"Hamlet" certainly first degree," rendered against George S. Twitchell, last evening, probably took the majority of the community by surprise. That the verdict was in strict accordance with public sentiment there can be no doubt: but our American jury system has been so abused, and the unreasoning prejudice against circumstantial evidence is so strong, that a general impression had gained ground that the jury would disagree. The counsel for the defence conducted their case with the boldness, energy and ingenuity of despair, and it may well be questioned whether Twitchell's case could have been better handled than it was. The fact that doubts were raised in the minds of many whose attention was arrested by isolated fragments of evidence for the defence proves that Twitchell's counsel used all means to save their client. But the case was a desperate one, and no dispassionate listener, remembering the splendid powers of Mr. Mann as a criminal lawyer, and the extraordinary ability which he has so often brought to the investigation and punishment of crime, could fail to be impressed with the fact that the task was felt to be not only a difficult, nocent or guilty, their rights under the law, regarded as sacred, and not to be rashly Epigeopal Church of Delaware, and the Y.M.

Gen. Blerman is in receipt of a number of htters from the 3d to the 7th inclusive, giving various accounts from Ludius sources of G.n. Custer's fight on the 17th of November 1 st.

There all substantially agree with the accounts beretofore published. Ganeral Hazen says since the fight he has had no trouble what ver in distinguishing between the friendly and hostile Indiana. He pronounces all Cheyennes and the Arrapahoes to be hostlie; Klowar, divided half and half; Cambaches, all or nearly all friendly. The Appeles, Kichies, Calidora, Wichitaws and affiliated bands, some 3,000 in all, are clustered round about Fort Cobb and claiming the protection of the United States. The healfle have reparated from the friend y tribes and gone over to the bead of the North Fork on the R d River, near the mouth of the Sweetwater. They number 400 warriors.

Gen. Sherman states that Satanta is regarded one of the most hostile of the Indians on the Plains, and is one of the most treacherous. He believes lusting peace cannot be secured while Satanta and Bull Bear are at large, and his orders are peremptory that these two Indians shall be killed, or, if captured imprisoned at Fort Gib-ton. The Indians give conflicting accounts to information has been received by General Sher man from opposite points of a circle. General Hazen is at Fort Cobb, and General Sheridan is in motion toward this fort. General Hazen's i formation is communicated by way of Fort Gib-son, Fort Scott and Kansas City, while General Shridan's information comes from an opposite direction, by Fort Dodge, Fort Hays and the Pacific Railroad. Letters from both General Hazen and General Shridan, of the same date, December 7, are among those received. PONCEAU PLUSHES. FROM NEW YORK. New York, Jan. 2.—New Year's Day was Cretornes. Tassals and Loops. fully observed in this city yesterday. Business was wholly suspended, and New Yorkers forgot their cares and toils and devoted the day to pleatheir cares and toils and devoted the day to plea-sure-set king. In spite of the unfavorable wea-ther callers were more numerous than during any previous year, and every description of ve-hiele—sleighs, cerriages and omnibuses—was pressed into the service by those who wished to escape the pelting of the storm. Two young men, ambitious for fame, essayed to make their round of calls upon velocipedes, but their novel mode of locomotion proved unfit for snow driffs, and they were soon obliged to abandon the idea in despair. The above goods are fresh, and are offered with confidence as the most Eighth. recherche and complete assortment of Fabries for the embellishment of Parlors, Libraries, Chambers, Dining-

A man named James Tolland was suspected of being the assassin, and that the rolling were more his treet, was Tolland was suspected of being the assassin, and learning that the police were upon his track, reparted to the Fifteenth Ward station house, and gave himself up to the authorities. Upon being confronted with Mr. Rodgers the wounded man said that Tolland had no hand in theoutrage, and he was at once discharged.

An affray occurred at the corner of Thirtieth street and Eleventh avenue, about three o'clock yesterday afternoon, in which a boy named Wm. Devine stabbed Wm. Concklin, inflicting a wound of a very serious character. Grant and the New York World.

The Boston Journal's correspondent in Washington telegraphs as follows:
General Grant, in a conversation with a western member of Congress, three or four days ago, very freely expressed his opinion of the New York World. Referring to cartain articles in that paper, intimating, if not directly asserting, that the President-elect would eventually split with his party and pursue a course similar to that pursued by President Johnson, he of course denounced the whole statement as false, and add-ed that he considered "the New York World one of the most traitorous and disloyal papers in the and around Camden presented a beautiful and gorgeous appearance, being covered with lee, which hung in myriad pendants, looking like lating themselves and readers upon a better feeling in the South. We are happy to be able to to say that this, in a measure, is well founded. Since the election of Grant political fanaticism has somewhat moderated. Many of the more thoughtful and discerating, sick of turmoil and revolution, and of blood and thunder, are really pleased with the election of General Grant They have become election of General Grant. They have become satisfied that the struggle of any section against the national will is hopeless and fatal to those bave been somewhat restrained by a certain impression of the shadowy sword of the inevitable. There have been less of the fieudish out-vest and high prices has greatly accelerated the growing indifference to old sores. There is, undoubtedly, too, a livelier moral sensibility in the year.
