Lincoln lived, doubtless our labors and toils ere this would have been over and past. But the bullet that carried Andrew Johnson into the White Honse revivified the dead rebellion, and bafiled the advance of peace. Since then the nation's life has been one censeless struggle with Copperheads and rebels. They have filled the public offices, they have swarmed over the land in places where only logal mensbould go: North, they have beer an eye-sore and officace to every loyal citizen: South. they have opposed recoh-struction and equal rights, and now organize their Ku-Klux-Klans, in definance of the say: The Democratic party, washed with they are of the say. The Democratic party, unabashed by its unpatricite and shameful course as a party throughout the war, now again con-fronts the country with a platform and a caudi-date which are at once an insult to every living soldier, a mockery to every dead soldier, and a reproach to every patricit in the land. A Tennessee Practical Joke.

Many of the common phrases of the language suffer more than "a sea change," in the transi-tion to such a State as Tennessee, where the exchange of a few shots between gentlemen is called "a personal difficulty," and almost every kind of murder except downright assassination is called "an affair of honor." So the Memphis Post furnishes an example of what is regarded in ets, they recruited no rebel armies, they give no Tennessee as "a practical joke." It says: "In some mysterious manner bricks have been thrown at and through the windows of the resi-dence of Dr. Williams, on Orleans street, next to the war in all their fullness, to assist in ground-ing the Republic at last on the immutable basis of loyalty and justice, and equal rights for all. Soldiers, in Horatio Seymour the Democratic party bave a fit candidate, a representative Cop-perhead and a rebel in disguise. In our own U. S. Grant we have the simple, honest soldier and loyal defender of the Union. The one expre-sents reaction, the other progress. The one espr-pathized with the Confederacy, the other fought for the Uhlon. for the Union. The one stands on the platform of national repudiation, the other of national faith, inviolate and inviolable. The one sum-mons you to the defence of class and on the platform where discovered.
