The full regimental band was present, and opened the entertainment with the Wedding March from Midsummer Night's Dream. Then followed the drill of the Company in the followfollowed the drill of the Company in the following order: Company movements, manual of arms by command, loading and firing by command, manual of arms by tap, skirmish drill, drill mysterious and bayonet exercise. The different manceures were executed with great precision and drew forth hearty applause from the audience. The skirmish drill did not show to advantage, owing to the insufficiency of space in which to execute the movements. The drill mysterious excited the wonder of all present. The utmost ellence prevailed in the hall, and the men went through the manual of arms with more correctness than they did either by command or tap. The men showed that they had received very careful training from Captain Ryan. If they had a hall to drill in as often as they please, their proficiency might be increased. At the conclusion of the drill the dancing commenced and was continued until midnight. The affair was a success in every respect, and afforded the greatest pleasure to all who participated.

CITY NOTICES.

If an agent tells you that the advantages of Life Insurance are secured only in the "Mutual" system, and derides the claims of the "Stock" plan, be sure that he is either a knave trying to deceive you, or a fool, unable to un'erstand the advantages of the latter system. After you have had the claims of the Mutual system explained to you, have also the other side of the question presented by some one who is not interested in misrepresenting it, before you decide on their relative merits. Send for an agent of "The American Life" of this city, or call at the Company's office, S. E. corner Fourth and Walnut streets.
