AN UNSURPASSED HYMN, In the New Englander for August, 1860, I In the New Englander for August, 1860, Dr. Bacon pronounces the following exquisite hymn unsurpassed in the English or any other language, and adds that "perhaps it is as near perfection as any nulnspired language can be." It is usually ascribed to Hillhouse, the poet, i. e., Jas. A. Hillhouse, but according to Dr. Bacou, it was written by his younger brother, Augustus L. Hillhouse, who died near Paris, in March, 1859:

Trembling before Thine awful throne, D Lord! in dust my sins I own. The Saviour smiles! upon my soul New tides of hope tumultuous roll— His voice proclaims my pardon found, Scraphic transport wings the sound.

Earth has a joy unknown in heaven-

The new born peace of sin forgiven! Tears of such pure and deep delight, Ye angels! never dimmed your sight. Ye saw of old on chaos rise The beauteous pillars of the skles; Ye know where morn exulting springs, And evening folds her drooping wings. Bright heralds of the Eternal Will,

Abroad His errand ye fulfill; Or throned in floods of beamy day, onious in his presence play Loud is the song—the heavenly plain.
Is shaken with the choral strain—
And dying echoes, floating far,
Draw music from each chiming star.

But I amid your choir shall shine, And all your knowledge shall be mine Ye on your harps must learn to hear A secret chord that mine will bear. BURAS'S FIRST ROSOM FRIEND. BY ROBERT BUCHANAN.

We all know the sort of life Burns lived at soon after he had to sit on the cutty stool of the parish church, and to what the agreeable train of meditations, in Scots verse, his situations afterwards gave rise. What between the Freemasons' Lodge and the Torbolton Bachelors Club, he had plenty to do in the cold nights. The Torbolton Bachelors, as may not be generally known, were debaters—"a few young men," says a biographer of the poet, "of active and inquiring intellect"; and these meetings took place periodically in a public thouse. From the circumstance that the expenditure of cach bachelor was limited to threepence a night, Burns doubtless considered the discussions somewhat dry; but he was consoled by the presence of at least one choice spirit—young Daoresence of at least one choice spirit—young Da rie Sillar. Daintie Davie could take his glass, wa vie Sillar. Daintie Davie could take his glass was found of the lassies, and played finely on the fiddle; and what more was necessary to rerder him acceptable to Burns, beyond the fact that he too was an ardent votary of the Muses? The two young bloods embraced each other as flame does flame. Davie, as he himself says, had long admired the kindred spirit from afar, and by curious tokens. "He wore the only tied hair in the parish," Davie avers; "and in the church his plaid, which was of a peculiar color (I think fillemot), he wrapped in a peculiar manner around his shoulders. These surmises and his exterior made me solicitous of his acquaintance. I was introduced by Gilbert not only to his brother, but to the whole of that family, where in a short time I became a frequent, and I believe not an unwelcome vistant. He was a Dominie, forsooth, Dominie, for a time of the parish school; but to be such, required few gifts indeed. He was bred among the brutes, at the plough-tail; he had read a book or two; but, as he says in his "Epistle to darms to-day placed at several points of the road.

The defile coming to an end, the little wall could only be considered as a barrier in the road. The riddle became more and more exciting. We stood be-fore the wooden gate of the wall; the hinges creaked, and we found ourselves all at once, as by the stroke of a magic wand, in a romaftic lovely victure of peaceful loveliness—the convent Or sing a sang at least. Mr. Sherman opposed the admission of Alabama, and Mr. Stewart favored it. Mr. Frelinghuysen would vote for an independent bill to admit Alabama. Mr. Howard thought the best policy would be to leave Alabama out of the bill, putting Florida in it. After further debate, by Messrs. Buckalew, Conkling, Wilson, Hendricks, Morton, Yates, Doolittle and others, at half-nest 4 o'cleck it was evident that no action could be had on the bill this evening, and on motion of Mr. Conness the Seinste went into Executive Session, and soon after adjourned.

House.—The consideration of the tax bill in Committee of the Whole was continued.

The sixth section, which gives the appoint ment of all revenue officers to the Commissioner, being under consideration, a long discussion followed. After which the various amendments which had been either withdrawn or rejected, and the question was narrowed down to the motion of Mr. Sarifield, offered last night, to strike out the sixth section. The vote was taken by tellers, and resulted—yeas 64, nays 45; so the sixth section was it ruck out.

The Committee then proceeded to consider the seventh section, which provides a . Supervisor of internal Revenue for each judicial district, and

The Committee then proceeded to consider the eventh section, which provides a Supervisor of internal Revenue for each judicial district, and egulates his duties, &c.

The provision that he shall have power to iransfer officers from one distillery or place of inty to another, was, on motion of Mr. Schenck, struck out.

The committee then proceeded to the consideration of the eighth section, which regulates the duties, &c., of Internal Revenue Storekeepers, duties, &c., of Internal Revenue Storekeepers. which the tax could be collected, there would be no need of bonded warehouses.

Mr. Schenck opposed the motion, stating that bonded warehouses were for storing other articles besides spirits, and also that if the whisky ax should not be reduced, it would be necessary o have the system of bonded warehouses proviled for in the general bill.

After further discussion, and without taking a tote on the section, the committee, at half-past our, took a recess till half-past seven P. M.

Evening Session.—The House resumed its session. Mr. Judd withdrew his motion to strike out the eighth section, with the understanding that the section would be reserved for amendment in ylew of future action on the whisky tax.

The committee then proceeded to the ninth section, which delegates the appointment of gaugers to the Secretary of the Treasury instead of to the commissioners. There being no quorum present the question was reserved.

The committee then proceeded to the consideration of the tenth section, which regulates the livision of States, into collection districts.

Clerk of Common Council.

AN ORDINANCE

Fo create a Loan for the further extension of Fairmount Park, and for the improvement thereof.

Section 1. The Select and Common Councils of the City of Philadelphia do ordain, That the Mayor of Philadelphia be and he is hereby authorized to borrow, at not less than par, on the credit of the city, from time to time, for the further extension of Fairmount Park and for the improvement thereof, $4,000,600, for which interest not to exceed the rate of six per cent. Per annum shall be paid half yearly, on the first day of January and in the said loan shall be called the "Park Loan." The principal of said loan shall be payable and the said loan shall be called the evertificates thereof; and the certificates thereof; and the certificates of City Loan, shall be issued in such amounts as the lenders may require, but not for any fractional part of one hundred collars, or, if required, in amounts of five hundred or-one thousand dollars; and it shall be expressed in said certificates that the loan therein mentioned and the interest thereof are payable free from all taxes.

Section 2. Whenever any loan shall be made by virtue thereof, there shall be by force of this ordinance annually appropriated out of the income of the corporate estates, and from the sum raised by taxation, a sum sufficient to pay the interest on said certificates, and the fruther sum of three-tenths of one per centum off the par value of such certificates so issued shall be appropriated quarterly out of said income and taxes to a sinking fund, which fund and its accumulations are hereby especially pledged for the redemption and payment of said certificates.

RESOLUTION TO PUBLISH A LOAN BILL.

Resolved, That the Clerk of Common Council to be authorized to the Common Council on Thursday, May 14, 1868, entitled "An Ordinance to create a loan for the further extension of Fairmount Park, and for the improvement thereof."
