CRIME. The Adams Express Robbery-Reno and Anderson Discharged at Wind-sor, and Bearrested on Another Charge esterday the case of the United States agains Yesterday the case of the United States against Frank Reno and Charles Anderson was called up again before Police Magistrate Caron, at Windsor, for further examination. When the case was called, Albert Prince, who was employed to conduct the examination for the prosecution, renewed his motion of yesterday for the admission of certain documentary evidence. The magistrate declined to receive it, unless the prosecution would produce Harkins, the main witness against the defendants, in order to give them an opportunity to meet him face to face and subject him to a cross-examination. He said he had examined the statute

ination. He said he had examined the statute and had come to the conclusion that it was entirely discretionary with him to admit or roject the documentary evidence, and under the circumstances he should exclude it. At the suggestion of Mr. Prince, a note of this discussion was made by the clerk, and the counsel then announced that he should not introduce Harkins, nor would he give any reason for his non-production in Court. He announced at the same time that he could not proceed further with the case unless permitted to introduce the depositions. The Court offered to give him further impressions. The Court offered to give him further with the colons. The Court offered to give him further impressore clined, and the magistrate then discharged the prisoners.

No sooner had they been set at liberty than they were rearrested on a warrant charging them with having committed an assault with intent to kill Americus Wheedon, conductor on the Jeffersonville, Madison and Indiana Railroad, in Indiana, on the 22d of May last, issued by Gilbert McMicken, another of the magistrates in the town. This action was not entirely unexpected, although the source from which the warrant emanated created a little surprise. The prisoners, about, noon, were arraigned before Mr. McMicken, pleaded not gnilty, and the examination was adjourned until 2.30 o'clock, at which time the Court reopened at Sandwich. Thomas G. Frank Reno and Charles Anderson, Sen., are the men who robbed the express car. He declared that he could not be mistaken in regard to the identity of the prisoners, and gave his testimony in such a manner as to leave little, if any, room to doubt its correctness. Mr. Wheedon, the conductor of the train which was robbed, and who preferred the charge of assault with intent to kill, failed to identify the accused. Some other testimony of an unimportant nature was taken, when, owing to the lateness of the hour, the case was adjourned for a further hearing at 10 o'clock A. M. to-day.

It is understood that the British Minister at Washington has written to the Ganadian Government, requesting them: to use every honorable effort to secure the extradition of Reno and Anderson, and the Adams Express Company are determined they shall come over if, they are guilty. The defendants, on the other hand, have strong hopes of proving an alibi.—Detroit (Mich.) Tribune, Aug. 20.

He was born in Scipio, in the State of New York, in 1812, and early exhibited proofs of his natural ability in drawing and painting. Coming to the city he was a pupil successively of Trumbull and of Quidor, and gained considerable reputation by some oil paintings representing scenes from Irving's and Paulding's works. After remaining there for a year, he returned to the western part of the State and practised his profession as a portrait painter for ten years, at the end of which time he returned to New York city.

Mr. Elliott latterly has lived much in Albany, where his most intimate friend, Palmer, the sculptor resides. Among his last portraits was one of Mr. Erastus Corning.
