

CITY BULLETIN.

THE TURBINES AT FAIRMOUNT.—The Water Committee of Councils, of which Mr. Hodgdon is Chairman, made an official inspection yesterday afternoon of the new turbines wheel and pumps which have just been put in operation at the Fairmount Water Works.

The capacity of the new turbine is about 8,000,000 gallons per day, and the whole principle capacity of the turbines is about 31,000,000 gallons per day. When the series of turbines now contemplated are all completed (and Councils cannot complete them a day too soon) Philadelphia will have capacity for a supply of water sufficient for its necessities for generations to come.

The new mill-houses, with their superb machinery, will soon form one of the chief attractions of Philadelphia, and Fairmount, with all its picturesque improvements, will be a greater source of pride than ever to our people.

The whole work on the mill-houses has been done in the most substantial manner with cut-stone walls, and roof of wrought-iron girders, with intermediate brick arches, supported upon wrought-iron columns. The buildings when completed, will be fire-proof, enduring, and suitable for a work of the importance and magnitude required for the supply of water to this great city.

The introduction of the Jovial Turbine in place of the cumbersome old breast-wheel at Fairmount, has proved an immense economy of power and of money. The first turbine was put in, eighteen years ago, and has run from that time to this at a cost for ordinary repairs for the whole time, not exceeding one hundred dollars.
