The Public Debt Statement. Special Despatch to the Philadelphia Evening Builletin.]
WASHINGTON, August 5.—The August statement of the public debt, which is due to-day, will not be issued until Friday. The first of July having been the close of the fiscal year, no statement was then issued, and the comparison, therefore, will be with the June statement.

The decrease in the gold balance will not be as considerable as has been generally expected outside of the department, owing to there being two months receipts from customs to offset the July interest, and to the fact that the Alaska purchase money will not be accounted for until the next exhibit.
