FASHIONABLE PENANUE. The Lenten fast has produced its usual effects upon the gav world. There have been since Ash-Wednesday no masquerades or other grand balls, amateur theatricals have been suspended, and society is doing penaace at dinner parties, supper parties, musical parties, parties for the public theatres, morn- There are, undoubtedly, here and there in certs and other touching contrivances for the are absorbed in the one idea of mortification of the flesh during the great the distribution of patronage; men whose season of fasting that is recognized by the highest conception of the value of the Sena-Christian world. The attendance at the churches, on week-days as well as Sundays, is very affecting. Piety in point-lace, devotion in diamonds, veneration in velvet-these are affecting sights that can be seen at almost any of the Lent-observing churches, at almost any of the services of the week. Sackcloth and ashes never were so costly, so splendid, so picturesque and so becoming as they are in this Lenten season of 1869.

There can be no doubt that the Parisian modistes are especially to be thanked for the fine effects of color, costume, drapery and head-gear that now make a fashionable company assembled for genteel worship so interesting a spectacle. The Grecian bend is most effective at obeisances and genuflexions. The panier, which is inconvenient while seated in a narrow pew, is quite striking when its wearer hows before the Throne of Grace. A fashionable chignon, of the new sackcloth and ashes style, with its trimming of bonnet, flowers, feathers and ribbons, is wonderful in the street, but very majestic and solemn-iging when it is howed in humble izing when it is bowed in humble izing when it is bowed in humble adoration at church. When a multitude of these chignons, adorned with an infinite these chignons, adorned with an infinite variety of colored fabrics, go down simultaneously at the name of the Saviour, and recover again simultaneously, the effect upon a spectator, ignorant of the full meaning of Christian humility, must be overpowering. So all possible gratitude is due to the French inventors of new designs in sackeloth and this period of fasting, prayer and penance. Make piety picturesque and luxurious, and the work of evangelizing the world on fash ionable principles can go on rapidly and

In the matter of fasting, in the ordinary sense of the word, the habits of good society are deserving of especial mention. Not more than four meals a day are indulged in, ac- are only a little over seventeen thousand sording to common report, during this period births. The number of deaths last year, 14,tion, will, perhaps, suffice to keep the 693, is very small for a city of at least 800.000

The vulgar world has thus been informed of some of the practices of self-denial that gularly free from epidemic and contagious prevail in the higher circles of society during diseases. Of small pox, which has raged in a time of general fasting, humiliation and other parts of the country, there was only one prayer. Of the deeper mysteries, the little death. There were no cases of epidemic prayer. Of the deeper mysteries, the little dances, the whist and euchre matches, the musical meetings and other gatherings for mortifying the fiesh and subduing the pride of life, that mark the season of Lent in this of life, that mark the season of Lent in this | that died. . The argument that this postponement is a leclaration of want of confidence in General Grant is shown to be a shallow pretence, by he fact that it is urged by Senator Cameron, who has been foremost, for months past, in a lady with a bird, costume of the time of the endeavoring to force appointments upon Grand Monarch. The securing of this pleture Beneral Grant by the forestalling scheme | will be an unique chance, not to be neglected by which was so happily defeated by the maority of the Senate. Whatever other claims Mr. Cameron may possess, he can scarcely be accepted as the guardian of General Grant's right to make his own appointments. If this pestpenement, of the repeal of the Fenure of Office Law is simply for the reasons urged before the Senatorial caucus, yesterday, there is no objection to it. But the Senate should lose no time, after the 4th of March, in removing this restriction from the NEW 'NIAGARA, hands of General Grant. The law was undoubtedly enacted for the specific purpose of curbing the mischievous abuse of power in the hands of a bad man, of whom the country rejoices to be rid. The same country desires to give General Grant the fullest opportunity to carry out his policy of retrenchment and reform; and it will look to the Senate to give him the same generous confidence and hearty SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 27th, co-operation which the people, themselves, desire to extend to the man of their choice. and evening receptions, promenade con- the Senate, men whose whole souls torship is that it enables them to punish their enemies and to reward their friends. But such men are in a very small minority. and influence exerted from such motives as these cannot long survive contact and comparison with high, patriotic principle, real statesmanship, and official integrity. We desire to trust the Senate: and the Senate must be ready to trust President Grant. He can no more transcend his lawful powers, and no more throw himself across the strong current of the people's will with impunity, than can any other man. He has no wish to do so, but if he had the same nower that do so; but if he had, the same power that said to Andrew Johnson : "Thus far shalt thou go and no farther," would interpose the same barriers of constitutional law, and impose the same wholesome restraints which were laid upon his predecessor.

The confidence which the people repose in mendous task which Andrew Johnson's wretched administration has left for him to do.

------VITAL STATISFICS.

An abstract of the report of the Births, Marriages and Deaths in Philadelphia, for the vear 1868, is printed in another part of toashes, which give us such fine spectacles in | day's paper. Briefly it states that the births numbered 17,259, the marriages 6,371, and the deaths (not including the still-born) 13.391. The distribution of these among the various wards and the months in which they occurred, will be found stated in the report. The figures can only be regarded as approxi mate.
