	/ P	We quarreled this morning, wife and I— We were out of temper, and scarce knew why,
1		But to look in our eyes you'd have sworn that we
		Not a wedded man and woman.
	- Automatical	Wife, like a tragedy-queen in a play, 'lorsed her sweet little head in as lofty a way 'As so little a woman was able; As so little a woman was able;
	Į.	As so little a woman was acc, and a frown, She eleuched her lips with a sneer and a frown, While I, being rougher, stamped up and down, Like a careless groom in a stable.
		You'd have thought'us the bitterest (seeing up
		Of little women and little men, You'd have laughed at our spite and passion; And would never have dreamed that a storm like this
		Would be rainbow'd to tears by that sunlight, a kies, Till we talked in the old fond fashion.
		Yet the storm was over in less than an hour, And was followed soon by a sunny shower,
		Yet so little the meaning was understood,
		And wore a bluen on our laces.
		And tried to bear the whole weight of the bridge, By her kindness, her self-reproving; When seeing her humble, and knowing her true,
		And very contrite and loving.
,		Eut eccing I acted a humble part, She laughed outright with a frolic heart— A laugh as carpless as Cupid; And the laughter wrangled along my brain,
		Till I almost felt in a passion again, And became quite stubborn and stupid.
		And this was the time for her arms to twine Around this stubborn neck of mine, Like the arms of a maid round a lover; warmth, you
	· indiana	And feeling them there, with them with the brow,
		The storm (as I cance at) was over to please
