Mahlon H. Dickinson, Esq., inspector of Prisons in this State, has transmitted the following report to the Governor:

To his Excellency, John W. Geary, Governor of Pennsylvania: Size—Under the appointment 1 had the honor: to receive at your hands, I have continued during the present year to visit the prisons and almshouses of the Commonwealth. It is grantifying to be able to say that in some localities efforts are being made, by the erection of new buildings with modern improvements and appliances, to better the condition and add to the comforts of those who may be driven, through poverty and affliction, to ask for public mantenance.

The Prison construction and prison discipline and prison discipline so, necessary, for the grantifying to be able to say that in some localities efforts are being made, by the erection of new buildings with modern improvements and appliances, to better the condition and add to the comforts of those who may be driven, through poverty and affliction, to ask for public mantenance. those built in former years, showing that the that I The I Am Carmen Entered GRAND BAL MASQUE WILL TAKE PLACE ON JANUARY 14, 1869, continued doring the present year of the Commonwealth. It is gratifying to be able to say that in some localities efforts are being made, by the erection of new identification and add to the condition and add to the comforts of these who may be driven, through poverty and smilection, to ask for public mantensheed:

The light that has dawned upon these counties I regret to say has not yet penetrated the darkness which has so long shrouded others; the citizens whereof appear not to understand that it is their duty as Christians to provide for the poor and friendless.

The meanis adopted for the care of these untortunates in some counties of the State would do no credit to an uncritized or sayage people. No house or home is provided by the county where their wants can be supplied; no well-appointed hospital, where disease can be properly treated; but all who are unable to take care of the sleep of hospital, where disease can be properly treated; but all who are unable to take care of the sleep of hospital, where disease can be properly treated; but all who are unable to take care of the sleep of hospital, where disease can be properly treated; but all who are unable to take care of the sleep of hospital, where disease can be properly treated; but all who are unable to take care of the sleep of hospital, where disease can be properly treated; but all who are unable to take care of the sleep of hospital, where disease can be properly treated; but all who are unable to take care of the sleep of hospital, where disease can be properly treated; but all who are unable to take care of the sleep of hospital, where disease can be properly treated; but all who are thus "sold at the lowes" for the privilege of hospital, where disease can be properly treated; but all who are unable to take care of the sleep of hospital, where disease can be properly treated; but all who are unable to take care of the sleep of hospital, where disease can be properly treated; but all who are unable to take care of themselves and the distance of

I do not charge that all who are thus agold at public outery" to the lowest bidder are starved, neglected, or abused, but I do contend that the system is liable to great abuse, especially as these patients are scattered over the country and cannot be under the supervision of the directors of the poor, or other oilicers appointed for that purpose, as they can be when provided for in the control or representations are superiorized for that purpose, as they can be when provided for in the control or representatives, and 23,000 by the Commissioner of Agriculture.

And Efficient Cast.

It all that the same short-sighted economy that falls to provide for the proper and alm shouses for the unfortunitie, prevalis in the construction and management of the prisons of these considers. It is in the colls of these insteaded over to the care of the econity jailor, who, from want of experience, cannot give them proper attention and the treatment they, require, which adds to the sunferted upon the vilest criminal confined within its gloomy precincts.

The eviler-saiding from such a system, I know from personal observation; are great, and a male smooth of the prisons of legislative, and through you that of the State Legislature, to the great necessity that exists for enacting laws to remedy these evile by compelling these conties to the commissioner of Agriculture.

The Insurrection in Cuba.

HAVANA, Jan. 3.—General Lersundi held a grand review to-day of the troops in and around the city. The display was very fine, and was witnessed by large crowds of citizens.

No news lately have been received from Count Valmarda, who at last accounts was on a line. poor.
In some of the counties visited during the year Valmaseda, who, at last accounts, was on a line In some of the counties visited during the year I found that a lively interest had been awakened upon the subject of prison construction and prison discipline. When I visited the prison in Hollidayeburg, in Blair county, in the year 1867, I found 'it' to be a dilapidated and worn-out building, never having been in any way suitable for the purposes of a prison. Escapes were frequent, and criminals could not be securely held there unless confined in chains.

The sanitary condition was extremely bad, and no order or discipline could be maintained among the prisoners. between Nucvius and Bayamo.

Message of the Governor of Louisiana.

The Louisiana Legislature met vesterday. among the prisoners.

I was compelled to speak of it as I found it, and I was compened to speak of it as I tound it, and in my notes pronounced it a misance that ought to be abated. Since that visit the county authorities have taken measures for the erection of a new building—one comporting more with modern ideas of prison architecture; and in order that this might be done, they secured the services of Mr. Edward Haviland, the architect, to design and superintend its erection.

The building is advancing towards completion, and bide fair to be all that is desired. It will contain twenty-eight cells; that number being deemed sufficient for present use, ample room being left for inture extension.

The following paragraphs from the political portion of the message, are samples of its tone:

The citizens of Northampton county seem to be fully awake to the necessity of providing a in this city, could be obtained from the Govern-ment as a contribution for use as the State capital: urges the Legislature to adopt a school system without distinction of color; recommends the revision of the charter of New Orleans, and secure, and at the same time a comfortable prison for the punishment and reform of their closes with an appeal for forgetfulness and for-giveness for the past, and in the latter spirit convicts.'

To this end they secured the services of Mr. Edward Haviland, an architect, who has made prison construction a specialty. His design for the prison of Northampton county stamps him as a proficient in his profession, and as a gentleman who understands what kind of a building is recommends the abrogation of the ninety-ninth article of the Constitution—the disfranchising ____ feline Sagacity. A New Hampshire paper tells these stories: 'Last year Mr. Charles Edgerly, of Meredith, owned a cat which was a regular hun-ter. This prison is being erected in the town of ter. Easton, upon elevated ground, adjoining the bits. If any of the family went berrying, court-house. It differs in some respects from any other of the recently-crected county prisons, yet the main features of the Pennsylvania system are observed, and in the minor details many improvements are introduced. The cell corridor, instead of extending out from the keeper's residence, as in other prisons, is placed at right angles across the main entrance or passage. By this arrangement the kitchen, bakery, infirmary, manufactory, store-room, and other offices are manufactory, store-room, and other offices are manufactory, store-room, and other offices are manufactory at the cell of the cell of the direction to head himself to find them. He would catch birds on trees, and the boys of the family, knowing the propensity of squirrels to take to fences and stone walls when in danger, would put him on a wall and alarm the game. One afternoon the common of the pennsylvania system of the penns long corridor.

The corridor is one bundred and severty feet long, fifteen feet wide, and thirty feet high, open from the floor to the arched ceiling, and wholly unobstructed.

The entire building is fire proof, not only in the cell wing, but in the keepers' residence and offices. The stairs and galleries surrounding the upper tier of cells are of iron, so arranged as not during the day with three more which offices. The stairs and galleries surrounding the upper tier of cells are of iron, so arranged as not to obstruct the light or air. The ventilation, sewerage, and the mode adopted for the warming of this buildings of this character. A very important feature in this prison is the introduction of an infirmary; for, though the cells are large enough for the treatment of ordinary cases of sickness, yet hospital room is desirable in the treatment of some diseases, especially when the attendance of a nurse is necessary.

Altogether this may be taken as a model for country prisone, but this is even yet susceptible of further improvement, which, no doubt, will be made in the next one erected in a county where the authorities manifest the same interest in the treatment of Newthernetten and suffering the day with three more, which were duly skinned under feline superintendence. Mr. Edgerly told the cat that he would skin all the rats he could catch; and henceforth pussy made it his sole occapation to catch the rodents and see their hides were fastened on the barn at the distance of a few feet from the ground. Thirty-seven trophies were in time displayed on the barn. One day this feline Nimrod brought in a rat and laid it at Mr. Edgerly's feet. Mr. G. A. Auchback is the architect who dedesigned the building and is superintending the work. The main. features of this prison are strictly in accordance with those recently erected in other parts of the State, where the authorities honestly intend to enforce the discipline called for by the laws of the Commonwealth.

The ground upon which the building stands is well chosen, there being anythe sense around the continued to suffer as of old.

The pessants, it is well known, often put the substance and says to that the saw it in it is and the say gale from the NW, which lasted 8 days.

Capt Nve. of the steamer Galates, at Providence 1st inst. from New York, reports that he passed Point Jadith house at 3 30, but saw no light at Beaver Tail during that time. Fassed near enough to Beaver Tail to see the light-house, but it was not lighted.
