The excuse for issuing arms and am-munified to the tribes is that they may be able to kill buffalo, when every old hungter will tell yon always uses his bow and arrow, saving his gun to go to war with. This Indian expedition thus becomes of vital interest, and upon its success or failure depends the safety of the people on the frontier, the pro-gress of the railroad west, and the future policy of dealing with the Indians. After the troubles commenced on the Solomon and along the sta-tions of the road, it was decided not to give the customary annulities to the Indians.
