We find the following in a German paper: "The soulptor Von Kreling, in Nuremberg, is now occupied with the completion of a work of art, which a rich citizen of Cincinnati intends presenting to that city. The latter has appropriated $60,000 of his property for the gift. It is a fountain, about thirty feet in height, crowned with a female figure, which is now being cast in bronze. The work is one of extraordinary beauty."

—Mr. Vedder, N. Y., whose powerful etchings formed one of the chief attractions in last year's exhibition, has at his studio a series of very interesting photographs from his own pencil sketches, which exhibit most remarkable qualities of imagination and power of drawing. They remind one of the weird compositions of Blake, in their strangeness, suggestiveness and superiority to common work in general. Each drawing illusrates a thought, and invites and provokes the closest study.
