It was decidedly proper that the Government of the United States should be the first power on earth to recognize officially the new order of things in revolutionized Spain. The Madrid, Hon. John P. COLLISION ON THE ALLEGHENY VAL-LEY RAILROAD. Two Night Trains Come Together— One Man Killed-Engines and Cars Wrecked. The Pittsburgh Chronicle of last night contains the following details of a frightful accident, the bare announcement of which we have had by tel-

"At about six o'clock yesterday morning a ter-Railroad, about haif a mile below Scrubgrass station. The accident resulted in the death of one man, the slight injury of two or three others and the wrecking of two locomotives and several oil cars. The calamity consisted in the collision of two night express trains, made up of oil cars, with passenger coaches in the rear. The express train north left this city at seven o'clock P. M. on Saturday, and was three hours behind time when the collision took place. The down train was held back on account of the Republican Convention at Oil City, from half past seven until twelve o'clock Saturday evening. It left Venango City, with eixteen tank cars loaded with oil, two passenger cars filled with passengers, and a sleeping coach. The conductor, James Brien, received orders from the night despatcher at this city, stating that the up train was running on schedule time, and he was to keep clear of her. The down train reached Scrubgrass station, about twenty miles this side of Franklin, about half-past one o'clock, and switched, expecting the Pittaburgh train to pass, and waited until five minutes past six o'clock Sunday morning, when the conductor determined to proceed to the next station, thinking that the up train, as it was so much behind time, had met with an accident. A heavy for had prevailed but had litted at Scrubgrass before the train started. The train ran very slowly, and after going a short distance, came again into the fog. After going, as before stated, about half a mile the collision occurred. The shock was such as to wreck both engines, and three oil cars of the up train, was thrown shead of the engine of the up train and two of the other. A platform car, loaded with boilers, next the engine of the up train, was thrown shead of the engine and down an embankment. The fireman of the down train, Richard Snyder, of Pittsburgh, while up train, was thrown ahead of the engine and down an embankment. The fireman of the down train, Richard Snyder, of Pittsburgh, while attempting to jump from the engine, was caught between it and the tender, and both his legs were mangled in a shocking manner. It was halfpast ten o'clock before the physicians could be procured. The leg which was mangled the worst was immediately amputated, but the sufferings of the poor man had been so great that he did not survive the operation. He died a few minutes before twelve o'clock. It is estimated that the loss
