ENGLAND. Particulars of the Wigan Colliery Ex-plosion. On the morning of the 26th November, about On the morning of the 26th November, about 9 o'clock, a terrible explosion of fire damp oc-eured in the Arloy mine of the Hindleygreen collieries, about two and a half miles from Leigh and about fourteen from Manchester. The works belong to John Scowcroft & Co. (limited), and at the time of the accident upwards of three hundred men were in the pit. The mine is about 320 yards deep, and is worked with an up and down Shaft. The works are under the superintendence of Mr. Southworth, managing director. Mr. Ellis Dreenan, the underground manager. Wasa at the works at the underground director. Mr. Ellis Dreenan, the underground manager, was at the works at the time of the extosion, which occurred just after the men had reakfasted. In the immediate vicinity of the replosion itself the whole of the men and boys breaknasted. In the immediate vicinity of the explosion itself the whole of the men and boys were killed or serionsly injured. There was at once a rush for those uninjured to the pit-eyes, and large numbers were resened, suffering only from fright. The injured, about twenty in num-ber, were brought away and at once attended to by Drs. Brayton and Ormerod. The task of re-moving the bodies of the killed was necessarily a very alow and paintul one, as the workings took fire. By two o'clock in the afternoon thirty-eight bodies were brought to the surface, and a large number, variously estimated at from forty to eighty, were missing. The origin of the ac-cident is unknown, as the ventilation was said to be excellent. It is supposed that some workman cident is unknown, as the ventilation was said to be excellent. It is supposed that some workman must have removed the top from his lamp and that a sudden rush of gas caused the explosion. The atmosphere was very heavy at the time. The bodies were in many cases fearfully disfig-ured, rendering identification very difficult. It is remarkable that all the men brought out were young men, the eldest not being apparently over thirty years of age.

noon was unknown. Fifty-soven persons, it is thought, were killed and ten others seriously burned by the explosion. At six o'clock in the afternoon the freemen made an inspection and re-ported that all was safe. Both of the firemen were killed. The workings extend east and west. On the cast side 160 men worked and on the west' sixty or soventy. All on the east side escaped; nearly all on the west were killed. Several escaped with burns. A few penetrated the choke damp and one was restored by artificial respiration; but fifty-six were suffo-cated and one has died from his burns. The ex-tremity of the workings was not reached until Sicerna, while the men he had married were en-rolled into the army and the marriages were de-clared illegal. In like manner baptisms of children had to be enforced with armed authority since the peasants do not believe in the efficacy of the set when accommodal herein armed of the act when accompanied by Russian words. 7 The Catholic inhabitants of the Grodno and 1 Kovno districts are now escorted to church by the soldiery and the police; they refuse to go of their own accord, objecting to the new language introduced into the worship.

The house was occupied by Mrs. Fannie Craig and two sons, both young men. The neighbors entered the house and found Mrs. Craig weltering in blood. A long and deep gash had been cut in the left side of her throat. She had been attacked while in bed. A case knife, nearly new and very sharp, covered with blood, was found in the room. Mrs. Craig was removed into the adjoining house, and the police were no-tified of the occurrence. They searched the house and arrested Hugh Craig, son of the injured woman, on the charge of having committed the woman, on the charge of having committed the horrible deed.
