Every objection they throw in the way is equal to a fresh witness to the corruption that has been practiced. They either know, or shrewdly suspect, that the Whisky Ring has shrewdly suspect, that the whisky Ring has managed the impeachment trial and brought its patron off with an acquittal. They natur-ally dread the probing researches of men like Bingham and Butler, and so they array themselves against the cause of justice and law and good morals, and openly exhibit themselves as the counsel and advocates of one of the most dangerously corrupt combi-nations that has ever controlled the affairs of managed the impeachment trial and brought thousand visitors have availed themselves of the

There are showing to the country on which side the Democratic party is really arrayed. They are confessing that the Whisky Ring, which is robbing the Treasury, every month, of millions of revenue, is one of its recognized and most potent agencies. They are demonstrating that the Democratic party cannot afford to let the machinery that has been at work in Washington, be seen by the people.
We are glad to have such issues as these made up early in the Presidential campaign. It will be a new tower of strength added to the position of Grant and Colfax, to have it thus understood that the Whisky Ring is against them. It will add to the popular entry is against them.
