being nominated, as it was thought his nomina-tion would in a measure harmonize the differences which have existed for some time between Judge Kelley and Senator Cameron. It is not certain, however, that Marks will be the man, as a different understanding may be had by which Judge Kelley, Hon. Chas. O'Neill and Leonard Myers will jointly agree upon a man, who may be acceptable, and if this should be done, his confirmation would be assured, for with this support, it would certainly be approved by the Sente, and the person thus nominated would likely hold the office under the next administration. This is the reason why such caution is shown by the parties most interested, as they are looking more to the future than the present, because, if the new Collector were to hold the office only from December till April next, it would make very little difference whether Mr. Cake or some

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.

The Washington correspondent of the N. Y.

The Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Herald writes:

As to the number of commissioners there is no doubt that the convention fixes it at four, two on each side, but provides that they shall decide on different claims in a different manner. The canvention divides the claims into two classes—one known as the Alahama claims and the other class vention divides the claims into two classes—one known as the Alabama claims and the other class comprising all other claims that have arisen between the two countries since the treaty of 1853. In the case of claims of the second class the convention declares that a majority of the four commissioners shall decide, unless some one of the commissioners calls for an arbitrator, thus leaving it optional with the Board of Commissioners to have an arbitrator or not, as they choose; but in the case of the Alabama claims the convention provides that each and every one of the claims shall be passed unanimously, and not by a mere majority of the commissioners, as in the case of other claims. When one single commissioner dissents the claim must be referred to an arbitrator previously agreed upon, and the decision of this arbitrator is to be final. These are positively the provisions of the conventions when the first page this morning, and hope it will be generally read, that the people may get a correct idea of it and grow indignant that such a relic of barbarism should be preserved anywhere within our borders. Several people, quilty of small offences, have been pillorled and whipped in New Castle, Delawar decision of this arbitrator is to be final. These are positively the provisions of the convention on the most vital points. My information comes from such a source as to leave no room for a particle of doubt. By this convention our government considers that it has caused Great Britain to concede the most vital point at issue. In the earlier stages of the negotiations the English government refused to commit to arbitration the question as to her right to accord belligerent rights to the rebels, and her right to permit vessels of war to be fitted out in her ports to harass our commerce and attack our own permit vessels of war to be fitted out in her ports to harass our commerce and attack our own navy. Those were questions which she contended belonged to her own municipal laws, the construction of which she would not suffer to be passed upon by any other Power. Our Government now holds that in consenting to have the Alabama claims passed upon by this Commission England has inso fucto consented to commit the question of her right to concede belligerent rights to the rebels to be passed upon also, as the one question is necessarily involved in the other. This our Government considers is a concession of the most vital point at issue and a triumph of diplomacy for our side. The objection to the convention on the part of our Government is contained in the article which compels the commissioner disagrees to any of
