SLORIA THE TRUE. Gaily a knight set forth against the foc.
For a fair face had shone on himin dreams
A voice had stirred the silence of his sleep,
"Go win the battle, and I will be thine." o, for the love of those appealing eyes, ed by low accents of fair Gloria's voice, e wound the bugle down his castle's steep,

And none were braver in the tented field, Like lightning heralding the doomful bolt. The enemy beheld his knowy plame, And death-lights flashed along his glancing sp But in the lonesome watches of the night, An angel came and warned him with clear ve Against high God his rash arm was raised, Was rashly raised againt the true, the right. He strove to drown the angel voice with song, And merry lapghter with his princely peers; But still the angel bade him with clear voice, join the ranks you rashly have opposed. "Oh angel," cried he, "they are few and weak, They may not stand before the press of knights But still the angel bade him with clear voice, "Go help the weak against the mighty Wrong, At last the words sank deep within his heart, With god-like courage cried he out, at last, "Oh Gloria, beautiful, I can lose thee, Lose life, and thee, to battle for the Right."

Like Saul amid his brethren he stood, Braver and seemlier than all his peers, And nobly did he battle for the Right: Gentlest unto the weak, and in the fray damitless, none—no fear of man had. e wrought dismay in Error's blackened walls, o nobly did he battle for the Right. But at the last he lay on a lost field; Couched on his broken spear he pallid lay, With dying lips he murmured Gloria's name, "The field is lost—and thou art lost to me."

When, lo! she stood beside him, pure and fair With tender eyes that blessed him as he lay; And, lo! she knelt and clasped his dying hands And murmured, "I am thine, am thine at last." With wondering eyes, he moaned,-"All, all lost,
And I am dying." Ah, not so," she cried,
"Nothing is lost to him who dare be true;
Who gives his life shall find it evermore."

"Methought I saw the spears beat down like grain And the ranks reel, before the press of knights; The level ground ran gory with our wounds: Methought the field was lost, and then I felt." "Be calm," she cried, " the Right is never lost,

"And all the blood that falls in righteous cau Each ruby drop shall nourish snowy flowers And golden grain, bright sheaves of good, That under happier skies shall yet be reaped. "When Right opposes Wrong, shall ovil win? Nay, never-but the year of God is long, And you are weary; rest ye now in peace, For so He giveth His beloved sleep."

He emiled and murmured low, "I am content With biaseful tears that hid the battle's loss: So, held to her true heart, he closed his eyes, In quietest rest that ever he had known. THE OCTOBER MAGAZINES.

Downey, of the Western Engine Company, who has just been elected Chief of the Fire Department, is in the thirty-ninth year of his age, and was born in Boring Garden District. At the age of seventeen he was apprenticed to the brass moulding business, with the firm of Cornelius & Baker, and is at present employed by Messrs. Miskey, Merrill & Thackara. On the 7th of February 1849, he connected himself with the Western Fire Engine Company, and since that time has been an active member of that organization. In June, 1856, he was elected Secretary of the company, a position to which he has been chosen at every subsequent semi-annual election of the Western. In 1860 he was elected Assistant Engineer of the Second Fire Division, and in 1862 was re-elected. In 1865 he was defeated for the same office. In December, 1867, he became a candidate for the position of Chief Engineer made vacant by the death of Mr. Lyle, and was defeated by only two majority, he receiving the votes of thirty companies to thirty-two for Mr. McCusker, his successful competitor.

Poor Sun. Tajen! Poor Chin. Tajen! Poor Chang-Wang Sou-Chong, and such others as compose the Chinese Embrassy! They depart EFFERSON FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY OF PHI from America to-day. They have been sojourning pleasantly along the eastern borders of this great country, which, for them, has flowed with milk and honey, or with the preferable substitutes, rice and champagne.
Their pig-tailed Excellencies have been entertained by the eloquence of the wise men of the East, of which they understood not a word. They have quaffed and eaten at stately banquets, while inwardly longing for the plain rice and tscha of the Celestial Empire. They have clambered over the New England hills, and run the gauntlet of New England spindles. They
