identification, all badly burned, and all, perhaps, beyond chance of recognition.

It is not my province to speak of where the blame attaches for this crushing disaster. That there was great dereliction is the universal belief in the vicinity of the wreck and among all the country people who hurried to the heartrending scene. They say that the America was running entirely out of her usual bearings; and each of them hashlissarcasm about the gallant commander.

The Work of Recovering the Hodies.

Of all who were on the burning boats there was one man—and only one man—who saved his trunk. That man was Captain David Whitten, of the steamer America. And Napoleon Jenkins, the plot of the America, saved his valies.

Let this be forgotten before it is time to ent their epitaphs in marble or enduring brass.

"I saw Captain Whitten while the steamers were still bursing," said an eyewitness of the disaster, whose statement is corresponded with and the steamer of the bank beeide his trunk, wiping "The Senate does not seem to see Cummings's qualifications for the post of Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and his nomination is likely to be either smothered or rejected.

The Times says:

What special considerations make it imperative on Mr. Rollins to resign just at this moment, we do not know. It is to be regretted that he cannot consent to prolong for two months longer the sacrifices he has been making by holding the office for the last two or three years. Not that he is absolutely the very beet man for the place, but he is so much better than the one we are likely to get, when he leaves, that his retention of it would seem to be a special interposition of the providence that presides over the dispensation of political patronage. So long as he is there, it is reasonably certain that nothing very disastrous will be done. When he leaves, we shall lose even that pairly consolation,—especially if he is to be succeeded by a man without business reputation, legal or other knowledge, or any such established character as inspires confidence or stimulates hopes.

The Harrisburg Telegraph says: An accident of a very serious character occurred at an early hour this morning, on the Northern Central Railroad.

A passenger train coming north ran into a freight train going in the opposite direction, between this city and York. Full details of the disaster have not yet been received, but both locomotives were smashed to pieces and completely ruined, and the fireman upon one of them was fatally injured. The passenger train was delayed for a long time by the accident.

Miso Kate Fisher, the well known actross, yesterday morning experienced a very narrow escape, at her room in the St. Clair Hotel. For some days past she has been suffering from a severe cold, accompanied by a violent cough, and, on funday, medicine was prescribed for her by.

her physician. The bottle containing it she placed on the mantelplece in her room, on which there was also set a phial filled with tincture of arrica. Yesterday morning Miss Fisher being seized with a fit of coughing went to the mantel-plece for the purpose of getting the medicine. In her haste, however, she took the arnica instead, and did not realize her mistake until she had awallowed a heavy dose. She then saw at once that it was the polson to which she had helped herself and summoned medical stiendance. By the application of a strong antidate and other remedies the doctor succeeded in saving his patient, and last evening she was so far recovered as to be able to be about. Had it not been for the prompt assistance, the draught might have proved most serious in its results, if not entirely fatal.

FROM NEW YORK.

New York, Dec. 16.--Richard Stillwell, pilot

New York, Dec. 16.—Richard Stillwell, pilot of the Roosevelt st. ferry-boat Commodore Perry, states that three men engaged in a scuffle on board his boat, between 7 and 8 e'clock on Monday evening, when one of them was hustled off the stern of the boat into the river, and was not afterwards seen. The pilot and deck-hands agree in the above story, but it seems strange that they did not cause the arrest of the supposed murderers. The boat had just left her slip, foot of Roosevelt st., when the alleged tragedy took place.

The Park Bank building having been completed was yesterday thrown open to the inspection of a large number of invited guests. It is unquestionably the finest banking building in this country. The bank will move into the new building to-morrow.

The August Belmont branch of the Eric litigation was resumed before Judge Cardozo yesterday. After hearing considerable argument on both sides the case was postponed until Thursday.

25 years, and his wife, were arrested on Monday night by Detectives Videto and Folk, of Brook-Iyn, on a charge of forgery. It appears that king forged a check for $182 in the name of Thomas U. Durant, Vice-President of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, on the Fourth National Bank of New York, which his wife, Mary A. King, passed at the dry goods store of J. W. White, No. 179 Fulton street, Brooklyn, on the 3d inst., where she had previously made purchases, always paying her bills with good checks. The $182 dollar check proved to be forged, and steps were taken to arrest King and his wife, which was done. Yesterday they were taken before Justice Buckley, when King confessed to having forged the check, and stated that his wife knew nothing of it. King was then held to await the check, and stated that his wife knew nothing of it. King was then held to await the action of the Grand Jury, and his wife discharged. It appears that King was employed in Mr. Durant's office previous to October last; that he recently passed a forged check for $100 on Mr. Delmonico; and another for $550 was presented by Mr. King at Tiffany & Co.'s establishment, although not passed. All the checks have Mr. Durant's name. King was committed for trial.

Suicide in Alleghany, Pa.

The Pittsburgh Chronicle of last night says:
A distressing case of suicide occurred this morning at the boarding house of Mr. C. R. Johnson, at No. 88 Beaver street, Alleghany, the victim being a man named Wesley Harmon. Yesterday morning the deceased complained to his brother of feeling quite unwell, and requested that his breakfast be sent to his room. He remained in bed during the day.

This morning between eight and nine o'clock the inmates of the house were startled by a report of a pistol, which was at first supposed to have been fired on the street.
