Meeting of the Pence Seclety. A meeting of the Pennsylvania Peace Society was held at Friends' Meeting House, Abington, yesterday afternoon. The attendance was large.

Dr. Child, Secretary, presented a brief summary of the proceedings of the Society during the past year, by which it appears they have entered into the following alliance with the Union of Peace at Havre, represented by Hon. J. M. Bielefield, President, and F. Sautalier, Secretary, and having 7,000 adherents. Article I. The American Peace Society and the Peace Union of Europe will adopt give evidence of the unity of their spirit and Article II. The administration of the two Societies will remain distinct, and each will retain the power of self government and will continue their special publications. They will exchange these fraternally, and republish the name of the Universal Peace Union to such parts as may be desirable.

Article III. Each Society will publish a list of all their members as they are received, and arrange them in proper order, with their residence, profession and nationality, and the Friends of Peace both in Europe and America, will issue frequent bulletins, with the names of the members, so that they may be known, and thus encourage a general correspondence with each other.

Article IV. Each Society shall raise its funds to carry on this work in such a manner as they shall deem best adapted to accomplish this object.

Article V. Both Societies will use their utmost efforts to bring into their union all the different Peace Societies in the world, and thus create a powerful international organi-

Article VI. The establishment of a mode of International jurisprudence being one of the most prominent objects of both societies, they will, as soon as possible, make a united appeal to the most distinguished jurisconsulists and statesmen of the two Continents to elaborate and present the basis of a code. These Essays on jurisprudence will be published by both societies.

Article VII. Each Society will be responsible for the utterances of their sentiments and declarations; the American branch has already declared that they accept the poposition of the equality of sexes, as to natural rights, and that our main reliance, under God, for the promotion and establishment of Universal Peace, is in the dissemination of our principles among the people everywhere, as an education which shall establish the idea that human life is sacred and inalienable, under all circumstances.

He read the following letter from Hon. Charles Sumner, in reference to artice VI: Washington, Aug. 12, 1868.—Dear Sir:
—Nothing can be more interesting than the idea of a revision of the law of Nations and the reduction of all its various ways to a clear and intelligible code, which all can read and understand. Such a work would be an epoch in civilization, and prepare the way for permanent peace among nations.

Therefore, I saw with singular pleasure that the Society for the advancement of Social Science in England had enter-tained this great subject, and that a jurist as experienced and liberal as Mr. Dudley Field had entered upon the work. I am glad to know that the Peace Union and the Society which you represent are laboring in the same direction. Anything I can do to promote so beneficent a project will be done cheerfully to the extent of my ability and according to the time at my command, which is very little. Accept my best wishes, and believe me, dear sir, faithfully yours,

CHARLES SUMNER. Addresses were delivered by Rachel M.
Townsend, Jacob L. Paxson and Dr. H. T.

new jersey matters.

A GRAND TURNOUT .- On Saturday evening the streets of Camden were enlivened by the members of the various Councils of the Order of United American Mechanics joining in a grand parade. They were out in full force, and having on their regalia, they made a fine appearance. A band of music headed the procession, which marched through many of the principal streets. This order is in a prosperous condition, and embraces a large proportion of the mechanics and working people of Camden. It is said that every initiation night large accessions are made to the membership of each different Council.

THE CAMP MEETING SEASON.—The various camp meetings which have been held, and which are now in progress in the first district, were largely attended, and resulted thus far in producing much good. The one at Barnsboro, now under way, excites great interest, and many residents of Camden went down on Saturday strennon to participate in the proceedings of Sunday.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.—The different companies composing the Camden Fire Department are gradually coming into possession of ample equipments and machinery for extinguishing fires. Three of them already own steam engines, and a fourth one will be added in about a month, the Weccacoe Hose Company having already contracted for a new one. Their house is being altered so as to house it when it comes home. All these steamers are of first class.

Woods Meeting.—Yesterday afternoon a colored woods meeting was held in Fettersville, just over Camden City limits. It was quite well attended, and the proceedings were interesting.

A SAD NUMBER.—There have been ten persons drowned at Atlantic City during the present season. This large number certainly calls for some decided action in reference to the protection of life there, on the part of the authorities and all interested in the success of the place. THE CAMPEN GRANT AND COLFAX CLUB.-

This Club, which was organized about two weeks ago, already numbers upwards of three hundred members. The boys expect to re-ceive their caps and capes in a short time, and then will be ready for action.

SOUTH WARD.—The Republicans of South Ward will, in a few days, raise a fine Grant and Colfax flag-pole at Mount Vernon and Third streets. The Democrats propose to raise one at Fourth and Spruce.

DIRECTORS ELECTED .-- At the recent annual meeting of the stockholders of the Cape May and Millville Railroad Company, the following named gentlemen were elected Directors ing named gentlemen were elected Directors for the ensuing year: John G. Stevens, Thomas Jones Yorke, Robert F. Stockton, Jr., A. W. Markley, Charles P. Stratton, James H. Stevens, Coleman F. Leaming, W. B. Miller and Jacob T. Cake. Subsequently the board organized by electing John G. Stevens, President; Benjamin F. Lee, Treasurer; George L. Robbins, Secretary. George L. Robbins, Secretary.

The Whipping Post in Delaware. A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial writing from Dover, Delaware, discourses thus cloquently upon the infamous whipping post and

In each of the three court house villages of Delaware the whipping-post is an old and familiar ornament. It was removed from Wilmington iar ornament. It was removed from Wilmingtonmany years ago, but you can see it in Georgetown and Newcastle; and in Dover, the State capitol, the legislators, if in session at the time of court, can hear the screams of the whipped in the green jail yard behind the State house, and, if they like, look out of the Representatives hall upon the flogging. This whipping post looks like an old pump without handle or a spout, the fissure in which the handle, if supplied would work, being devoted to the pillory-board, which is passed through and pegged fast. In this board the offender's head and wrists are locked tight, and he stands in the hot sun or rain, as it may be, exposed to the taunts of tavern loafers—his friends, probably, yesterdsy or to-morrow. To the sides of the whipping post, three feet above the ground, a pair of iron clamps are fastened; the ground, a pair of fron clamps are fastened; these pass over the wrists of the condemned and are locked to staples below, so that he stands with his back bowed, hugging the post. Behind him stands the Sheriff, or his deputy, applying the raw-hide. The boys, the negroos, sometimes the girls, come round to be amused, for in a dull town like Dovera whipping is a fall of manna in the wilderness. The consequences of the punishment do not stop with the bloody bare back of the criminal; they extend to the young spectators and make them coarse and the young spectators and make them coarse and insensible; they give the State a name which its insensible; they give the State a name which its neighbors abbor, and involve our common nationality in the shame of their stripes. They brutalize the State of Delaware, its women and its men together sharing the effects of the infliction, which is morally worse than to be whipped. Moreover, the whitpping-post is seddom the fate of the white man. It is the heir-at-law of the slave-master's boot, and perpetuates the subject-condition of the negro, reminding him of his dependence and his want of common rights with his white accessory. For white men are seldom beaten here. A Democratic Governor pardons them. But the negro white men are settom beater here. A benderation of the mean of the owned; he can at least be whith a grin; he can not be owned; he can at least be whipped, and great is the satisfaction of the superior race. At the town of Newcastle, some cunning imitator of the virtues of Guillotine has invented a cat-oline table with wire extremities. Every the virtues of Guillotine has invented a cat-ornine-tails with wire extremities, every blow of which cuts into the tendous like a knife blade, and often into the soins. More than twelve (108) blows of this instrument are said to be perilous to life. Yet a Methodist Sheriff goes through the business composedly, keeping tally for his deputy; and, when the negro has been uncivil, they "lick" him with a fiendish joy, till his cries at the post are echoed all the night as the vermin of the jail revel in his gashes. The phlory is no less brutalizing, being a blow at one's pride, which is the last article of man that a good State can appeal to; and to the spectators it makes a ribaldry of punishment, so that they laugh at the pilloried one, but do not pity him.

pity him.
The Delaware people, from the Governor down, argue for the continuance of these two Aslatic institutions, saying, chiefly, that the whipping-post is a better preventive than the jall, and that only negroes "catch it." Not caring to reply to these tolerably mean arguments, which a Turk can use as well as a Christian, I am convinced that the whipping-post continues because the people of Delaware are too mean to build a jail. They have no penitentiary, are averse to paying board in other jails for their criminals, and whip to save taxes, at the expense of their good name. Their jails, with one exception, are frail brick dens out of which the prisoners dig their way for amusement. and are never pursued. The jail at Dover presents, in its gabel, about thirty holes, freshly bricked up, where prisoners made their exit. There is for a purple of the prisoners made their country of the purple of the present and their country of the purple of the where prisoners made tack take the least says burglar no punishment more than for a purioiner. Hangings are uncommon, a wife's brother being allowed to shoot her busband dead for correcting her for adultery, while the woman marries again betore the grass grows green on his grave. A State that will not be taxed for schools will not pay for a jail.

With all this reckless niggardliness, there is, or was a year or two ago, a law forbidding a theatre or a horse-race in Delaware. The same holds good to this day, I believe. But every high road is a to this day, I believe. But every high road is a race-track, and every day a course, just as, when Delaware had a liquor law, it became compulsory to carry a decanter in your gig and treat the public. Marriage licenses are severely taxed, whereby young couples ride over into Pennsylvania to be spliced. The preachers on one side of the line, getting all the fees, are fat as aldermen, while on the Delaware side they are lean as pusckerel. mackerel.

THEATRES, Etc.

The Walnut.—At the Walnut this evening The Black Crook will be repeated with all of the old company, and a galaxy of saltatorial stars, including Miles. Venturole, Diani, Merlacchi, Leah and Wendel. The transformations, scenery, costumes and marches are all of the most superb character, and are well worth seeing by those who are partial to first class spectacular drama.

The American.—The American Theatre announces a miscellaneous entertainment this evening, with dancing by the fine ballet troupe. The White Fawn at the Chestnut Street Theatre, Messrs. Jarret and Palmer's "Great Spectacular Operatic Extravaganza," the White Fawn, will be produced in splendid style. The public already know something of the merits and the character of this piece. The managers claim that it was placed upon the stage at Niblo's, New York, at a cost of $100,000. It enjoyed prolonged popularity there, and was only withdrawn at the close of the season, and while still attracting large audiences. The drama has been produced here exactly as it was played at Niblo's, with the same beautiful scenery, jewels and paraphernalia, exquisite costumes, surprising transformations, the same dances and songs, and in a great measure, the same ballet troupe, and leading dancers. Among the danseuses may be mentioned Mile. Bonfanti and Mile. Sohlke. These will be assisted by the celebrated Vienniese troupe. There will be processions, marches, tableaux &c., and The cast is a good one, and is as follows:

Cardinal de Angelis is to be the reactionary candidate for the Papacy, and this gives a significance to the attendance of the Sacred College on his departure, which has greatly offended the Pope. The national party in Denmark is enthusiastically in favor of this union between the royal houses of Sweden and union between the royal houses of Sweden and Denmark, and the King of Denmark insisted on his son's proposing to the Princess Louisa in order to add to the not very great popularity of the Glucksburg dynasty on the throne of Denmark.

The rates of premium, being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the Insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are apt to cause the Policy-Holders. Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the IN-COME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former, the policyholder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in
