THE UNION PACIFIC BAILBOAD. The completion of one thousand miles of the Union Pacific Railroad may well be the misrule from which the city suffers, expending their spare time in scalping each taken as marking an era in the history of this, the greatest of all modern commercial enterprises. Cyrus W. Field, depositing his 1850 miles of electric cable along the plains and valleys of the ocean's bed, did not surnount greater difficulties or achieve greater regults than Durant and his co-laborers have done, in carrying forward their iron highway the courts, just as they send rufflans like book of Common Prayer does not mention into the wild and almost unexplored wastes of the far West. One thousand miles of railroad. arried in three years across the broad erpanse of Nebraska and Wyoming, surmountng the Rocky Mountains and penetrating the valley of Great Salt Lake, in the heart of Utah-this is a triumph of American enterprise and energy, before which the past engineering exploits of the Old World and of he New sink into comparative insignificance. It is yet but forty-four years since the first and a little single track of thirty-seven miles, between Stockton and Darlington. From this little beginning has sprung, almost within the experience of a single generation, the great system of travel that has covered the great system of darts that work of iron, here there are enough already and is now carrying civilization into all the distant regions of the earth.

The Union Pacific Railroad in its extent, in the rapidity of its construction, in the peculiar difficulties which it has encountered, and in its great results, stands entirely alone, sideration which the Senate has bestowed among the railroad enterprises of the world. upon the bill repealing the Tenure of Office Compared with the other principal railroads law, will result in its passage. # A Useless Office

In Congress yesterday, while the appropria-tion bill was being discussed, by the Committee on Appropriations, General Buller discovered an item providing so much per annum for the Su-perintendent of the Crypt. Not understanding what this meant, he sought knowledge from his follow momber, but they mere no wiser than he fellow-member, but they were no wiser than he. He then conculted the appropriation bills for fify years back, and found the same thing charged in each bill. After a determined search among the employés of the Capitol the Superin-tendent of the Crypt was found. He was brought forward and made to bistory. It seems shortly after al Washington died an act was General Washington died an att was passed by Congress providing for the building of a vault beneath the Capitol which was to hold the available actions and warrior are also of the immortal statesman and warrion and to be called the Crypt. It was found neces sary to have a man to watch the sacred spot, and accordingly an officer was created to be called Superintendent of the Crypt. The duties of the Superintendent were to sit near the Crypt daily, from 9 A. M. until 3 P. M., and see that only one light was used. This the present occupaut has done for the last 40 years, and now Gen. Batler cruelly proposes to abolish the office. THE COURTS,
