THE FRENCH SITUATION.

The harshness and severity of the recent action of the French Emperor, in enforcing the most literal construction of the laws against freedom of speech and the press, indicate that the perpetual apprehension of revolution, which has been the penalty of his elevation, has degenerated into sht. The temper of the government exhibited in the cases of parties who have given for some time from the tone of the public from it when it begins to grow old? bied in the cases of parties who have given even slightest cause for suspicion, is almost ferocious; and it must be confessed that the enemies of Napoleon, with cruel ingenuity, have not neglected any safe means of galling him in the sorest-place. A subscription was started recently for the benefit of one of the victims of that corp d'étrit of December 2d, 1852, by which Louis Napoleon seized the imperial crown. The movement was too late to have been the suggestion of mere benevolence. There was a political purpose hidden beneatt the cloak of charity. A call for popular assistance, coming from a victum or thet billw against liberty, would be sure to awaken in the minds of the people, keener and livelier recollections of its wickedness, and of the perjury and treason of its author. A subscription list might have been the nucleus the barbarous Lopez, without a protest, and of the rosters of a revolutionary force, pledged to win France back to the people. The memory of the crime by which he sprang to wer, is the bitterest recollection of Napo-on's life, and the thing in his history that he would most like the people to forget. But, as he cannot efface the record from history, or the minds of men, he is determined that it shall not be flung in his face, and openly used as a weapon against him. Accordingly he bas issued orders to the Prefects of all the cription movement, and to suppress, by force, all public manifestations having any reference to the coup d'état. Further than this, he has suspended and suppressed the Temps newspaper, and begun vigorous proecution under the odious, partial and oppressive press law, against other journals which have favored the subscription movement.

the end is fast approaching. The spirit of liberty is abroad in the world, and it is find-ing a home among the most absolute nations. Italy is enfranchised; Austria has a constitu-tion and freedom; Spain is free, and is reach-ing forward to pure Republicanism. The We notice a number of correspondents and We cannot say that we are much surprised at his supineness, but there were not a few Re-publicans who were foolish enough to vote for him, and who, already, begin to see good cause to repent of their folly. But the French people are more in- have done better. clined to revolution than their neighbors, and if there is any evidence of sympathy in the army for the popular hatred of Emperor, his throne is not worth an hour's purchase. It is upon the devotion of the army to him that he relies; and to a great extent it is worthy of his confidence. But the recent oppressive conscriptions have filled the ranks with discontented men, and there is none of the passionate attachment for the present Emperor that there was for Napoleon First. It is not impossible, therefore, that the army would be divided in the event of a general uprising, and perhaps the mass of the younger troops would e found upon the popular side. It is doubtful if many of them, at any rate, in this day, would fire upon Frenchmen as they have done in years gone by.

to-morrow the following from Governor Clayton of Arkansas To the Sheriff and other County Officers: I have transmitted to your counties copies of my pro-clamation declaring martial law in certain coun-ties of the State. The election being over, the time has now arrived when the State government must sustain likelf at the point of the bayonet, if necessary. The American beople have, by over-whelming majorities, declared in favor of the va-lidity of the reconstruction measures, and the government set up here under the United States authorities in deference to the declaion of the transmitted to your counties copies of my proauthorities in deference to the decision of the people. We ask no help from abroad. We must show a willingness to help ourselves. The energiene to a set of the section of the erected activity is looked for until affairs become more the Secretary, will be rejected. Among these is show a willingness to help ourselves. The ens-mies of the State and the government are demor-alized by the effects of the standing blow received on the 5d inst, and now is the anspictous time for the officers of the Government, State, county and municipal, aided by the loyal people, to re-cover their lost authority, and by one grand, thorough effort establish speace and order permanenty in this State. It is the determination of the executive to lend every en-ergy towards the accomplishment of this desired; and and if the officers of the various departments end, and if the officers of the various departments heartily second him in his efforts, it will be accomplished. I, therefore, urge upon the officers of your county to put forth a united and determined effort to the enforcement of the law, and toward bringing criminals to punishment. You must make your authority respected or bring on an open issue. If after making a vigorous attempt you fail, then martial law will be extended to your county, and upon the heads of the people thereof a dreadful responsi-buity must rest. You are requested to perfect an organization of the militia in your county. the loyal people do not volunteer in the State, a reserve militia must be organized, and when called upon you must famish your quots of militia to operate in other portions of the State-Urge upon the citizens not to act upon their own opinions against the authoritics. The system infugurate and the policy pursued by General Schofield aving by long experience been found complete and satisfactory. The one was adopted and the other was followed, with such modifications in the details as circumstances arising from time to time seemed to demand.
