HOLY WEEK AND AFTER. The fashionably devout and devoutly fashionable portion of the Philadelphia public is approaching the end of that annual period of fasting which, in obedience to the tenets of a religion that is all humility and self-denial, they are in the habit of observing very solemnly. Holy Week has arrived, and as the end of the six weeks of severe fasting approaches, there is a natural and general stir among the fashionable fasters in reference to the festivities of the coming Easter week. There are cards out already for many entertainments appropriate to a season of religious solemnity. Among these are weddings, balls, parties, dinners, suppers, musical soirées and matinées, breakfasts and lunches. Preparations for amateur theatricals have also occupied the minds of many of the very faithful, and as there is a promise also of a short season of Italian opera, there is a reasonable expectation that the fashionable religious celebration of the suspicious season will be gay and jolly.

The Lenten season has been hugely engoyed by the creatures that are so often and so ruthlessly sacrificed to the appetites of man and woman. Many a turkey lives and grows fat to-day that might have been boned and eaten but for the interposition of Lent. The Christian solemnity that has prolonged its life is duly appreciated by the toothsome bird, although it must look forward with something of dread, mingled with something of the martyr's sublime faith, to the approaching sacrifice of thousands of its race in oner of Easter. The terrapins, too, have an instinctive knowledge of this land where a very small expense, good temporary pro- when the concert takes place. For, without For a beautiful, light Spring Overcoat. (Special Despatch to the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin. Special Despatch to the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.) New York, March 24, 130 P. M.—The money market is very active, and loans on all classes of collaterals are made at 7 per cent; in rome cases coin int roat is reported. The immediate occasion of this pre-sing demand is owing to the calling in of come heavy loans to day, which fact creates considerable uncasicnes, as during the former peri-clas of great stringency these loans were allowed to remain procalled. This indicates either the more urrent demand from the legitimate business circles in consequence of the considerable uncasicallon, or class a contraction.

Mr. Trumbull made the report from the Committee, premising it by saying that an interview had been held with President Grant, and that the bill as amended was perfectly satis-factory to him. Some discussion ensued as to whether the bill agreed upon should be acted on in the Senate to-day, Messra. Howe, Summer and others maintaining that it was a bill involving a serious question of prin-ciple, and that the Senate should postpone its consideration until to morrow, in order that time might be given to digest and examine it thoroughly. the utterance of language grossly disrespectful to his State and Legislature, he thought it his duty to notice it and to pronounce it without the elightest foundation in fact, as the presiding officer and every other Senator present at the caucus could bear witness. The New York Times, too, a journal so accurate generally in its news department, and so creditably represented at Washington, in its account of the proceedings in this caucus, had fallen into errors which, though not so had as those of the Chroniele, ware very atmesing. It was somewhat noticeable that there should be any public account, whatever, of the proceedings of a caucus, since the ouly persons the utterance of language grossly of to his State and Legislature, he the lieve that any Senator had in this case violated the obligation of secrecy, and he supposed that the extreme inaccuracy of the accounts given by the reporters was to be attributed to the fact that they had to rely altogether upon guess work.
