THE LAST BUNGLE. From the night when the Hill murder was committed, until the coroner's inquest upon the body of Twitchell was concluded, there has I cen a steady succession of the most huniliating and remarkable blunders. The poremovements on the fatal night formed the first grave blunder, from the effect of which the cause of justice has never recovered. The delay of the prosecuting attorney in entering instantly upon an investigation of the premisee was the next blunder. The theory of the bence by which a murder in the first derree was admitted at the out-set, was another lunder. The hasty trial of Mrs. Twitchell and its equally hasty abandonment was another fficials in permitting Twitchell to poison bimself, after they were fully notified of his intention, was the worst blunder of all, unless we except the hasty and imperfect investigation of the Coroner. Finally, as if there were some special fatality that required everybody connected with the case to commit some blunder, the undertaker carried the suicide's body to the house of Eston by mistake, and left it there, until this crown ng stupidity was discovered and rectified. The history of this case, with all its misanagements and mistakes, ought to impress he public mind with the fact that our Ameican administration of justice in crimical cases is wofully deficient, uncertain and un afe. The whole standard of the detective nt has not been, educated to an equality with the best police systems of Europe. Our Courts are much above the American average; and our prison system and practice are much hetter than are be found in most parts of the country. And yet it is impossible to read the proceedings before the Coroner's jury on Saturday without being impressed with the fact that both the system and practice of Moyamenting Prison are far from what they ought to be. Twitchell announced his intention to commit suicide the day before he did the deed. The fact was made known to the officers of the prison, and a keeper was ordered to search the cell. It was known that he suicide was to be committed by taking poison, and accordingly this sagacious keeper emoved the pitcher, spoon and plate, and one or two similarly deadly weapons, but emitted the little precaution of searching the prisoner altogether. And yet Di Butcher tells us that he thinks all proper pre cautions were taken to prevent suicide! We heartily endorse the suggestion made by the Ledger this morning, that this matters should not be permitted to rest here. The

We can spare him and his supporters very readily It would be cheaper, too, than a continuation of his paper. To be sure, publication does not cost a great deal, for his columns are filled with dolorous and complaining article: taken from Copperhead papers, the opinions of which he chooses to accept as indicative of popular sentiment. But paper and print ing cost something, and unless he has Na poleon at his back, and is striving to estab lish an Empire here, in which he-the afore said editor-may be Emperor, he will do well to disband and begin life in a more hopeful manner. If he is fond of difficult and sensational schemes, we would suggest as an easier enterprise the introduction of a fex Chinese missionaries to this country and the organization of an effort to convert the whole American nation to josh worship and a reverence for nine-headed idols. The New York Money Market. [Special Despatch to the Philads. Evening Bulletin.]
NEW YORK, April 12 — The money market opened without excitement at 7 per cent. colo to per cent, currency, and 1 32 and commission, and 1-16 flot. As high as 1-16@% has been pild for turning New York Central, although the balance of the listings been turned at 1-32.

The receipts of currency at this point being in excess of the shipments to adjacent points, the banks are gradually assuming an easier po-stilon. The stringency at present is more aggravated by the locking-up of cold. Discounts are dull at 10@12 per cent. The gold market has shown less firmuess than on aturday, and has declined from 1331/4 to 133 on netive transactions. Early borrowers of gold were compelled to pay 5-16 for its use, but on the srival of the City of Brooklyn with £270,000 in cold, the supply for gold room transactions was augmented, when the scale turned in the opposit augment d., when the scale turned in the opposite direction, and 1-32 was paid for having balances carried. Exchange is dail at 107% for prime barkers' 60 days bills.

Governments, especially '62s, were more strong at the batter tone of at the opening, response to the better tone of the London market, and sold as high as 120%. O'd '66s sympathized, and advanced to 117% The activity in '62s was owing to the demand to cover the short interests, and the bonds were so scarce as to lend flat. At the later board the whole market fell off 1/2 @1/2 per cent; the 62's tumbled % per cent. to 120. Stocks have been dull and devoid of interest. At
