Mr. Morrill will call up the Invalid Pensi bill to-day, and asked the Senate to proceed a bill to-day, and asked the Senate to proceed at once with the consideration of this and other ap-propriations. He says he shall decline to give way for debate, leaving the responsibility with the Senate if these important measures are crowded together at the close of the session. In the Consular and Diplomatic bill reported to the Senate to-day, Mr. Butler's amendment, con-solidating the South American missions, is stricken out, the committee deeming such con-solidation impracticable. olidation impracticable
