Here comes a Bunion, there a Gout-Neuralgia leaves the face; And Rheumatiam goes right out At Wolooff's iree cure place.

Pump ladiammation out, they say,
The watch ward overywhere;
Don't suffer pain a single day,
But go to Chatham square,

By turns you laugh, and then you cry, To see the sick folks there; The thousands that PAIN PAINT apply, That go to Chatham square.

A lady having lost each bone
Within her NOSE, applied
Wolcourt's placa, where she was shown.
It was too late—she cried.

She had Catabbu a core of years, And yet she never knew 'Twas this disease—shed bitter tears When Wolcorr told her true.

Ten years had lost the sense of smell, And fifteen years Catarrh; His sight and hearing hurs as well, While ulcers Theoar did mar.

And then one dozen pints he bought-

Annihilator pure—
Of Wolcott, for Catarrh he sought
And found a speedy cure.

Well-known he is: none stand more high, But yet to Wolcorr said; I never know Catarrh was nigh 'Till I your statements read.

And found a speedy cure.

His smell was perfect in three weeks:
In six his throat was healed:
Fine voice returned, and now he speaks;
Good singing power reveals.

BE ON YOUR GUARD.

Drive out these Demons from thy frame, Walt not another hour. But free thyself from all thy pain, Belleve! Thou hast the power.

The dread Catarrh Consumption broods, She flatters but to kill, Perhaps with silence sows her seeds, But works our ruin still.

But works our run sum.

DE. Wot cort is a man of business.— He has been in the same office nearly six years, and folks know just where to find nim. He has no time to visit see courses or base ball marches—hardly time to enatch a lunch. People of common sense know that he means just what he says, it has too much honor to make a single false statement.

It is needless for us to ctate the success he has already achieved in the sa's of his old standard remedy, the ANMILLADE, universally patronized for Catarrh and colds in the head, which is to day the only leading and reliable remedy for that loathcome yet universal complaint. Still

Mr. Abbott. Mr. Abbott writes a letter to Senstor Wilson is undoubtedly on the popuhar side, but he is not on the side of a sound whether you intended to apply any of the political economy or of sound common sense, above offensive language to myself." Whereand his argument, in which it may fairly be upon, "Spraguey," whose "mongrel puppy presumed that he puts his best foot foremost, and mastiff" story was prefaced with the reis a most inconclusive and unsatisfactory one. It is an argument for class legislation, which is, in its very essence, contrary to the whole spirit of our Republican institutions. While he avows that "capital needs no champion," he argues in favor of creating a class in America with privileges such as capital has never claimed. Capital has never claimed the right to reduce the amount of its investments and, at the same time, to receive the same income from them as before. Capital has æever claimed that the man who embarks half of his fortune in business enterprises shall enjoy the same profits as he who ventures three-quarters or the whole of it. But s a most inconclusive and unsatisfactory one. | mark that he told it "in answer to the tirade of tures three-quarters or the whole of it. But this is precisely what Senator Wilson's argument demands for Labor. It pretends to assent that men will do as much or even more work in eight hours than in ten hours. and upon this absurd proposition it is argued that they should therefore be paid the same wages. Granting Mr. Wilson's premises, the Island. It appears that in his wholesale ti-
