Waukegan Circuit Court in September. The facts, which are said to be as follows, have caused great excitement among the many friends of the accused: Mrs. Peck has, for some time past, been a confirmed invalid, and confined to her bed-room, under constant medical: care, and has been taking a great deal of medicine. In the legal investigation it transpired that Mr. Peck came home a few evenings ago with a powder, which he said was put up by an eminent physician, and which he desired his wife would take, saying it would heal her at once. His uneasy manner and his anxiety that she should take it at once made her suspicious, and on some pretext she got possession of the powder and refused to give it up. Next day she had it analyzed, and discovered that there was enough morphine in it to kill two men. A magistrate was sent for and took her deposition; the apothecary was also summoned, and Peck arrested and put upon bonds as stated. His friends have tried to stave off the trial as long as possible, and keep the matter quiet, not believing the almost incredible charge under which he labors. Mr. Peck is one of the wealthlest men in that vicinity, and has always borne a good name in Chicago for interrity.

September Session.

September session has been discussed, though it has been sgreed that the matter should be left open as yet. The opinion is quite decided that no call for a session at that time will be issued. Should a session for any reason be called it will probably be simply with a view to taking another recess until October, and not for legislation.
