Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent haldness. DOLLS. .Ayer's The love of dolls is instinctive with children and a nursery without some of these silent simulacra for the amusement of the little ones is a very lifeless affair. position, they are at the best mere pretences to be loved, or artistic creations to be adman actions quite cleverly; and one of their charms with children is that they can treat them like sentient beings without a chance of being turned upon. They can scold them for being naughty, and put them to bed in broad daylight for a punishment, and seat them in the corner with their impassive faces turned to the wall, just as they are themselves dealt with, the doll all the time smiling exstaring just as they stared before, neither scolding nor cornering making more impression on its sawdust soul than do little missy's sobs and tears when nurse is cross and dolly

The state of the s

bidden or unwise, she has no idea of discipline or management. If they teaze her, they are sent away; if they are naughty, they are whipped at her request by papa or nurse; if they are ill, the doctor is summoned, and they have medicine as he directs; but none of the finer and more intimate relations usual between mother and child exist in the home of the doll mother. The children are the property of the nurse only, unless, indeed, the father happens to be a specially affectionate and a specially domestic man, and then he does the work of the mother—at the best clumsily, but at the worst better than the doll could do it.

Very shocking and revolting are all the more tragic facts of human life to the smooth skinned, easy-going doll. When it comes to her own turn to bear pain she wonders how God can permit her to suffer. Had she brains enough to think the great mystery of nain oidden or unwise, she has no idea of disciher own turn to bear pain she wonders how God can permit her to suffer. Had she brains enough to think, the great mystery of pain would make her atheistical in her angry surprise that she should be so hardly dealt with. As dolls have a constitutional immunity from suffering, her first initiation into even a minor amount of anguish is generally a tremendous affair; and though it may be pain of a quite natural and universal character, she is none the less indignant and astonished at her portion. She invariably thicks heads?

In the same butter and in the same saucepan put some flour and let it brown also, then mix it with water, or still better, some broth; season it with salt, pepper and pothers, and at the first simmer put back the duck. When it is half cooked add the turnips and let it finish slowly; take out the pothers, untie the duck, surround it with turnips, skim the gravy, cover it therewith, and serve.

ways shrunk from witnessing trouble of any 1 the duck as with turnips, but do not put the which, and as what she has seen has passed over her mind without leaving any impression, she comes to her own sorrows totally inexperienced; and one of the most pitiable sights in the world is, that of a poor doll woman writhing in the grasp of physical agony, and broken down or rendered insanely impatient by what other women can bear without a murmur. She cannot pity the sinner, be-cause she cannot understand the temptation; and she cannot condemn from any lofty standpoint, because she has not mind enough to see the full meaning of iniquity. It is simply something out of the ordinary run of her life, and the doll naturally dislikes disturbance, whether of habit or of thought. Yet if a noted criminal came and sat down by her, she would probably whisper to her next friend, "How shocking!" but she would simper when he spoke, and perhaps in her heart feel flattered by the attention of even at the low price of $1 75 in cloth, or $1.50
