Tuesday, March 16, 1869. THE FRANKING NUISANCE. tmaster-General Creswell seems to be eginning the administration of his Depart ment in accordance with General Grant's promised system of retrenchment. The Ran-Il-Johnson system had made the Post Office swindles as wide in extent, if not as great in amount, as the Treasury Department swindles, and the expenses for the past year or two have been greatly in excess of the revenues. Mr. Creswell has determined to exact strict compliance with contracts for carrying the mails. He will have a heavy work to do to clean out the thieving contractors, and their confederates in and out of Congress, before he can get an honest contract system fairly in operation. But the mere intelligence that he has determined on a reform, is already saving to the government many thousands of dollars a day. The infamous abuse of the franking privi lege, which the easy virtue of the late adninistration tolerated and encouraged, another of the existing evils that the new adninistration has determined to reform. The members of Congress, Republicans as well as loose morality, and the mails have been overloaded with all sorts of things, from a Congressman's dirty linen to his equally offensive nd useless oratory, tops of which are shipped the sender's signature. Of course these stamps are easily counterfeited, and their toleration our vast country, without one penny of advantage to the Government or the people Mr. Creswell has ordered that this fac-simile and that letters, &c., thus franked shall be Besides relieving the mails of a huge bulk of trash, this order will relieve the people of a certain amount of worriment and anxiety concerning the quantities of Congressional speeches that they have felt a sort of obligation to acknowledge, even if they were not obliged to read, or to pretend to understand or enjoy them. Publishers of newspapers have often felt embarrassed at receiving speeches, under frank, with letters, also under frank, asking that the said speeches, made by the writers of the said letters, should be printed in their "widely circulated journals." and that editorial articles recommending said sneeches and their makers should accompany
