But Mr. Bonner deserves not only, our thanks but the honor of all journalism for his instinctive generosity of purpose. This and the exprit da corps and unity of feeling displayed by the press of all shades of opinion and everywhere on the same subject—which has never been paralleled in the history of American journalism—suggest the propriety and value of a closer affiliation of the press, not only for self-protection, but for self-improvement. Nothing has more hindered the growth of American journalism than its discordancy, as displayed in jealousy and envy and all uncharitableness ameng its various members. In attempting to belittle each other, they have the belittled themselves, and weakened the whole business. Nothing will tend more to give newspapens a better character and a wider power before the public than an honorable alliance among themselves, and a common effort to elevate the celf-respect, and the intellectual, moral and independent standards of the profession. Mr. Bonner shows in his own success what good nature and generosity toward his rivals and brethren, coupled with enterprise and tact in business, will do. He is the fit impersonation of the millennium of journalism. Then there will be no more Managing Director Flaks, or Judge McCunus, or shorts.

RAILHOAD ACCIDENT. A Car Filled with Passengers Hurled Over an Eimbankment in the Night.

(From the Dubque (Lowa) Times, Dec. 24) Tuesday night's eastern-bound train on the Sioux City Road, conductor Cirls. Doherty, comprised of a baggage car, two passenger and five laden freight cars, met with quite an accident about 330 o'clock A. M., one and a half miles this side of Farley, resulting from a broken rail. The engineer felt it as the locomotive passend over it, and a moment after the rear passenger car was rolling over an embankment forty feet high. Fortunately the growth of young timber checked the violence of the fall, or great loss of life must have ensued.
So great was the force with which the ear was thrown from the train, that it carried away, the rear platform of the car which preceded it. Both ends of the car thrown off were a wreck, and the scene within it beggars description. There were, it is said, some thirty passenevar in it at the imends of the car thrown off were a wreck, and the scene within it beggars description. There were, it is said, some thirty passengers in it at the time of the accident; and the capsizing of the car threw them over and among each other with a confusion better longined than described. The stove was hurled from ite place; and one man thrown upon it, burning him severely, and another had the misfortune to have it rolled on top of him, bruising but not burning his person. As soon as the messengers and attaches of the train could basten to the rescue they did, expecting to find the dead and dying on every hand, and were surprisedly glad to find that not one was even dangerously injured. The car was fired by the stove, and the report current is that it was totally consumed after the leaving of the train.

-Mr. Menard, the colored Congressman elect from Louisiana, will be in an awkward fix if admitted to the House. It will be impossible for him to find a seat on the Republican side of the House, because these are already all taken. So he will have to find quarters on the Democratic adde where his reception will probably retained.
