Mr. Cameron rose, readily, and said he had made the remark in reply to the Senator, ''I hope to God he would not occupy much more time than he has done in the Senato". [Langhter.]

Mr. Henderson—This session?

Mr. Cameron—To-day.

Mr. Enderson said he had not occupied much time recently in speaking, and that the Senator from Penneylvania (Mr. Cameron) had occupied more this session than he, as since a recent event he had participated in no debate at all. He spoke a fow minutes longer in favor of the principle of free banking, and closed by expressing the opinion that to force a speedy resumption of specie payment, as seemed to be the prevailing policy, would surely result in disaster.

Mr. Conbert insisted and argued that the $20,000, 100 increase was nothing else than a proposition for insistion.

Mr. Eliot replied that last year's appropriation for the principle of increase was nothing else than a proposition for insistion. Levi P. Coats.

Mr. Eliot replied that last year's appropriation for that purpose had not yet been expended, and that it was important that new surveys should be made, and a more perfect plan of improvement adopted.

Mr. Welker moved an appropriation of $20,000 for the harbor at the mouth of Black River, Lake Erie. Losses adjusted and paid with all possible despatch.

Mr. Pomenov made a few remarks in reply, when the Senate proceeded to vote on Mr. Davis' amendment, and it was agreed to, as follows:

Mr. Sherman said the Senate having decided to probibit any bank increase, except withdrawing it from three or four New England States, he had carefully prepared an amendment in lieu of that of the Senator from Kentucky (Mr. Davis), which was not, in his opinion, properly framed, and which he hoped that Senator would withdraw for the purpose.

Herend his substitute and continued, saying while he was glad the Senate had decided to withdraw a small percentage of bank circulation from the East, he could assure them that if they should adjourn without giving an increase to the West and South, it would give rise to a wide spirit of dissatisfaction, if his amendment was adopted those States having none now would have alocal circulation by slow and gradanl process, according to the law.

The Comptroller of the Currency was to distribute the circulation, one-half according to population, and one-half according to business requirements, and the regult, would be that New York would be found to have no, more than its proportion, and the only States affected would probably be Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, and possibly Maryland and Vermont. Certainly not more than six or seven States would be called upon to furnish a cent.

Mr. Buenam verminded the Senator that some days since he had said that he would recard a certai FINE DRESS SHIRTS TOTAL TARREST AND THE TARREST GENTS' NOVELTIES. J. W. SCOTT & CO., 14 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Four doors below Continental Hotel, mhl-f m w tf other.
Mr. Sherman explained that several Senators had thus voted merely to give time for examination.

mr. Chandler then moved to strike out the first section of the bill, and proceeded to argue the injustice to the country banks of forbidding them thus to employ their surplus capital to advantage, advancing substantially the same considerations urged on a previous occasion.

Another motion to adjourn was lost—yeas 15, nays 20.

Mr. Cattell defended the section, insisting that it was illegitumate banking to pay interest on the balances of another bank, pointing out that the New York Bank of Commerce had refused to do such business, and that the best bankers are opposed to it.
