pressure created on the money masket in the process of "settling up" was truly immense. But this system of transacting business has long given way to the asfer one of "cash on delivery," or chort or, dit, which relieves the day of much of the excitement which formerly attended it. Still the demand for money even now is always very great (particularly in the agricultural districts) as this day approaches, and he anxiety to obtain capital has a demoralizing effect on the ruling rates for money. We quote call loans at 7:48 per cent. on Governments and 8:69 per cent. on other collatorals. The banks are casier to day, the drain upon them from the interior having greatly diminished, whilst there is a return current setting in from the South and West which in a few days will relieve the market of all proseurs. Street loans were made at nominal rates varying between 10:615 per cent. for prime bills.
