Disturbances in India.

Some items of East Indian news have been telegraphed from Brindist to London in anticipation of the mail. Disturbances have broken ogt in the Huzara country on the northwest frontier. The Punjaub independent tribes attacked the police posts, and apparently the British villages sided with them. A British force under General Wilde marched to punish the offenders. The Europeans were armed with the Snider rite, and the telegram says "the effect was reassuring."

It is thought that the Government will not lose anything by the defalcation at the Post-office Department, as Olmstead owns property enough to cover the amount missing. In addition to property in this city, he owned a large farm near Baltsville, Md., besides several acres of land in North Carolina, for which the purchase money had been paid. It is said that the Government money in his possession was used only a short time ago to pay notes which had been given for the North Carolina lands. Of several special deposits of bonds, money, etc., in sums ranging from $100 to $1,500, left with him by various clerks in the Post-office Department, all were found safe except one package containing $2,600 in bonds, belonging to George Pettro, an old clerk of the Department.
