The Foster-Dion Billiard Contest

EVENING BULLETIN. Wednesday, April 7, 1869.

The Legislature yesterday offered the largest remium for murder that has yet been atmpted, by the passage of a bill leaving the fliction of the death penalty to the discretion of the Governor. Considering the magnitude of the interests involved, this bill may well be set down as the most dangerous piece of legislation of the present session. The remiums already offered for the commission f murder are very great. The chances of escaping detection through the clumsiness of our police system; the chances of a packed jury-box; the chances of fabricated evidence; he chances of appeals from judicial decisions: the chances of misguided public sympathy: the chances of reprieves and pardons; the chances of escape from prison; all these are premiums which are ready offered for the shedding of human blood. The only fixed barrier that has hitherto been interposed is the inflexible ouirement of the law itself. The Governor of the State needs this barrier. He is, ordinarily, a humane man. The pressure brought to bear upon him, in every case, no matter dividual responsibility of executing the extreme penalty of the law should not be thrown upon the Governor. It puts the burden of hanging the murderer upon the indien to be Governor, by inviting him to im-our statute books. It is a move in the direcion of an abatement of the penalty of murler, and it is therefore a move in the wrong irection. Governor Geary's suggestion, last winter, is the true one. Where special cases arise, as they may, ecasionally, requiring the interposition of be obtained by the Governor from the Legisa law as this in operation, there will be very few murderers in Pennsylvania who will not be able to work on the feelings of any Governor sufficiently to obtain a commutation of office. It is a comfortable hope, and one to the realization of which all good men should contribute according to their opportunities. It is easy for honest men to sustain honest officials, except under one condition of affairs. It cometimes comes to pass that such officials, in the strict discharge of their duties, are compelled to make decisions or to except laws which are adverse to the opinion, or the interests of the very men or the interests of the very men of the interests of the very men either by a direct vote, or through the interverse would be a comforted to his discretion and judgment, to use said money in maintaining prace with the lindane, promoting their civilization, plucing them, where practicable, on reservations, pluc who, but tor these personal interests, would be foremost in upholding all such honest of the House is in precise accordance with the

One of the General Appraisers of the Philadelphia Custom-House is our well-known fellow-citizen, Mr. Lorin Biodgett. It is not in any invidious spirit that we refer to that gentleman as one of cur 'honest officials." Our Washington correspondence, as published in the second edition of yesterday's paper, conained some inaccuracies concerning the visit to Washington of our influential citizens, who were pleading for the civilization of the Indian. On their return we gave in our editorial columns an accurate account of the object and effect of their visit; we will therefore now only refer to that by our correspondent, that the en-President and the Secretary of the Interior if it as you thought, and you thought it wouldn't would be agreeable to them that the President | cost anything to make them up. Exectal Despatch to the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin. WASHINGTON, April 7.—Despatches from Rear-Admiral Hoff, dated Hayana, March 31st, have been received by the Navy Department. In pursuance of instructions, he was about taking steps ir vestigate the case of the American Mary Lowell, seized in British waters, in he understood from the English and General that the matter was in hands of Bettiff anytherities. The English Consul the British authorities. The English Consul General has received in reply to his demand for families, who are in the interior, and for whom he had asked a safe conduct to Neuvitas through the Spanish lines. The Captain-General of Citya promptly compiled with the request and issued he nicessary orders.
The want of vessels prevented Admiral Hoff from affording transportation to these people to Hayann, from which point they could easily reach the United States. If, however, they could find their way to the coast through the lines of both Cubans and Spanairds, he hoped to be able to return them at an early day.

Mr. Codrington, Consul at Jibara, on the northern coast of Cuba, who had been arrested by the ern coast of Choa, who had seen arreated by the Spanish authorities on a specion of conspiring against the Government, had been released at the instance of Admiral Hoff and the Vice Consul General at Havana.

The distribution of vessels in the North Atlantic The distribution of vessels in the North Attautic Squadron is as follows:—Contoocook (fiag-ship), at Havana; Narraganeett, at Key West; Penob-scot, at Trinidad, south side of Cuba; Nipsic, at sea, on her way from Aspinwall to relieve the Penobscot; Gettysburg, at Aspinwall, having re-lieved the Nipsic on the 24th uit. Billiard Match.

Montheal, April 7.—The great billiard match took place last evening, at Mechanics' Hall, between Joe Dion and Melvin Foster. It was a match for 1.200 points, push shot, crotch barred, on a second sized carom table, for $1,000 a side. The umpires were Coris. O'Conner for Foster and Cyrille Dion for Joe. Referee, George Phelan. This was the third and deciding game, each winning one of two former games. The betting all slong was slightly in favor of Dion. An immense crowd was present, among whom were a large number of New Yarkers, 109 majority of whom backed their man with spirit. The contest was very keen, and the excitement intense. Magnificent play was made on both sides. On the eighth inning the game stood neck and neck, and even bets of $50 and $100 being freely made.

The cell of Twitchell was next visited. He had just taken a farewell leave of his brothers and of young McCully, who was his steadfast friend daring his protracted trial. The parting was very affecting, and all wept bitterly. Twitchell became somewhat composed after the departure of his relatives, and greeted our reporter kindly. He as pears to have lost much of that firmness which characterized him during his trial and since his between the condemned man and our re-porter. Twitchell said that he was as well as any man could be under the circumstances, and that he has suffered all that a person in his position could suffer. Nothing was said about the murder for which he is to pay the penalty to-morrow.

Rev. J. Wheaton Smith was among the visitors to the cell of Twitchell this morning.

THE COURTS.

District Court—Judge Stroud.—Besjamin F. Wright, John F. Shermer and James M. Stewart. Building Inspectors of the city of Philadelphia, vs. Robert H. Beatty and Frederick A. Luttman. vs. Robert H. Beatty and Frederick A. Luttman.

This was a re-trial of the case involving a question of the violation of the act of. Assembly probibiting the use of chairs in aisles or passage ways in places of amusement. The case was tried once before, when the jury falled to agree. It is alleged on the part of the plaintiff that on the occasion of the first reading given by Mrs. Kemble at Concert Hall, the passage ways were filled with chairs, obstructing passage ways were filled with chairs, obstructing the movements of persons in the audience; also, that one of the doors of exit was closed, in violaasked in rigard to the number of doors of en-trance and exit. He commenced to state that there was one on the western front of the Hall, ther this door applied only to the concert from and not the building. The counsel for the plaintiff objected to any interference; the counsel for took the examination from both gentlemen, ang gentling that the case ought to be tried by "com mon sense" and reason.
