MACARONIO VERSE. To the Editors of the N. Y. Evening Post: Familiarity breeds contempt. Ever since the Roman language has been the quarry of scholars, these learned men, in their lighter moments, perhaps out of re-

MACARONI PROPER. It is difficult, with half a dozen teeming scrap books before you, to select. I find it hard to reject any, where all are so capital. I have caught up dozens of such little ones as follows, floating about:

- Parvula Bo-Peep Amiait her sheep, Et nescit where to find them, Desere alone, et venient home Hel diddle diddle, the felis et fiddle, Prosiluit vacca super the moon; Nescio qua catulus risit dulcedine iudi, An the turpiter plattis abstulit the spool. Robertus Barnes cum fallis fine.

Can you shoe hic equus mine?
Recte, Domine, that I can Sis bene, any other man. Parvulus Jacobus Horner, Sedebat in corner, Edons a Christmas ple; Inseruit thumb, Extraherit plum Clamans, "Quid sharp puer am I!"

Of all the plaintive lyrics the late war inspired, the following is the saddest. The inhabitants of Richmond were very sorry to lose General Terry and his contrabands, and it is not wonderful that one of their number thus gave voice to his sorrows: CARMEN AD TERRY. Terry leave us, sumus weary:
Jam nos tœdet te videre,
Si vis nos with joy implere,
Terry in hac terra tarry,

For thy domum long'st thou nonne? Habes wife et filios bonny? Socios Afros magis ton-y? Haste thee Terry, mili-terry Forte Thaddens may desire thee, ner, et id om, admire thee nisance nobis, not to ire thee, Hear the Prex's proclamation, Nos fideles to the nation, Gone est nunc thy place and station Terry-fier momen-terry

Yes, thy doom est scriptum-"Mene," Longer ne nos naso tene, Thou hast dogged us, diu bene, Loce us, terrible bull terry-er, We'll be merrier. Bld the dulces Afros, vale, Pompey, Scipio et Sally, Seek some back New Haven alley.

Sed verbum tibi, abituro, Pay thy rent bills, et conjuro, Tecum take thy precious bureau Terry, Turner, blue-coat hom'nes College life is one of those perennial niches in the sunset where men's memories live. What canine latin we used to write! Wha what canine latin we used to write! What hecatombs of jokes about "Verbum sat," and "Nihil fit," and "Sic sum!" How many times we have been posed, and posed others, with "Mus cucurrit plenum sed contra meam magnum ad," and "Mea mater est mala sus," and dozens of others. Here is a prose macaronic of those jolly days:

O unum sculls. You damnum sculls. He didn's do any such thing! Sie transit drove a two pone tandem temo vir from the North. He is visiting his ante, Mrs, Dido Etdux, and intends remaining till ortem. He et super with us last evening. He is a terrible rowdy, Old Transit is. He He is a terrible rowdy, Old Transit is. He lambda man almost to death the other evening; but he got his match; the other man cutis nos off for him, and noctem that urna flounder.

But I have saved until the last the best, the very best macaronic I ever saw. Besides being really a spicy piece of composition, which is rare, it combines many mechanical excellences. It violates no law of prosody, grammar or idiom, English or Latin, which is altogether unheard of, to my knowledge, in a macaronic. I believe it to be as near since the Roman language has been the quarry of scholars, these learned men, in their lighter moments, perhaps out of revenge for the weary nights and the aching heads it has caused them; or, perhaps, merely to show themselves on intimate terms with it, have never ceased to poke fun at that stately atongue, to mock the ponderous periods of Maro and Tully, by sandwiching them in between trivial French and English, and chanting in it low jests and ribald songs. perfect as a production of its school can be brought. I cut it, long years ago, from a tattered, yellow and rotten copy of the New York Evening Post, which I found in a garret, where it had lain Lord knows how Determinant control co between trivial French and English, and chanting in it low jests and ribald songs. The species of literature thus resulting, known as the macaronic, has long been the favorite diversion of doctors and of students. Who wrote the first, nobody knows; who will write the last, remains unthought of a long time yet.

Can tell when that was. At all events, it is time to resurrect it.

The reputation this excellent medicine enjoys, is derived from its cures, many of which are truly marvellous. Inveterate cases of Scroulous discases, where the system seemed saturated with corruption, have been purified and cured by it. Scroulous and disorders, which were aggravated by the scronlous contamination until they were painfully afflicting, have been radically cured in such great numbers in almost every section of the country, that the public scarcely need to be informed of its virtues or uses.

Scroulous poison is one of the most destructive enemies of our race. Often, this unseen and unfell tenant of the organism undermines the constitution and invited the archive constitution.
