKET street, MAY 25th, 1883.

The PENNSYLVANIA MILK COMPANY would inform its customers and the public senerally, that on and after June 1st the system of selling Milk [for tickets and cash only, will be adopted, for the reason that they feel nature that they can thereby best serve the interest of their customers, and protect their own. This is the only method to avoid the errors liable to occ r in keeping a complicated and very extended system of accounts, necessery in doing business on the credit, system with such a vast number of customers. It will camble them to furnish Milk at a price 12 per cent. lower than by any other method, and will prevent any discrepancy in accounts between the milk man and the lamily in serves.

The Company has been in operation about one month, and it would remind the public that a great classife for the better has aircady taken place, both in the price and quality of Milk served in the city. When it began operations, the price of Milk was leeding per quart. It is now noted by the Company at 7 cents per quart as reduction of 39 per cent, in price, with an improvement of at least 25 per cent, in price, with an improvement of at least 25 per cent, in quality; a condition of facts by which its patrons realize the advantage of 50 per cent, and at the same time the schole community is benefited. This great reduction in the price of one of the necessary articles of food has been produced solely by the establishment of the Pennsylvania Milk Company.

To correct any missperehension in the minds of the rublic, the Company would desire to assure them that from the encouragement already extended to it, it feels warranted in stating there can be no doubt of its ability to establish a permanent business. Arrangements will be made to meet any demand, both in Bummer and Winter, and the greatest care will be exercised in keeping it pure and of the best quality.

Customers purchasing tickets and desiring to remove to the country before they are all used, or wishing at any time to discontinue receiving the Milk, can have them redeemed for their full value in cash, by presenting them to the agent, or at the office of the Company.

The arrangements of the Company are such as will enable it to rerve its customers during, the months of June, July and August, with Pure Milk at the following rates:

The Beason and the Crops.

After all our objurgations of the clerk of the weather, he has been not unkind. Never at this cason was there a finer prospect of a plenteous arvest than that which gladdens the eye to day. The gardens are backward, but even in wet, strong soils the seeds are not drowned out, and strong soils the seeds are not drowned out, and though slow in making their appearance, are now showing themselves handsomely. As to fruit, there has been a magnificent blossom of cherries, apples and pears, a fair flowering upon the peaches; with the utmost sure prospect that no frost will destroy them at this late season. Currants are half-grown in exposed sinnations. Cherries are set, and look as if they would furnish a heavy yield—for the birds. Strawberries blossom very well. As to the field crops, the heavy rains have delayed the farm work, and in most localities the oats have only been a week above ground, but look have only been a week above ground, but look hardy and vigorous. Full-sown cereals are in hardy and vigorous. Full-sown cereals are in splendid condition, as the heavy snows and steady frosts of the winter protected them, and the cold, wet spring has given them great strength of root and fibre. The same is true of the grass, which is rank in growth, and pasturage is everywhere abundant. There is every reason to expect a heavy crop of hay. Corn, as yet, is nowhere. There has been no time for plowing or planting, and the next ten days will decide the fate of that important portion of our barvest. The forests are in almost full leaf, the elms and the oaks only holding back their foliage. Of the common flowers, there is a profusion of illacs; the flut de is is holding back their foliage. Of the common flow-ers, there is a profusion of lilacs; the fleur de its is out, violets are acquaintances of some weeks standing, and that plain old favorite, of which the mythological legend is that the beautiful Narcis-sus, beholding his features in a placid stream, fell madly in love with himself, pined away to death, and was changed into a daffodil, has withdrawn its yellow blossoms, and is running to seed as the love of Narcissus has long since done before it.— Newark Adv.

Suicide at Altoona.

(From the Altoona Tribune, May 27.)

On Wednesday last an old gentleman named Wahl, who was stopping at Kolly's Hotel, in this city, while laboring under a depression of spirit, called at Kessler's drug store and purchased a quantity of arsenic. He gave his name and place of stopping to Mr. K. before the arsenic was weighed out. After Mr. K. had delivered it to him he select what he was going to do with the him he asked what he was going to do with it. Mr. Wahl answered that he was going to use it. Thinking that all might not be right, Mr. Kessler proceeded to the hotel by a different route, in order to ascertain the use to be made of it. Mr. Wahl could not be found for some time and when found he informed those on the ume and when found he informed those on the search of him that he had swallowed the arsenic. Dr. Christy was immediately summoned, but could give no relief from the fact that Mr. Wahl would not allow them to administer any medicines to counteract the effects of the poison, although great efforts were made to force antidotes down his throat. He resides about twenty miles this side of Pittsburgh and was in good. miles this side of Pittsburgh, and was in good circumstances. No cause can be assigned for the act, further than that he has been greatly depressed in spirits since the death of his wife, which occurred some five months since.

A Light-House Keeper Starved to Death. We mentioned last Fall that Mr. E. Perry, brother of Mr. Alfred Perry, of this city, was left behind on one of the islands of Lake Superior, to attend to the light-house upon it. The supply of provisions left with him was small, and the steamer was to return, but could not do so on account of winter setting in with severity. Capt. Charles Perry went up this Spring to ascertain his fate, and found his remains. All the information re-ceived on the subject is in the following telegram from Collingwood:

"Poor Ned is dead. I got his body, Make pre-parations for funeral." The deceased leaves a wife and family at Brock-ville, where he will be buried. RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The Centennial Anniversary of the Pine Street Presbyterian Church.

An Address by the Pastor, Rev. R H. Allen.

ADDRESSES BY DIFFERENT CLERGYMEN ---ANTHEMS.

This morning the Old Pine-street Presbyterian Church, at Fourth and Pine streets, presented an animated and highly attractive appearance, the occasion being in commemoration of the centennial anniversary of the organization of the congregation, which took place in the year 1768. At an early hour the members of the church who had secured tickets of admission wended their way to the building, and soon the old and venerated structure was filled in all parts. The exercises were commenced by an invocation by Rev. Z. M. Humphrey, D. D. The words "Praise God from whom all blessings flow, Prais Him all creatures here below;" &c., were then sung with thrilling effect, after which prayer was offered by Rev. Albert Barnes, in which reference was made to the good-Barnes, in which reference was made to the goodness of God towards the church from its commencement up to the present-time, and although mysterious providence had marked its history, still the hand which had thus been laid upon them had been that of a kind and indulgent father who intends that all things shall work together for the good of his children; and what seemed at times to be sad dispensations of Providence, were, after a lapse of time, made to appear for the best good of His people. The continuance of the blessing of the Almighty was sought, and the congregation commended to His future care. At the close of the impressive prayer of Mr. Barnes, the Scriptures were read by Roy. Dr.

At the close of the impressive prayer of Mr. Barnes, the Scriptures were read by Rev. Dr. Wiswell. The anthem "Arise, O Lord," was sang with thrilling effect, the efficient choir of ladies and gentlemen, who had volunteered their services having performed their parts in an admirable manner. The organ was in charge of Mr. John Zebley, Jr., and Mr. F. Mitchell.

An address of welcome was then made by the pastor, Rev. R. H. Allen. Among the thoughts suggested were the following:

The speaker would welcome the sons and daughters and friends of "Old Pine Street Church" to this celebration of her hundreth birthday. He need not remind them it was an occasion of great interest to them. A hundred years in the history of a church must necessarily de-sion of great interest to them. A hundred years in the history of a church must necessarily develop many things which become intensely interesting to those who are now living, although they may have been considered of small moment at the time they occurred. Not only the hopes and fears, the joys and sorrows, the smiles and tears, the struggles and triumphs, which were experienced by their fathers in organizing and building up this time honored church are deeply interesting to them now, but every relic of those time-honored days, though it be but a soiled letter, a fragment of a sermon—a block of the wood which composed the first pew—anything, no first ter what, so it comes to us from the "years of ancient times," is preserved and guarded as a sacred treasure. Passing on, the speaker said that there are three objects forever in the foreground of the picture, i. e. the home of our ground of the picture, i. e., the home of our fathers, the church where they prayed, the grave-yurd where they sleep. The period of our child-nood may lie ever bright in the distant and perhaps gloomy past, like a sun-lit wave far out on the scas which the shadows of the clouds now above us do not reach, but these objects are there. They have become a part of our life. We welcome you to the identical house your fathers built; the house in which Allson, Ewing and Duffleld preached one hundred years ago, and in which Smith, and Milldollar, and Alexander, and Ely, and Brainerd, successfully proclaimed the glericus Gospel of Jesus to listening auditories; the house where your fathers pledged their love and confidence to your mothers, then sneeling as young brides, at this altar; where, afterwards, they dedicated you to God in holy baptism, and towards which they turned your carly footsteps. * * * * *

When your fathers built this house it was considered one of the finest in all the county. steems to have been in advance of the church edi-nces of the day. It was a neat house, with all the modern improvements. The speaker here described the appearance of the interior of the building, with appendages, which, at the present day, would be considered extremely odd and un-comfortable, and gave the names of a large number of distinguished men who were members of the congregation, among whom were General Steel, Conrad Hause, Samuel Carstairs, William Findley Carlisle (once High Constable), John Hart, his successor, Wm. Smiley, John Steel, Samuel Carswell, Robert McMullin, the Mitchells, and others. and others. * * * * * * * *

During the last Summer the entire interior of this venerable sanctuary was again remodeled and beautified at a large expense, which at once placed her among the most beautiful temples of divine worship in our great city. One would scarcely think as he looked around him here today that in this room British soldiers stabled their horses ninety years ago, when the city was in their possession. This improvement has been accomplished by the willing offerings of her children in view of her hundredth birth-day, thus enabling her as she enters her second hundred years to look back on the past without a blush. There is a shadow that falls over the brightness of this centennial morn; it comes from the grave of Thomas Brainerd. He looked longingly forward to the down of this deep the down of this deep the down of this deep the down of the dow Thomas Brainerd. He looked longingly forward to the dawn of this day, when his church should be a hundred years old. But God took him to look on the dawn of a brighter day, over which a shadow is never cast. But is he not with us today? I know his body lies very near us just there in that grave all covered with flowers laid there by loving hands this morning, but his spirit and those of five other pastors look on us to-day, and if they could speak to us, I know would join me in the welcome which I extend in their names to the children of their old church, on this center. the children of their old church, on this centennial morning.

With glad hearts, then, we welcome you
On this memorial day;
Our dear old church has opened wide

Her portals worn and gray; And bids her wandering children come, Their grateful hearts to show, To her, whose birth-day morn arose One hundred years ago. * * · :*

Not unto man for past success Be praise or glory given;
But unto Him whe watch and ward
Hath kept o'er us in heaven.
Then onward move, beloved church,
Unchanged by friend or foe;

Be true as when God gave thee birth One hundred years ago. At the conclusion of the touching address of welcome, the Centennial Hymn written for the occasion was sung:

Our Fathers' God, we bow With filial reverence now Before this shrine. Within these sacred walls, A hallowed influence falls, And fills our waiting souls With peace divine.

Still, Lord, Thy people own, As in the past Thou st done, And blessings send.
O! hear all who may pray,
Within this temple gray, Until the final day.

When time shall end.

The singing of the hymn was followed by an address by Rev. George Duffield, D. D. After which the choir sang the anthem entitled "O, be joyful in the Lord." An address was then made by Rev. Samuel D.

Alexander, D. D., when an anthem, entitled "Jehovah praise," was sung in an admirable manner by the choir.

The benediction was then pronounced.
This afternoon and evening the church will be again opened, when interesting services will be engaged in.
The following is the Centennial Committee— Rev. R. H. Allen, Chairman; George Young, Secretary; H. K. Bennett. Treasurer; John C. Farr, Rev. R. H. Allen, Chairman; George Young, Secretary; H. K. On the walls, near the rulpit, are two banners, with the names of the pastors of the church, as follows: George Duffield, D.D., pastor from 1771 to 1790; John B. Smith, D.D., 1791 to 1799; Philip Milidollar, D.D., 1800 to 1805; Richard Alexander, D.D., 1806 to 1812; Ezra Stiles Ely, D.D., 1814 to 1835; Thomas Brainerd, D.D., 1837 to 1866. Over the pulpit, encircled with a wreath of evergreen, are the words "One Hundred Years." On either side are displayed two beautiful American flags. The bust of Dr. Brainerd is placed on the pulpit platform, among the living ministers. On the front of the organ, in large letters, appears the inscripof the organ, in large letters, appears the inscription, "The Lord our God be with us; He was with our Fathers." A crowd of persons thronged the church doors, anxious to gain admittance, but by the precaution taken by the committee of arrangements, much confusion was undoubtedly avoided.

THE PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD AT PITTSBURGH.

The Suspension of Mr. Stuart-Resolutious in full—An Animated Debate.

[From the Pittsburgh Commercial of the 28th.]
Synod met at three o'clock P. M., the Moderator in the chair. After prayer by the Moderator and calling of the roll of delegates the minutes of the morning session were read and approved.

After considerable discussion the question in reference to Mr. Stuart was reached.

It was stated that Mr. Stuart was unavoidably absent, being prevented from attending the

It was stated that Mr. Stuart was unavoidably absent, being prevented from attending the Synod by a severe attack of the asthma.

Mr. A. G. Wylie thought he had good ground for his faith that they were a church, regularly organized and separate from all other churches in the land. Being an organized body they had organic laws. As long as the standards remain unrepealed they must be governed by them. They had endeavored time and again to amend the laws, but they had not been amended or repealed. Mr. Stuart's absence was an evidence of his defiance.

Dr. Wylie thought this was an unworthy imputation.

Mr. A. G. Wylie proceeded. He wanted the Reformed Presbyterian Church to declare where she stood. He did not want each one to go away she stood. He did not warten to deciare where she stood. He did not warten to necessary after the adjournment claiming the victory, and everything is left so indefinite that each one may do as he pleases. If this matter is to go into the civil courts they must take their standards and determine the question on them. He did not wish to "slide" in the way they had been going for years. They had been challenged to take up this matter by those who had violated the law. He wanted to show he was not afraid to apply the law. Mr. Wylie presented a substitute for the whole matter before Synod. It is as follows:

Whereas, The Synod possesses original as well as applicate jurisdiction over all persons and all matters affecting general interests of the church under its supervision and care; and undersets of the church under its supervision and care; and undersets, there are well known and established laws in regard to the subjects of pealmody and communion, in the former of which an inspired pealmody, to the exclusion of all initiations and uninspired compositions, is to be used in the wormship of God; and, in the latter, declaring communion in scaling ordinances to be extended to those only when we would reserve the constant followship and become subject to the authority of this church; and, thereas, George H. Staut has beguy and definity declared on various occasions and on the floor of the Synod, that he has in the warship of God used initiations.

and uninspired compositions called hymns, and that he has communed with others and in other churches in senting ordinances: and has declared that he will continue to does; therefore,

Resolved, That by this avowed course of conduct, G. H. Stuart has violated the laws of this Church in these cases made and provided.

Resolved, That G. H. Stuart be and he is hereby suspended from his office and from membership in this church until he schowledge, his serior in the premises and submits to the laws and authority of this Church, and that his secat in Bynod in consequence be declared vacant.

Dr. McAuley desired to notice the expression that Mr. Stuart was "absenting himself." Mr. Stuart desired most carnestly to have the matter settled. He had sat with him during most of last night, and he had to be ministered to till a very late hour.

Dr. McAuley resumed. He had never used any-thing but the one hundred and fifty psalms in his own pulpit, but he had sung the doxology and he had sung more. He did not believe in a universal use of hymns; he believed in a Scripture Psalmuse of hymns; he believed in a Scripture Psalm-ody—in the use of other portions of Scripture in the worship of God. He thought something was needed. Something should be done, and done now, but not in this form. If discipline is to be exercised it must be exercised on a large number of the members of the Reformed Pres-byterian Church.

He knew nothing shout it. He power did it

He knew nothing about it. He never did it. He knew nothing about it. He never did it. Or. Wylie rose to a question of privilege. He had a letter from George H. Stuart, in which he stated that it was a fabrication that he was absenting himself from Synod unnecessarily.

Mr. Wylie said the letter did not seem to come from a man so sick as he is said to be. The in-ference is reasonable that this absence is a part of the programme. Mr. William Early said he saw Mr. Stuart in a carriage yesterday evening in Allegheny. He was in company with those whom Mr. Stuart characterizes in his letter as "lit ellers," and he was free to say "there was nothing said or done by those men that was improper," as Mr. Stuart charged unjustly in his letter.

Dr. S. B. W. McLeod said no friend of Mr. Stuart had carried the news to him by what was said in relation to his sickness on the floor of the Synod. His physicians should protect him from such messengers.

such messengers. Dr. Wylie wished to know if Mr. Wylie with-drew his charges after hearing the letter of Mr.

Mr. A. G. Wylie said he had a right to draw the inference at the time. As regards the state of affairs now he admitted that they were as stated, but he could not withdraw the inference that he but he could not witheraw the interester that he had made before. He had a right to make the inference in the circumstance that Mr. Stuart was absenting himself designedly.

Dr. Sterrett did not believe that the best way to settleights matter was the passage of the paper before the house.

before the house. Adjourned to meet in the evening at half-past seven o'clock.

Evening Session.—Synod met at half-past seven o'clock, and after the usual opening exercises, the resolution under consideration came up.

Several motions were made in reference to it, one of them being to postpone until this morning, the other to postpone indefinitely. Both these motions were subsequently withdrawn.

Mr. Johnson then took the floor and made a lengthy speech. He would have liked very much if the paper had been disposed of in some way, either by a motion to lay on the table or under the table, or indefinitely postponed. He opposed the adoption of the resolution and the excision of a member of this court and church. He of a member of this court and the excision of a member of this court and church. He thought no beneficial results would follow from the adoption of the paper. Nevertheless he was in favor of the use of the 150 Psalms as provided in the church law.

The Rev. J. F. Hill was opposed to the adop-tion of the resolution. He was disgusted with the position of affairs, and thought some decision the position of affairs, and thought some decision should be made on the subject of Psalmody. He had labored as a pastor in his Presbytery for the past ten years, and was not satisfied with the course stiairs were taking. Three congregations had thought proper to take their departure. A fourth congregation, he had been informed, would probably take such action as would place it beyond the jurisdiction of the court next month. This was due, in a great measure to the fact that there had been so much ambiguity on the subject of Psalmody.

Dr. Deuglass spoke in support of the paper at great length, tracing the course pursued in reference to Rev. Dr. Kennedy, and arguing that in analogy with that case the resolution should be passed. In that case he had counseled mode-ration when Mr. Stuart and Mr. Wylie had not taken the ground they occupy at the present time.

The resolutions finally passed by a vote of 38 yeas to 14 nays—6 persons not voting.

FROM NEW YORK.

New York, May 29.—The Committee of the Board of Councilmen having charge of the Broadway widening job met yesterday. A large number of property owners on the line of the improvement, from Sepanteenth to Fifty night mprovement-from Seventeenth to Fifty-ninth street—opposed the plan, and one gentleman spoke in favor of it. It was asserted that the cost of the job would be from $14,000,000 to Another great trot took place at Fashion Course yesterday afternoon between Lady Thorn, Lucy, George Wilkes and General Butler. Lady Thorn won the race in three straight heats, making the time in 2.24, 2.26 and 2.25% respectively. The first is the fastest wagon time on record. The Hoboken races were opened yesterday with a trot between Local, Vauxhall, Sleety and one or two others, which was won by the former. Thaddens Stevens—Southern Appro-ciation of Him.

Flake's Bulletin, the leading newspaper published in Galveston, Texas, pays a handsome compliment to Hon. Thaddeus Stevens. The circumstance proves that fidelity to principle and persistent adherence to honest conviction will ultimately command the respect of mankind, while truckling subserviency and cowardly dis-simulation will surely react against the hypocrite and his objects. The Bulletin remarks:

"While we disagree with him and disapprove of many of his projects, we cannot but admire his terrible carnestness. No man not thoroughly of many of his projects, we cannot but admire his terrible carnestness. No man not thoroughly convinced of his own rectitude and of the innate wisdom of his acts, would, day by day, follow them out with such intense anxiety while the clods of the grave were crumbling beneath his feet. Day after day he totters or is carried into the House, straining the brittle thread of life, for the purpose of accomplishing a political act—an act from which he can gain no possible good, but which he professes to believe necessary for the good of his country and of its people. No man can read the daily reports of Congress and doubt the honesty of this old man, nor the purences of his motives, however much he may doubt their wisdom. Right or wrong, still the sight of Shaddeus Stevens battling for that which he hinks is right, with scarcely an hour's lease of life, is one of the grandest views of human nature that the manhood of the present century has afforded us. IMPORTANT FROM WASHINGTON.

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Committee.

GEN. GRANT RECEIVES THEM

The Soldiers and Gen. Grant.

Special Despatch to the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, I

Washington, May 29.—The Committee of Soldiers and Sailors waited on General Grant at one o'clock, to present him with a copy of the resolutions adopted by their National Convention.

Gen. Grant received the party, some dozen in number, in bla room at the Army Headquarters. Colonels Alleman, Stokes and Gregg, Generals Logan, Hawley and Fairchild, were among the members of the Committee. The Chairman presented the resolutions in an appropriate address. The General responded briefly that while he had never desired to be a candidate for any political office, it afforded him great gratification to feel that he had the support of the survivors of the war. If he did not feel sure of this he would not be a candidate. He was one now not as a matter of choice but as one of duty, and hoped that having accepted their nomination he should have their aid and support till November as he had it during the Re-

The several gentlemen were then presented to Gen. Grant, who invited them to attent at his residence this evening, when he received the committee of the Republican convention. The party then spent a short time in conversation with the General and his staff.

Scenes in the House.

Special Despatch to the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.!
WASHINGTON, May 29th.—After the conclusion of Mr. Eldridge's speech, in the House, Mr. Morgan, of Ohio, took the floor, and during his speech against the committee, charged Mr. Julian, of Indiana, with having threatened Vinnie Ream unless she used her influence with Senator Ross to have him vote for the President's convic-

Mr. Julian at once arose and branded this as false, and Mr. Morgan reiterated his statement, and the scene was becoming somewhat exciting, when Mr. Morgan's time expired, and this cut off further remarks. Mr. Butler took the floor to close the debate before the vote was taken, and was speaking about the absurdity of allowing Democrats on this Committee, and said that the forty thieves might claim with equal propriety the right to have some of their number on a grand jury by which they were to be tried, as members on the other side of this House.

Mr. Marshall objected to the words, and sisted that they should be read at the Clerk's desk, which was done, and the Speaker ruled them • unparliamentary. Mr. then withdrew the words, but the Democrats objected to his proceeding. The yeas and nays were called on this, and the House, by a party vote, allowed him to proceed. At half past two the debate on the resolution to place, Woolley in close confinement closed, and it was then passed by a vote of 100 yeas to 31 nays. Mr. Woolley will at once be removed from his present sumptuous quarters to those furnished for him by the resolution just passed. Mr. Schofield gave notice that next Tuesday, after the expiration of the morning hour, he should meve to take up the election case of Delano versus Morgan.

The House then took up the Indian Appropri)

[Special Despatch to the Phila. Evening Bulletin.]

WASHINGTON, May 29th.—Nothing has been done of importance in the Schate, the time being occupied in debating what business should be taken up. A motion made to postpone the Arkansas bill was defeated by a vote of twelve ayes to thirty-four nays, and it is expected to be taken up and discussed during the afternoon.

By the Atlantic Telegraph. Berlin, May 29.—The Government of North Germany has abolished imprisonment for debt. London, May 29.—A Berlin despatch repeats the rumors of a Polish insurrection on the Galli-cian frontier. At Vienna, however, the story was discredited in well informed circles.

From Boston.

Bostos, May 29.—A large meeting was held to-day in Tremont Temple, under the auspices of the "Free Religious Association," of which Rev.

O. B. Frothingham is Fresident.

The President opened the meeting with a few marks in explanation of the object of the Society. He said the Society was called the "Free Religious Association," and its objects were religious and not political, social, reformatory, or even Christian. We use the term "Religious"— a term that cannot be confined within the limits of any sect or denomination. We come down to a primeval element of religion, and then rest there. We have definite and precise ideas, and a definite and precise purpose to attain, and are satisfied in laying the broad principles that involve a glorious result in the future.
