THE EASTERN QUESTION.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

The correspondent of the Tribune, writing from Constantinopie under date of Dec. 22, says:

The absorbing topic is the relations of Turkey and Greece, the centre of which is now in Lonard or Paris, rather than in Constantineple. The don or Paris, rather than in Constantineple. The trakish Minister to Athens, Rotiodes Bey, his arrived, and the Greek Minister has left. Greek firms are putting their business in order, some have womd up, some of the partners have got protection, and some watt and do nothing till forced iton, and some watt and do nothing till forced to. Some have abandoned their Hellenic citizenship, and have become Rayaks: the number, snehip, and have become Rayaks: the number, snehip, and have become Rayaks: the number, the strength of the Force should carry out his plan the after all if the Force should carry out his plan the suffering will be terrible upon the citizens, tailifts, shoemakers, carpenters, masons, butchers, dec., and these are nine-tunths of the whole. "Pray that your flight may not be in the winter." The affer of the plucky Enosis has caused no

How many thousands will place and starvision?
The affair of the plucky Enosis has caused no little excitement. Hobert Pasha, who was Captain Hobert of blockade-running memory, and who acquired a fortune in running the blockade of Charleston, is regarded as having shown himself decidedly inferior to the Greeks. The Turks curse the English Ghisour for not sinking her, and the Greeks laugh. Last, Sabbath morning ourse the English Gallaour for not sinking her, and the Greeks laugh. Last Sabbath morning the Minister of Foreign Affairs formally communicated to Mr. Morris the gratifying fact that his Imperial Mojesty has by an Iradi founded Robert College as an institution College as an institution worthy of his royal re-

The feeling here is that there will not be war, The feeling here is that there will not be war, and yet there is a certain degree of apprehension and preparation for it. The arsenal is very lively, the iron-clads have salled, and the material of war is, being furnished to the fleet as though warm work was anticipated. If all this array of war could sink the poor little Enosis the Turks would be unsupportable in their pride and selfrinkish Reply to the Greek Refusat

Turkish Reply to the Greek Refusat

of the Ultimatum.

The Turkish government published on New Year's day their reply to the Greek note refusing to comply with the terms of the ultimatum. It commences by declaring that no State would have accepted so long as the Porte folerated a condition of affairs incompatible with relations of good neighborhood. It then examines at length the various points mentioned in the Greek note,
In reference to the bands of volunteers, the reply says that the answer of the Greek government to the effect that the Hellenic institutions did not permit Greece to prevent their formation was inadmissable, since in that case there would be no security between neighboring States in time of peace, and it would be subversive of the law of nations. Moreover, the Greek laws would allow the Hellenic Government to repress these irregularities had the Government so desired, since by Article 127 of the Penal Code the punishment of death is awarded to those persons enrolling troops without the authorization of the Government. The Greek Government boasts of having protected the insuremits and in granting the Cretans permission the authorization of the Government. The Greek Government boasts of having protected the in-surgents, and in granting the Cretans permission to return to their country. Now it is known that the departures have only been effected by stealth, and often have been prevented by violence.

The note refutes the argument of M. Delyannis, complaining of Turkish aggression on the frontier. The aggressions is rather on the part of Greece. Finally, referring to the subject of the expulsion of the Greek subjects from the Ottoman ports, the note declares that this course was necessitated by the proceedings of those who, while receiving generous hospitality, took advantage of their position to form hostile combinations against the Government. The note concludes by stating that the Porte only replies to the Greek Government in order to place itself right in the eyes of Europe. Had it had only to persuade those who are acquainted with correct events it would have left them to judge between the silence of the Porte and the Greek note.

Greek Invitation to Garibaldt. Greek Invitation to Garibaldi.

Greek Invitation to Garibaldi.
Under date Dec. 26, the Florence correspondent of the Daily News writes: It is stated this morning, in quarters well informed, that certain delegates of the Greek party of action have arrived here from Athens, bearing the request to Garibaldi that he would repair to Greece, and there head the revolutionary movement against Turkey. Garibaldi is said to have most positively refused acceding to the request, on the ground that the state of his health will not permit him to out Caprera, and to undertake the fatigues of a quit Caprera, and to undertake the fatigues of a long, a distant, and an arduous campaign.

FROM ROME.

A Secret Consistoty—The Spanish Re-volution—Severe Denunciation A letter from Rome, date Dec. 22d, contains

A letter from Rome, date Dec. 22d, contains the following intelligence:

Yesterday morning the Pope held a secret consistory, in which he pronounced an allocution reflecting severely on the Spanish revolution. The Holy Father said that this event arose from the turbulence of a minority, who, led on by conspirators, surprised and cowed the great body of the Spanish nation, and drove their legitimate severeign from the throne. He spoke in high terms of the moderation and love of order which characterized the Spanish people, and denounced the revolutionists as alike abettors of anarchy and enemies of religion. He bitterly complained of the insults heaped on priests and venerable bishops, and the persecution of the religious orders, who were subjected to the most cruel exactions; and he concluded by exhorting the Sacred College to raise their prayers to Heaven to stop this torrent of evil, and restore Spain her sovereign and her religion. After the allocution the Pope called together the cardinal-priests, and addressed to them these words in Italian:

"Since I see you here, my venerable brothers, I will communicate to you a matter which might be well to keep secret, but which it is still better to make known to you. The King of Sardinia has abased himself so low as to ask the pardon of two assassins. The King of Sardinia, who saw no guilt in the murderers of the two priests at Sienna, the same who had not the smallest coin for the sufferers from the floods in Upper Italy, but who found 5,000 francs for the widow of an assassin, this King, whom you know so well, and whom you recommend to our Lord, demands the pardon of two malefactors, worthy of the last punishment."

Bo violent an address naturally produced a deep imprishment."

So violent an address naturally produced a deep So violent an address naturally produced a deep impression on the Sacred College, and some of the Cardinals, known for their liberal or moderate views, showed plainly enough that they disapproved of such language in reference to a Catholic sovereign. Certainly it does not show that the Pope is abstaining from the exercise of any pressure on the tribunal of appeal, according to his declaration to General della Rocca. The public reference on the subject is as great here as in the kingdom of Italy, and the police have made a number of tresh arreats, which are said to have put them in possession of important

AUSTRIA.

Manifesto of Hungarian Folicy. Manifesto of Hungarian Policy.

Déak's organ, the Pesti Naplo, says the Pall Mall Gazette of January 2, had just published an important manifesto of Hungarian policy, clearly indicating the line of action which the leading statesmen of Hungary propose to take both at home and abroad. "The Hungarians," it says, "will maintain inviolable the Union of Hungary with the other territories of the Emperor King, and fulfill the duties thereby entailed on them.

* * The cause of Hungary is synonymous with that of Austria, and the honor of the Hungarians imperatively requires of them a strict adherence to the existing Constitution.

* * All those who may build any plans on the existence of a revolutiona strict adherence to the existing Constitution.

* * All those who may build any plans on the existence of a revolutionary opposition will find themselves totally deceived." In regard to foreign affairs the article says that Hungary will always be opposed to any policy which could give any reasonable cause of complaint to Pruesia, and adds that the North German Bund "furnishes a strong guarantee for the peaceful progress and the civilization of Europe." At the same time it declares that in the event of a war caused by the violation by Prussia of the Treaty of Prague, the Hungarians will, "without delay or hesitation, do their duty in defending the integrity of the territory of the monarchy, and the vital interests of their country."

Hecoption of the Diptomatic Body at

The Emperor received the Diplomatic Boly and the Ministers of State, at the Tulieries, at 1. o'clock on New Year's Day. His Majesty is stated to have made the following reply to the congratulations of the Diplomatic Body:

"I receive with pleasure your congratulations, and I am glad to testify to the conciliatory spirit which animates the different foreign Powers, and which allows difficulties, when they arise, to be removed. I hope that the year 1869, like 1868, will remove alarms and consolidate peace, which is so necessary to the civilized world."

The noble Victor Hugo, says the Star of December 31, gave his annual Christmas Fets to poor children at Hauteville House, on Thursday last. The little guests were first feasted, and then presented with bundles of good warm clothing. In addressing the assembled visitors in a few words, the poet referred with pardonable pride to the manner in which his charitable idea had fructified in the metropolis, where over 122,000 children have been assisted since he gave his first "juvenile party." OFTY BULLETIN.

THE PHILADELPHIA DISPENSARY .- For nearly seventy-three years this admirable institution has pursued its quiet work of benevolence, attracting but little public notice, but accomplishing a great amount of good. It was commenced in 1796, under the suspices of Philadelphia's best citizens. The venerated Bishop White heads the list of contributors, which includes the name of almost every family that was prominently identified with the history of Philadelphia seventy years ago.

The annual report of the Philadelphia Dispensary for 1868 is before us, and contains many interesting statistics of the past year's work. The report refers to a steady diminution in the number of cases treated in all branches of the Institution. This diminution is attributed to a steady but little public notice, but accomplishing a great report refers to a steady diminution in the number of cases treated in all branches of the Institution. This diminution is attributed to a steady improvement in the sanitary condition of our city for the past few years. It is also probable that the growth of the city is gradually pushing the poorer classes more and more beyond the jurisdiction of the Dispensary, a change not to be regretted, since it removes them to more open, better ventilated, and, therefore, healthier localities. The Dispensary, however, will always have a large work to do, and will need the generous support of the community. During 1868, 13 706 patients were treated, and 27,103 prescriptions compounded. Of the House and District cases 9.32 per cent. were colored; 62.92 per cent. female; 33.62 per cent. widowers; 49.16 per cent. born in America; 43.24 per cent. born in Ireland; 7.60 per cent. born in other countries; 15.82 per cent. been press of age or under; 28.10 per cent. been seven years of age or under; 28.10 per cent. been seven seven and twenty-five years; and 56.08 per cent. over twenty-five years; and 56.08 per cent.
