POLITICAL Bepublican Nominating Conventions. Conclusion of Testerday's Proceed. THE MAYOR'S CONVENTION. On motion, it was agreed that a committee o in motion, it was agreed that a committee of one from each Ward should be appointed by President to inform General Tyndale of his mination. Mr. Sellers, of the Twenty-seventh Ward, Mr. Stilers, of the Twenty-sevenin Ward, offered the following resolutions: Resolved. That we hall with the liveliest satisfaction the nominations of Grant and Collax for President and Vice President. Both have been tried in the dark days of peril to our nationality, and both have made records which are part of the brightest history of the redeemed Republic, and which give the people of the Union the highest guar-ance of enlightened and patiotic statesmaship and pro-gerity and peace under their administration. Resolved, That we piedge our connect support to the Re-publican State tickst, composed as it is of two noble he roes of the army, and that Philadelphin will do her thill share in atcodor to redeem the State from the desaator of 166, by giving a decided majority for the candidates of (ii) by giving a decided majority for the candidates of the Republican party. Resolved, That we commend to the loyal people of Accorded, That we commend to the loyal people of hiladelphia General Blector Tyndale for the Mayoralty ihe city. As one of the solders of the Képublic, ho on renown for his sail, rand skill as a leader, and will ily around his standard, as he did on the field, the brave on who saved the nation by their lier of mad sacrifices, and his blameless character and ability fo administer the lief vaccurity office of the city wisely and faithfully not descure him the cordial support of every lover of our government.

the age, in whom all people have confidence. [Cheers.] We may safely trust him that he will use his power, not against the people but for the people; and in conformity with their views and feeings. Then let us be true to ourselves and those we have selected as our leaders; let us go into the contest determined to win, marching to the fight in solid phalanx. I read this determi-nation in your faces. [Cheers.] I have a standard placed in my keeping. I may not be a. leader-I may be slain in the contest -but let me say to you that where the battle is fiercest you will find me, and I will carry my standard as far as any into the ranks of the enemy. [Cheers.] At the conclusion of Mr. Mann's address the Convention adjourned. This boltrens, Convention of what was required by this body. The com-mittee retired and in a short time returned, and Col. Germany would enjoy all the benefits of national unity without the disadvantages of centralization, and she would be safe from all altacks from abroad without becoming a danger to the other States of Europe. The writer concludes thus: "We do not pretend that this plan, once adopted and carried out, would make all future wars impossible. It would be too much to hope from human nature. But we think we may af-firm that an organization of Europe conformable to the wishes of the people, and the principle of nationalities understood in its true sense—an or-
