On the return trip he went to pick huckleberries while the train stopped at a station. In attempting to get on again after the train had started, he slipped and fell and had a foot taken off.

DISORDERLY HOUSE .- George Branhurst and Mary, his wife, were before Ald. Massey this morning upon the charge of keeping a disorderly bouse at No. I Helm's place, in the rear of 817 Garden street. THE WEST JERSEY RAILROAD.-Undoubtedly the pleasantest time to visit the sea shore is the latter part of the summer, when the intense heat is over, and the bracing sea breeze is not enjoyed simply as a cooling agent for overheated bodies. Cape May, during the months of August and September, has greater attractions than at any other other sesson, and very many persons remain in the city during the sweltering July days, repairing in these months to the sea shore to recuperate in an atmosphere that in its healthful and invigorating qualities acts like a tonic upon the system.

The arrangements made by the West Jersey Railroad Company for the accommodation of those who desire to visit the senshore are of the most convenient and complete character. The express train, which leaves here at 4 o'clock P. M., arriving at Cape May at 6.55, and returning, leaves Cape Island at 9 A. M., reaching Philadelphia at 12.07 P. M., is especially convenient for business men, both on account of the excellence of the hours and of the ouick time made. The other trains also leave at most convenient hours. and on this road the schedule time is strictly adhered to, so that passengers can always rely upon promptness, and an absence of annoying delays. The excellent management of this road, the careful attention of employés to their duties, the politeness of the conductors, and the comforts afforded passengers, have had their legitimate effect, and the business of the road has increased to such an extent that it promises soon to attain the highest condition of prosperity.

One of the best evidences of the Company's en-

NEW JERSEY MATTRRS. IMPROVING MEADOWS .- Along the river front. and adjoining Camden on the south and east, are extensive low meadow lands which, at high tides, are partially submerged. As a public measure, however, such a work may not be looked for soon, if at all. Private enterprise will have to accomplish it, and the owners of these meadto accomplish it, and the owners of these mead-ows could not do a greater or more beneficial act then to do the work as fast as convenient. Cam-den is extending its improvements outwardly in a rapid manner, and in a few years these low grounds will become valuable for building lots. If properly drained and improved their value would be greatly enhanced. The interests of the owners as well as the public welfare, therefore, seem to demand the accomplishment of the work, and it is hoped other enterprising gentlemen will purchase the lands in question and improve them.

them. ANOTHER DROWNING AT ATLANTIC CITY .-- At ANOTHER DROWNING AT ATLANTIC CITY.—At the bathing hour yesterday at Atlantic City, George Anderson, 23 years old, residing, near Haddonfield, went into bathe with his brother, neither of whom, it is said, could swim. Singular as it may seem, they selected a place where there is a sign post with the word "dangerous" upon it, and it was not long befere both of them, were swept out beyond their depth, and Géorge was drowned. The brother would have shared his fate had it not been for the prompt basistance a shorded by Mr. been for the prompt assistance afforded by Mr. White, a member of the Philadelphia Bar, who was sailing near the spot. When brought to the beach, young Anderson was very far gone, but he recovered upon the application of the usual restoratives. The body of the drowned man was recovered several hours after the occurrence.

INTENTERANCE.—The fearful asd rapid strides which intemperance is making in society, seem to call for additional moral agencies for its sup-pression. In Canden alone there are over one hundred and twenty-five places where intoxicating liquors are sold by the small, some with and some without license. The Sabbath Laws are openly and boldly set at defiance, and thus the superinducing causes of intemperance and other demoralizing influences are suffered to advance unrestrained. But a more vigorous effort is to be put forth by the friends of temperances in Cam-den, new organizations and societies are to be formed, and able lecturers will set forth the various evils with which society is cursed by this extensively-prevailing traffic.

ALMOST AN ESCAPE,—Early yesterday morning information was sent to officers Ayres and John-try that two prisoners confined in the Camden jail were making preparations to escape. They had dug a passage from their cells to an opening had dug a passage from their cells to an opening under the front entrance to the Court House on Broadway. They had an axe, a shovel and a fin plate with which the excavation was effected. The officers recaptured them and took them back to their old quarters. Woods MEETING.—A woods meeting is now in pregress by the colored citizens of Camden, on Sunday sformers.

on Bunday afternoons, in an appropriate grove, at Broadway and Kaighn's Point Avenue, South Ward. The exercises are exceedingly interest-ing, and the meetings are largely attended by colored people from Philadelphia. Ward.

THE STORM.—The recent severe storm did con-siderable damage to the crops in Camden county. Much corn, which gave fair promise, was broken down, and it is said that tomatoes were greatly injured.

THE SHEBIFFALTY .--- Samuel Archer, Esq., of Cooper's Point, is among the most prominently talked of candidates for Sheriff of Camden county. He is an active business man, and well calculated to fill that position.

Death of a Young Lady from Disap-pointment in Love.

[From the Boston Journal, Aug. 12] A sad but interesting case of the death of a young lady named Susan King is a general topic of conversation at Woburn at the present time. The deceased had been affianced to a young man to whom, it appears, she was deeply attached. Some weeks since she happened to ob-serve him in company with another young woman, under such circumstances as to give rise to feelings of jaalonsy on her part. She upbraided him for his conduct, and he replied to her remonstrances in a spirited manner, which further provoked her to dismiss him. It seems, however, that she still cherished him. It seems, however, that she still cherished in secret the old affection, and the disappoint-ment so weighed upon her mind as to cause a severe nervous attack, resulting, about ten days since, in uiter prostration. Bhe remained in this condition until her death, which oc-curred on Saturday last. The circumstan-ces having been so peculiar, and the malady having baffied the skill of the physicians, it was deemed proper an autopay should be performed. deemed proper an autopsy should be performed, which was done on Monday by Drs. Cuttor and Abbot. No trace of disease, or obvious cause of death was discoverable, but the system was apparently in an entirely healthy and normal con-dition. The deceased was a person of excellent character and fine personal appearance, and was much esteemed and beloved.

A Letter from Daniel Webster to His Son. A correspondent of the Boston Traveller, writing from Exeter, N. H., gives extracts from a letter by Daniel Webster to his son Edward, about the time the latter commenced his studies at Phillips' Exeter Academy, which school he himself at one time attended :

WASHINGTON, June 23, 1834.—My Dear Son: Fletcher wrote me from Exeter the next day after your arrival, and informed me that you had been so fortunate as to be received at Col. Chadwick's, and was commercing your studies. I am glad you are so well situated, and I trust you will make progress in your studies. You are at a most important period of life, my dear son, soon growing up to be a young man, and a boy no longer, and I feel great auxiety for your success. I be-seech you to be attentive to all your duties, and to fulfil every obligation with cheerfulness and punctuality. Above all, remember your moral and religious concerns. Be constant at church and prayer and every appointment for worship There can be no solid character and no true hap-piness which are not founded on a sense of religions duty. Avoid all evil company, and every temptation, and consider that you have now left your father's house and gone forth to improve your own character, and groue form to improve your own character, and propare your mind for the part you are to act in life. All that can be done for you by others will amount to nothing, unless you do much for yourself. Cherish all the good counsel which your dear mother used to give you, and let those of us who are yet alive have the pleasure of seeing you come forward as one who gives promise of virtue, usefulness and distinction. I fervently commend you to the bleasings of our Heavenly Father. * * * I happen to have two small Mass. bills: they do not go here, and I inclose them to you, to be used if you have occasion, to buy a book, or spend a dollar for any other article. * Your affectionate father.

It is expected that the display of costumes will be varied and elegant, and as the hotels on the Island at present contain large numbers of fashionable people, the ball will not only be superb in the richness of the dresses worn, but that the assembly will be very large, and will embrace a fair representation of the beauty and fashion of this and neighboring Virginia. A paper called the Native Virginian says: "Virginia is a great, very great State—no doubt, no earthly doubt about that. But she sold the home and grave of Washington to strangers, the home of Jefferson to a Jew; her Historical Society consists of three dry-goods boxes hid in a cellar; she does not sustain a literary paper or maga-zine; her poet (Thompson) is earning a narrow living in New York; her humorist (O. P. Baldwin) is a sub-editor in Baltimore; hor novelist (Cooke) derives his support from Northern publishers; her historian (Campbell) teaches a little school in Petersburg; and the brother of her gifted son, Hampden Pleasants; unable to find employment even in a newspaper office, is driven in his old age to rely upon his relatives for a support. Many of the richest and most cultiva-ted men in Virginia are too mean to take any liz-erary paper. It would seem that there is a de-liberate purpose to drive every man of any liberate purpose to drive every man of any literary ability out of the State. "These are some of the spots on our sun."
