Serious Fracas in the Broadway Theatro, New York—Two of the Employes Shot and Wounded by a Posso of Sheriff's Officers—Arrest of the As-

A few weeks ago, the drams of Foul Play was produced at the New York Theatre by the lesses, J. T. Loyd and J. H. Harkins. The latter lesses, J. T. Loyd and J. H. Harkins. The latter having secured the play from the agent of Messrs. Boucicult and Rende, had agreed to pay $50 for each representation of the play. The sum was paid for several evenings, but the play did not oraw as had been expected, and Mr. Loyd objected to pay the sum agreed upon. Finally, one evening Mr. Harkins visited the box office, while the play was in progress, took the receipts for that evening, and paid Mr Palmer, the agents of the authors, the amount claimed by him. To this act Mr. Loyd demurred very strongly, and Mr. Harkins left, taking with him the majority of the company.

Company.

Last evening Foul Play was produced for the first time at the Broadway Theatre, with Mr. Harkins and those members of the Company lately performing at the New York Theatre, but who had secoded with him, in the cast. It was also again produced at the New York Theatre, a company having been, in the meantline, secured by Mr. Lloyd. At 9 o'clock last night five men nuexpectedly presented themselves at the stage entrance on Mercer street of the Broadway Theatre and pushing saids the doorkseeper Stephen. unexpectedly presented themselves at the stage entrance on Mercer street of the Broadway Theatre, and pushing aside the door-keeper, Stephen Wallace, aged sixty-five years, rushed into the theatre. Descending to the floor on which are the dressing-rooms, the party were met by several of the employes of the theatre, who demanded the business of the intruders. No satisfactory reply was returned, and the employes, headed by Stephen Wilson, the property man, attempted to eject the party. Without stating who they were, the strangers at once seized Wilson, and one of them bent him back on the stair ralling, and while in that position several shots were fired by the party at the helpless man. One shot struck him on the side of the head, and glanced off, causing a severe scalp wound. Another struck Wilson in the right leg, also inflicting a serious wound. Five shots in all were fired by the party. One of these shots passed through the right forearm and entered the breast of Leslie Chamberlain, aged 17 years, of No. 101 Seventh avenue, who is employed to attend to the gas in the establishment. Chamberlain's wound is regarded as very dangerous. He was standing at the head of the stairs at the time, locking at the party, and taking no part in the affray. Hearing the confusion and subsequent shots, Mr. Harkins, who was about to go on the stage, and conjecturing, what afterward proved to be irue, that the intruders were a party of Sheriff's officers, who had called to arrest him, dashed across the stage, and passing through the auditorium took refuge in the office. His flight caused considerable alarm among the audience who had heard the pistol shots, and were curious caused considerable alarm among the audience who had heard the pistol shots, and were curious who had heard the pistol shots, and were curious to ascertain the cause. This alarm was intensified by the appearance of Mrs. Harkins at one of the wings, exclaiming, "Do not let them injure my husband." Soon after Mr. Jack appeared upon the stage and assured the audience that there was no cause for alarm; the reports they had heard were occasioned by the accidental discharge of pistols. Many, however, left the theatre and did not return. In the meantime, news of the affray had been communicated to the Police, and, entering the theatre, they arrested the entire party of assailants and conveyed them to the of assailants and convoyed them to the Wooster street Police Station, where they gave the names of George Hickey, James Moore, James Ward, Dennis Leary, and Thomas Quian, and all professed to be Sheriff's officers, acting under an order of arrest for D. H. Burking granted by Justice Barrard, of the Specers, acting under an order of arrest for D. H. Barkins, granted by Justice Barnard of the Supreme Court, on the complaint of J. T. Lloyd. The prisoners took the matter quite coolly, and The prisoners took the matter quite coolly, and seemed to think that their position as officers would shield them from any serious consequences of their act. Hickey, Ward and Moore were each armed with a pistol. Leary had no pistol, but carried a knife, and had in his pocket a number of pistol cartridges. Three shots had been discharged from Ward's pistol and two from Hickey's. The wounded persons were brought to the station-house. Wilson at once identified Hickey as the man who had shot him, and Chamberlain said Ward resembled the man who was firing at the time he sembled the man who was firing at the time he sembled the man who was firing at the time he was shot. All of the Sheriti's party were locked up in cells for the night, much to their surprise. Hickey proposed that they should be allowed to go at large last night and they would report in person at the station-house at any hour that might be named on the following day. This cool proposition was declined, much to the indignation of the City Hall officials. The wounded were taken to the New York Hospital, where, at a late hour last night, Chamberlain was pronounced to be in a critical condition.—Tribune of to-day.

TEXAS.

Stoppage of a Train and Attempted Bobbery of $300,000 by Desperadoes One of the Gang Shot Dead.

Brownsville, August 18th, 1868.—On Monday night, the 10th instant, a conducta from Monterey, with $300,000 in specie, was attacked within three miles of Matamoras by six desperadoes, who succeeded in taking possession of the train. The guard, acting as an escort to the treasure, con-sisting of thirty men well armed with Henry rifles, were either surprised and overcome, or perhaps, had a private understanding with their assailants beforehand, and were—overcome their assailants beforehand, and were overcome-by the prospect of sharing the rich booty with the captore. The six daring outlaws, however, succeeded in getting possession of the treasure, and would, no doubt, have succeeded in carrying it off and secreting it, but one of the escort, more daring than the others, opened an attack on the robbers by firing on them from one of the wagons. He succeeded in shooting one of them named Miguel Ramirez through the head, and in wounding another seriously. On this show of wounding another seriously. On this show of pluck and success, the remainder of the escort rallied around their intrepid leader, and succeeded in arresting four of them. Among the latter is a desperado named Abram Garcia, who, it is said, desperado hamet Ariam Garcia, who, it is said, is long known as a robber and assassin under the nom de guerre of Caballo Blanco.

About a year ago the young man Ramirez was under indictment for murder in the District Court of this place, but discharged by nolle prosequi because the evidence against him was insufficient to sustain the charge. His father is a wealthy old miser, and like several others of the robbers he is connected with some of the most influential families in Matameras. His dead body, perfora-ted by two bullets, was exposed at the calaboose all day Tuesday.

The fellow Caballo Blanco, whose crimes are said to be almost incredible from their number and audacity, has been demanded from the custody of General Palacios, the military command-ant, by the civil authorities, and the former has surrendered him for no other reason than that it is supposed that he has influential backers in Matamoras, who hope thus to save him from cortain punishment and, perhaps, themselves from exposure as accomplices in some of his crimes.

Murder Upon Impulse.

The singular story which follows, and which is taken from a recent number of the London News, furnishes an additional case for the study of psychologists:

'Gunner Benjamin Sheldon, who was hanged at Lucknow for having shot and killed Bombarat Lucknow for having shot and killed Bombardier Wall, made a strange confession. On the day of the murder he had been led 'by the kindness of his friends' to drink to excess. 'In the evening,' he says, 'I must have been at roll call, although I do not recollect it; and the first thing I do recollect, after leaving the canteen when it was closed, was finding myself at the cot of Corporal Wall, with a carbine in my hand. I cannot tell whether Corporal Wall was asleep or awake. It was then with a carbine in my hand. I cannot tell whether Corporal Wall was asleep or awake. It was then as in a moment, I felt impelled by some uncontrollable impulse to shoot him. I tried not to do it, but I had no power—it was as if I could not leave the spot. It seems to me as if I had been under a strong and irresistible temptation of the dcvil. I do not remember discharging the carbine, or speaking to any one; but my next conscious moment was, when I was being handcuffed in the guard-room, as one of the handcuffs nipped me. It was not until the next morning, when I was told of what had happened, that the circumstance of having been at Corporal Wall's cot flashed upon me.'"

Burlesque at the Walnut.

Mr. Leffingwell, a burlesque actor of some reputation, appeared for the first time in Philadelphia at the Walnut street Theatre, last evening. The pieces chosen for his debut were Byron's amusing burlesque of Fra Diavulo, and Mr. Fallenger Trae Much for Good Nature. In coner's farce, Too Much for Good Nature. In the first the character of "Beppo" gave Mr. Lef-lingwell an excellent opportunity to imitate and exaggerate Mr. Edwin Forrest Probably this latter gentleman can be burlesqued more easily than any other living actor. His peculiarities and mannerisms are strongly marked, and playgoers are so very familiar with all his tricks o gesping, grimacing, stamping and rolling his r's, that the imitator finds his audience at once in perfect sympathy with him. The buriesque last night was admirable, and was received with hearty laughter by the large audience. The exaggeration was by no means violent, and indeed Mr. Forrest's tricks were so closely imitated that we regret that the "great American tragedian" was not present to see how nearly he approaches sometimes to absurdity, and how very parrow the line is between his serious performance and the intense comedy of Mr. Leffling well's personation. Where Mr. Forrest pronounces "blood" in nine syllables, Mr. Lefflingwell extends it to fifteen. That is about the extent of the exaggeration. The latter gentlemen is Mr. Forrest plus ridiculous mannerisms, minus his convincements. genuine talent. In the second piece Mr. Leffing-well was also excellent. We shall not attempt to describe either the character or the drama. to describe either the character or the drama. Both will be given again this evening, and they should be seen. Suffice it to say, that the actor is very funny in his own person, and some of his imitations are excellent. He professes to be simply a burlesque actor, and unlike many other gentlemen in this department of art, we are happy to say he is really amusing, and without that inclination to constant repetition which invariably bores the audience before the close of a comic entertainment. tertainment.

THEATRES, Etc.

The CHESTNUT.—The White Fawn will be repeated this evening at the Chestnut Street Theatre, with the full ballet troupe, headed by Bonfanti and Sohlke, and with all the appurtenances of handsome scenery, costumes, &c. THE WALNUT .- This evening Mr. Leffingwell, a burlesque actor of some celebrity, will begin a brief engagement at the Walnut. Mr. Leilingwell is said to have been very successful in other cities with his impersonations, and there can be little doubt of his attaining considerable popularity here if he does all that is claimed for him.

He will appear this evening as "Beppo" and as "Romeo Jaffler Jenkins."

Mr. Charles Reade's dramatic version of his novel Foul Play will shortly be produced at the Walnut. The manuscript was purchased from the author by Mr. John S. Clarke while in London.

THE AMERICAN.—A miscellaneous performance will be given at this theatre to-night. It will include dancing by the very superior ballet

He was passing Twentyfourth and Sansom streets when his dog suddenly seized a man by the leg. The man made an at-tack on the canine, and Hushwood turned around tack on the canine, and Hushwood turned around and urged the cur to renew the assault. A woman was then bitten. By this time there was considerable excitement in the street, and Officers Jordan and Ryder, of the Schuylkill Harbor Police, came up. A DESPERATE BURGLAR.—The house of Richard Berry, a policeman of the Second District, on Annapolis street, in the neighborhood of Front and Shippen streets, was entered last night about eleven o'clock. The burglar got upon a shed in the yard and then made his way through a second story window. Mrs. Berry heard a noise in the house and went up stairs. As she was passing from the second to the third story she met a man who immediately seized her by the throat. She had a lamp in her hand and she threw it at the desperado. The latter then loosened his hold desperado. The latter them loosened his hold and kicked Mrs. Berry in the abdomen. He then escaped through the same window by which he had entered. John was held in $500 bail for assault and battery and Henry in $400 bail for interfering.

A BRUTAL FELLOW .- William Hummill was before Alderman Massey this morning upon the charge of assault and battery. It is alleged that his wife had refused to live with him in conse-quence of the ill-treatment which she received. Yesterday he met her at Ninth and Parrish streets and attacked her and knocked her down. He was arrested by Policeman Mathews. Hummill was committed for trial.

IMPROMPTU ILLUMINATION.—Workmen were engaged in repairing the gas main at Seventh and Vine streets yesterday. ROCKBRIDGE ALUM SPRINGS, VA. There is not amongst all the Mineral Waters of Virginia so valuable a therapeutic agent as this. It is not upon any such vague and uncertain test as "Analysis" (though even Analysis attests its great value) that its fame rects. But it is upon the accumulated proofs furnished by forty years heating the sick of many and most grievous maladies. And as the water bears transportation perfectly and has often been kept five years and more without spoiling in the least, it is worth while to call at the Drug Store of

CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD CO.

We have just received in detail the statement of the operations of the CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANI for the first six months of the current year. The figures are:

Gross Earnings. Operating Expenses. Net. Barnings. $607,634 29 gold. $217,983 63 gold. $389,650 66 gold. As the first train passed across the mountains on the 18th of June the road was not fairly open for the legiti-mate traffic until July 1st. The above is practically the business on 93 miles to Cisco; although 25 to 36 miles of disconnected road were worked on the last slope it was no source of profit; moreover much of the freight would naturally be held back for the continuous rail. The gross earnings for July were $260,000 00 Gold.

We suppose the expenses during that time not to exceed Thirty-five per cent. We have on hand for sale

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

Prissipal also payable in gold at 103 and accrued interest.
