Another Cup of Ponnsylvania Coffee. I incompetent to attenditional business what double, triple, quadruple and quintuple voting in Pennsylvania in 1867, we confess that we id not for a moment dream that we had lighted upon a placer, so to speak, of such ex-traordinary and romantic richness. As the documentary and other evidence accumu-documentary and other evidence accumulates upon our hands, we begin to think that this is one of these 'public rascallties which are distinct to become historical. The XXIst Senatorial District of Pennsylvania will be famous hereafter. The county of Luzerne has achieved a perennial notoriety. Mr. Shugart's majority of twenty-two will make him a more celebrated man than if it had been twenty-two thousand; and far it had been twenty-two thousand; and far better would it have been for him, and for his party, if he had vacated his ill-gotten seat in the Senate upon demand, instead of provoking a searching investigation which has left him without a shred to cover his moral left him without a shred to cover his moral nakedness. If he had been a wise person he would as soon have thought of sitting for any other counties in the State as for Blair, Huntington, Centre, Mifflin, Perry and Juniata. Briefly premising that Shugart was returned as elected by 14,124 votes over Robison who had 14,102, we proceed to notice some of the lovely ways and delightful means by which Shugart accumulated his pile and thimble rigged his way for a time into the Senate.

In the statements, which follow, we shall use as our authority the sworn testimony before the Legislative Committee as printed in the Daily Legislative Record. Centre county is what, as the reader will please remember, the Democratic emissaries were pleased to characterize as a Republican hole. Mr. O'Meara testifies (Legislative Record, p. 1406) that he was approached by Collins, who was contractor for Tailroad building in Clearfield and Centre counties, and by one Patrick Gorman, who was "walking boss." These worthies confided to the witness their intention of "running in votes enough to carry Centre county." pursuance of this scheme, as O Meara swears. bout 100 men were marched to Philipsburg provided with fraudulent naturalization papers obtained in Luzerne county. These papers, as O'Meara further testities, were colored to give them the appearance of age, by soaking them in coffee, and there is evidence that Sheriff Perks superintended the operation. tion. This is the O Meara who, after the frauds were discovered, was paid $500, through a Catholic priest, to prevent his becoming a witness. (L. R. 1,407.) Lede, the walking boss on the railway, seems to have been also boss of this sharp operation, and it was at his request as the assessor of Philipsburg borough testifies, that forty-two names were placed on the lists fourteen days before the election. When clection day came, this Lede, at Philipsburg, brought up a squad of twenty-five Irishmen to yote the Democratic ticket, all from the Clearfield Railroad, and all colonized at Gray's tavern. "A few days after," says the witness, "the men left the tavern and in a short time were back in Clearfield county."

(v. testimony of Frank Fleming, L. R., p. 1,408.) The naturalization papers upon which these men voted were examined by another witness, who noticed that "they were colored, but that they had on them revenue stamps which were not colored, and they had no seal." (v. testimony of J. P. Williams, L. R., p. 1, 408;) Another witness, G. H. Zeigler, was an inspector, lived in Philipsburg, knew everybody in Philipsburg, and swears distinctly that "a short time before election about aights time men. were headen election about eighty-five men were brought into the borough; they all had naturalization papers;" these were of so suspicious a character that witness objected to the holders voting upon them, but was overruled by the judges. Mr. Zeigler continued to object and to challenge while this sham vote was pouring in, until toward evening, when, finding his remonstrances of no avail, he held his peace, the translation of the peace of th those freshly-imported citizens. "Nineteen." answered the patriotic but not over-intelligent youth. "I handed him back," says Mr.
